U.N. SHELVES RED CHINA SEAT BID

Stevenson Asks New Disarmament Effort

Demo Leader Urges Nation Take Initiative

Says Cold War Being Won But Warns U. S. Must Remain On Alert

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson called tonight for new efforts at world disarmament and "durable assurances of non-aggression" for Russia and all the world.

"The door to the conference room," Stevenson said, "is the door to peace. Let it never be said that America was reluctant to enter."

The former Illinois governor spoke to a nationwide radio and television audience after what he said was the "sobering experience" of a trip to 26 nations and conferences with numerous world leaders.

He reported tonight to the people at home that step by step "we are winning the cold war." But he continued that "This is no time to wobble or lower our guard," no time to "go it alone."

Stevenson warned, too, against disarmament by America alone, and he said we seem to be "taking the initiative in unilateral disarmament."

World Conditions Better

Stevenson said that world conditions are better and hope is in the air. He said there is admiration for America in other countries but also misunderstandings and concern.

Whatever commitments we make to European allies to back up assurances of non-aggression must be on a long-term basis, he advised.

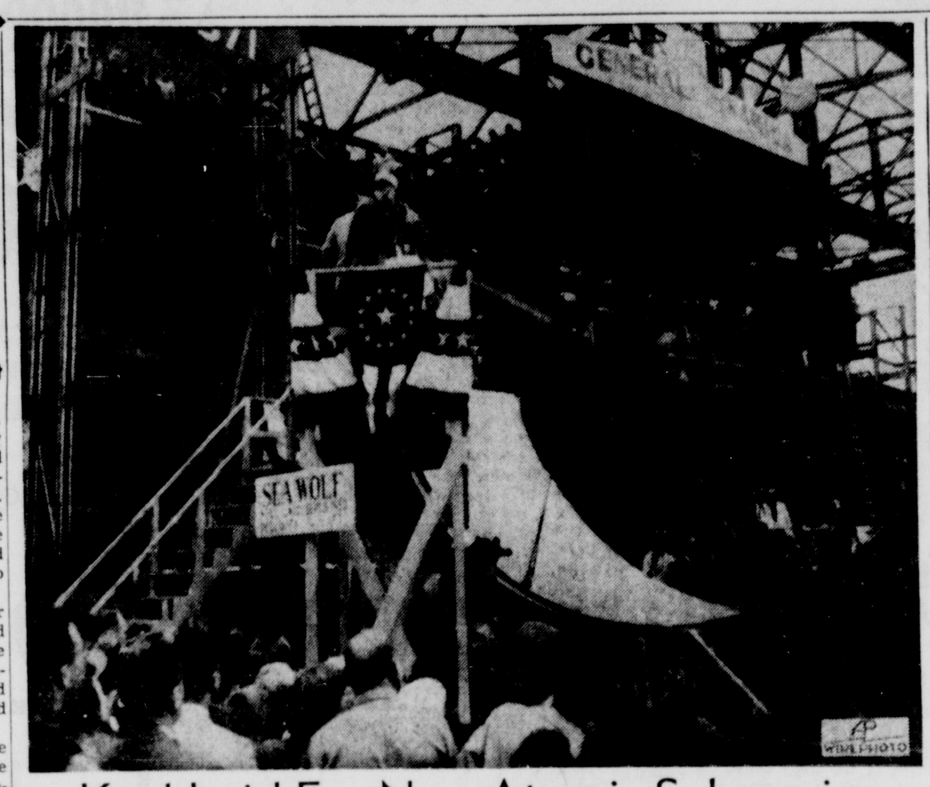
"For there is anxiety," he set forth in a prepared text, "lest the shaping of our policy may be slipping from the respected hands of President Eisenhower into the hands of the men less concerned with strengthening our alliances abroad than with appeasing our isolationists at home."

At the moment, the hydrogen bomb places a grim and pressing urgency on the international situation, Stevenson said. Noting that efforts toward disarmament have been stalemated for years, he declared:

Should Fix Sights High

"Once more, I think we should fix our sights high again, as we did in 1947, and resume the initiative in re-exploring the possibility of disarmament. The alternative to safety through an effective plan for arms limitation is safety through more massive military spending and more frightening weapons development."

Stevenson said frankly he doesn't know whether new approaches to the Kremlin on disarmament would have any more impact now than in the past. Yet, he said, conditions have changed—Russian threats have produced the massing of military power of free peoples and Korea demonstrated the West will meet force with force.



Keel Laid For New Atomic Submarine

This was the scene in Groton, Conn., yesterday as Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson chalked his initials on the first section of the nation's second atomic-powered submarine, the USS Sea Wolf. Secretary Anderson spoke at the keel-laying ceremonies. In the background is the first nuclear-powered undersea craft, the USS Nautilus, which Anderson said would have her builder's trials "very soon."

Ike's Aide Calls Stevenson Blast 'Sound And Fury'

DENVER, Sept. 15 (AP)—The summer White House today called Adlai E. Stevenson's criticism of the Republican administration "just sound and fury signifying nothing"—and then announced that Stevenson and President Eisenhower will confer in Washington soon.

Former President Truman's latest blast at the Republicans also drew return fire at Eisenhower's headquarters.

"Just a lot of noise," said Miss Bertha Adkins, who is in charge of women's activities for the GOP National Committee.

Adlai To Report On Tour

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced that Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, will report to Eisenhower on the round-the-world trip he recently completed.

Stevenson met with Eisenhower in Washington just before he started the trip. The former Illinois governor said then the President had asked him to come in and report when he got back.

Hagerty told newsmen today that Eisenhower recently renewed the invitation and that the Democratic leader has agreed to meet with the President in Washington soon. Eisenhower will end his Colorado vacation Friday or Saturday and fly back to the capital.

Date To Be Set Later

A date for the Eisenhower-Stevenson session will be set after the President returns to the White House.

The comment on Stevenson's criticism of the Eisenhower administration came from Hagerty.

At a Democratic rally in Chicago last night, Stevenson accused the administration of putting things off—of running a "government by postponement."

Truman told the same rally a "wrecking crew" is "undermining and tearing down" in Washington, and that Democrats must keep America and the world from "the road to ruin."

Atomic Cannon Will Be Deployed To Europe Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — A battalion of 280 mm. mobile guns, capable of firing atomic shells, will be sent to Europe shortly.

Announcing this today, Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens described the 280 mm. guns as the Army's "latest and largest" field artillery weapon.

Stevens said the battalion will be deployed to Europe for use in support of the North Atlantic treaty defense forces under Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

The 868th Field Artillery Bn. Ft. Bragg, N. C. will be the first of several 280 mm. battalions sent to Europe, Stevens said, adding that the battalions will be assigned to U. S. units already on the continent.

French Retake Command Posts

HANOI, Indochina, Sept. 15 (AP)—French Union troops, getting set to meet a new Vietminh offensive, have captured two command posts seized by the Communist-led rebels in their abortive drive on the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang last April, the French high command announced today.

Pak Seng, on the Nam Suong river 40 miles northeast of the capital fell Sunday as its three-battalion garrison retreated northward toward the frontier of Viet Nam. The other post, Muong Sung on the Nam Hou river, was taken today.

Though most of the Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's men withdrew from Laos last spring, perhaps on orders from the Kremlin, some stayed behind on potential invasion routes to southern Laos and the kingdom of Cambodia.

Two Members Of Cabinet Urge Aid Slowdown

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—One Eisenhower Cabinet member called today for an end to "international handouts and global boondoggling," while another questioned the use of U. S. funds to build up "competitive enterprise" abroad.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey addressed a meeting of the Senate Banking Committee and a 100-man advisory group studying means of financing the expansion of world trade.

Loans Instead Of Grants

They indicated that bank loans and private investments more and more must replace U. S. grants in promoting trade and providing economic help to foreign countries.

Humphrey said that "The government must question both its right and its financial ability to continue to use taxpayers' money to finance investments abroad on a large scale in the development of competitive enterprise."

And he added that "more attention must be paid abroad to making investment attractive to foreign capital."

Weeks said the 55-nation World Bank and the U. S. Export-Import Bank should be made more useful in strengthening the economies of friendly foreign nations.

Senators Study Problem

That went to the core of the problem which the Senate committee is studying. The group was directed by Congress last June to study activities of the two banks "and their relationship to expansion of international trade."

Humphrey indicated the U. S. government is nearing the limit on its foreign aid spending.

"Our scale of taxation is already too high," he said, "and to maintain a sound and honest dollar we must bring our own expenditures and revenues into balance. We must continue to examine most carefully every proposal to spend money, whether it is a proposal for spending at home or abroad."

Law Officers Deplore Civilian Defense Lag

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The National Institute of Municipal Law Officers said today American cities are ill prepared and becoming apathetic toward civil defense despite Russia's claim of having mastered the secret of the hydrogen bomb.

The institute's Civil Defense Committee, in a report at the organization's annual meeting here, also declared:

"The greatest responsibility that public officials have today is to make sure that Congress does not continue its pessimism, apathy and complacency with a policy of drift in the hope that the evil spectre of destruction will somehow blow away."

The report, filed by Paul T. Dwyer, corporation counsel of Detroit, said some cities may abandon their civil defense programs entirely for lack of enough federal financial help.

Thinkers Subject To Most Headaches, Surgeons Told

The aches don't come from wear and tear or pain or surprise over thinking up thoughts—that is, not from the actual process of thinking.

Rather they come from what the thinker does. He reads more, uses eyes more, often works with neck muscles under strain, said Dr. Francis L. Lederer, otolaryngologist of the University of Illinois.

The thinker has more time to build up all kinds of tensions, less chance to work them out by exercise, he said. The non-thinker is usually "too busy with routine work, has no time for headaches."

"Thinkers take in more wavelengths" from events and thoughts around them, have more chance for unconscious anxieties, added Dr. Arnold P. Friedman, director of the headache clinic at Montefiore Hospital here.

Headaches were discussed by experts from seven branches of medicine at a roundtable before the International College of Surgeons.

Eight to 12 million Americans suffer from recurrent headaches, Dr. Friedman estimated. He says he doesn't feel there is any specific personality type marking sufferers from migraine headaches, often called the worst headaches, or from tension or other forms of headache.

There are many possible causes of headaches, including physical health, stress and strain of life, emotions, the kind of job or marriage a person has.

Allies Press For Red Reply To POW Accounting Demand

Democrats Bury Loyalty Issue At Rally Windup

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—Democrats buried their North-South loyalty issue today under a mantle of seeming harmony and accused President Eisenhower of running out on 1952 campaign promises to the farmer.

The attempt to heal party wounds and the farm front salvo against the GOP wound up a two-day national rally that laid out issues for the 1954 election and cemented Democratic plans to try to win back control of Congress.

Not All Harmony

It wasn't all harmony today. Democratic farm experts feuded a bit among themselves over what kind of price support farmers ought to have. But they teamed together solidly in charging Eisenhower's "golden promises" to agriculture have turned into "tarnished brass."

Ex-President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the party presidential nominee last year, stayed away from most of the last round of committee sessions and panel discussions at the conference. Stevenson was busy polishing up his major non-partisan address to the nation tonight on his recent six weeks trip around the world.

Loyalty Issue Buried

The Democratic National Committee disposed of the so-called loyalty pledge at least until 1956, by adopting unanimously a resolution to hand the issue to a special committee for study.

The loyalty pledge shoved through the 1952 Democratic national convention by a band of Northerners required delegates to use all honorable means to get the party ticket on the ballots back home under the Democratic label. It was intended to prevent rebellious Southerners from putting a rival slate in the field, as they did in 1948, and depriving the regular party nominees of the Democratic tag.

Egypt Royalist Plot Uncovered

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 15 (AP) — Egypt's minister of national guidance told a thunderously cheering crowd of 100,000 tonight that a conspiracy to restore the monarchy had been uncovered and conspirators would be named within 48 hours.

An army group under Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib deposed King Farouk July 26, 1952, and formally declared Egypt a republic last June 18.

Today's rally was called to announce an ambitious new economic program for Egypt and to announce again that Britain must abandon the Suez.

Naguib, now president-premier of the republic, was on the platform as Guidance Minister Salah Salem spoke. The throng shouted "Death to traitors!"

Salah Salem told the crowd gathered in Republic Square that the conspiracy planned to use disgruntled young army officers to achieve its aim. He said they hoped to have a king back by the end of 1954.

Instead, he declared, a three-member court of Revolutionary Council members has been named to try them. Sentences will be handed out in the name of the Revolutionary Council instead of in the name of the Republic.

Glen Burnie Voters Reject Incorporation

GLEN BURNIE, Md., Sept. 15 (AP) — Glen Burnie voters, by a 3 to 1 margin, today decided against incorporating this northern Anne Arundel County as a city.

Ninety per cent of the community's registered voters turned out for the balloting, with 1,380 voting against incorporation and 451 voting for it.

Former Labor Mediator Went To Red Meetings

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — James McNamara, who quit last week as a $9,800-a-year government labor mediator at Cincinnati, testified today he attended "10 to 20" Communist meetings during the late 1930's.

A subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee asked him if he were a Communist party member.

"Yes," he replied, "if one can belong to a church and not believe what it teaches, then I was a member of the Communist party."

Paid Dues "Once Or Twice"

Asked if he felt he was a Communist at the time he attended the meetings, he said "ideologically I did not. I was organizing a labor union. I was new to this business of organizing and I accepted help wherever I could find it."

He said he did not believe he ever received a Communist party membership card, but recalled paying dues "once or twice."

At the time—1937-39—he was an organizer for an AFL Hotel Employes Union, Local 80, in Washington, he said. In 1938, he continued, he was named international vice president of this union, with Communist help.

Cleared By Loyalty Boards

That was several years before he entered the government mediation service in 1942, a job in which he helped settle labor disputes between unions and private industry.

During his government career, he said, he was cleared three times by loyalty review boards. In each case, he said, he denied Communist affiliations.

Subcommittee Chairman Scherer (R-Ohio) sought to obtain the official files regarding McNamara's clearance, but both Whitley McCloy, mediation service director, and Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission asked more time to decide whether the committee could properly get the files.

Answer Expected At Meeting Today

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, Sept. 16 (AP)—The United Nations Command expects a Communist reply today on the explosive issue of 3,404 Allied prisoners, including more than 900 Americans, believed still held in Red captivity.

Communist propaganda broadcasts have called the list "faked," indicating the Reds will reject the Allied demand for an accounting.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, chief Allied representative on the Joint Military Armistice Commission meeting, was due to press for the Communist reply at a commission meeting set for 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Tuesday, EST).

Van Fleet's Son On List

Among some 944 Americans on the list was Capt. James A. Van Fleet Jr., missing flier son of the former U. S. 8th Army Commander.

(In New York, Gen. Van Fleet said "Mrs. Van Fleet and I naturally entertain great hopes that he might be reported and released."

("I believe," he added "there are easily 3,000 U. N. prisoners who have not been accounted for and whom the Communists should know about—dead or alive—and the Communists should be held by the U. N. for strict accounting.")

Hadjukiewicz Matter Closed

Bryan said in a note to the Reds Tuesday that the Allied Command refused to return Jan Hadjukiewicz, a Polish interpreter for a truce inspection team who fled to freedom last week and was granted political asylum.

The U. N. truce commissioner rejected the charge of Maj. Gen. Wagrowski of Poland that Hadjukiewicz was kidnaped. He noted it was a traditional policy of the United States and other democracies to give asylum to political refugees and said "The matter is considered closed."

Hurricane 800 Miles From Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 15 (AP) — Hurricane Edna whipped the Atlantic with 125-mile per hour winds today as it moved northwestward near Turks Island, some 800 miles from the Florida mainland.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the storm was moving 18 miles an hour, rather fast for a tropical hurricane. At that forward speed it was not expected to gain much in intensity for the next few hours.

Edna, fifth tropical storm of the year, contained its strongest winds over a small area north of its center. Gales extended out 150 miles toward the northeast and 60 miles in other quadrants.

Its center was located 180 miles northeast of Turks Island at 5 p.m.

"There is some indication that the storm is turning toward a course north of northwest," forecasters said in a 5 p.m. (EST) advisory. This was their way of saying an expected recurve apparently had begun, but indications were still indefinite.

Wagner Leads Impellitteri In New York Demo Primary

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—So-called New Deal candidate Robert F. Wagner Jr. took a lead over incumbent Vincent R. Impellitteri as first returns poured in from today's Democratic mayoral primary.

On the basis of returns from 365 of the city's 4,392 election districts Wagner led by 17,300 to 13,818. A hundred of the districts reporting were from Queens County, where the Democratic leadership supported Impellitteri.

The result of the election was not expected to be known until late, although voting appeared to be lighter than the record 800,000 cast in 1937.

The polls were open from 2 to 9 p.m. (EST).

Because there were too many secondary candidates for machines to handle, paper ballots were put in use and these always slow up the tabulation.

Impellitteri forecast a plurality of 175,000 to 200,000 in his favor; the Wagner camp claimed a 230,000 plurality in the opposite direction.

There were 2,135,000 New Yorkers registered as Democrats and eligible to vote. But the bitterly contested primary campaign failed to arouse the general public.

The winner will carry the Democratic banner into the Nov. 3 general city election against three other candidates of the Liberal, Republican and American Labor parties. The latter candidates had no opposition in the primary.

Also seeking the Democratic nomination—but conceded little chance—were Robert B. Blaikie, an insurgent Tammany Hall leader, and Municipal Court Justice John C. Sullivan.

U. S. Proposal Is Approved By 44-10 Vote

Russia Is Rebuffed; India's Mrs. Pandit Is Elected President

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—A United States resolution shelving all proposals to seat Red China in the United Nations this year was approved, 44-10 by the General Assembly today in a heated opening session.

The delegates also voted 35-11, against balloting at the first session on a move by the Soviet delegation to toss out Nationalist China and give the Peiping regime a seat.

The delegates then elected Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, as president of the 60-nation Assembly. She defeated Prince Wan Waithayakon, of Thailand, 37-22. The United States and Britain voted for the slight, grey-haired Indian delegate, who became the first woman ever to head the General Assembly.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky engaged in a verbal duel over Vishinsky's resolution seeking to seat Red China.

Vishinsky Disregards Custom

Vishinsky made his move nine minutes after the Assembly was convened by Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign secretary who was president of the last General Assembly. Customarily the first day is devoted to ballots for president and committee chairmen but Vishinsky strode to the rostrum when Pearson delivered his farewell speech and introduced the controversial resolution.

Pearson had called for the voting on the new president when Vishinsky, in the rear of the hall, got the floor. The hall, packed with delegates and public, grew silent.

The Soviet delegate said the true representatives of the Chinese people are not present. He said the situation was "abnormal and intolerable" and he put before the delegates his formal resolution to seat the Red Chinese.

Pearson Recognizes Dulles

T. F. Tsiang, of Nationalist China, waved his hand to speak but Pearson instead recognized Dulles. Dulles opened with his formal proposal that the Assembly postpone for the duration of the 8th Session, for the current year, the consideration of any proposals to unseat the representatives of the Nationalist Chinese or to seat representatives of the "so-called Central People's Government" to represent the Republic of China.

Dulles said the Chinese Communists intervened in Korea as aggressors but an armistice was finally concluded.

"But the armistice has not solved all the problems that were created by the Communist aggression in Korea," he said.

Dulles said his motion dealt with the current year and should not be interpreted as an indication that the United States expects to change its position after the current year.

Clamor For AFL Peace Increases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — Fear of a possible lag in employment spurred American Federation of Labor unions today into a growing clamor for some system of solving disputes between rival AFL groups.

The problem, pointed up by the brief but angry walkout of the big carpenters union from the AFL last month, is expected to be one of the prime issues coming before the AFL's annual convention in St. Louis next week.

The carpenters returned to the AFL last week, but the bothersome craft dispute remains unsettled, even though the AFL leadership has promised convention action.

The current issue of the AFL Building and Construction Trades Department "Bulletin" carries an appeal from Richard Gray, department president, for quick action in establishing dispute-settling machinery.

Customarily the first day is devoted to ballots for president and committee chairmen but Vishinsky strode to the rostrum when Pearson delivered his farewell speech and introduced the controversial resolution.

Pearson had called for the voting on the new president when Vishinsky, in the rear of the hall, got the floor. The hall, packed with delegates and public, grew silent.

The Soviet delegate said the true representatives of the Chinese people are not present. He said the situation was "abnormal and intolerable" and he put before the delegates his formal resolution to seat the Red Chinese.

Pearson Recognizes Dulles

T. F. Tsiang, of Nationalist China, waved his hand to speak but Pearson instead recognized Dulles. Dulles opened with his formal proposal that the Assembly postpone for the duration of the 8th Session, for the current year, the consideration of any proposals to unseat the representatives of the Nationalist Chinese or to seat representatives of the "so-called Central People's Government" to represent the Republic of China.

Dulles said the Chinese Communists intervened in Korea as aggressors but an armistice was finally concluded.

"But the armistice has not solved all the problems that were created by the Communist aggression in Korea," he said.

Dulles said his motion dealt with the current year and should not be interpreted as an indication that the United States expects to change its position after the current year.

Ike's Aide Calls Stevenson Blast 'Sound And Fury'

DENVER, Sept. 15 (AP)—The summer White House today called Adlai E. Stevenson's criticism of the Republican administration "just sound and fury signifying nothing"—and then announced that Stevenson and President Eisenhower will confer in Washington soon.

Former President Truman's latest blast at the Republicans also drew return fire at Eisenhower's headquarters.

"Just a lot of noise," said Miss Bertha Adkins, who is in charge of women's activities for the GOP National Committee.

Adlai To Report On Tour

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced that Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, will report to Eisenhower on the round-the-world trip he recently completed.

Stevenson met with Eisenhower in Washington just before he started the trip. The former Illinois governor said then the President had asked him to come in and report when he got back.

Hagerty told newsmen today that Eisenhower recently renewed the invitation and that the Democratic leader has agreed to meet with the President in Washington soon. Eisenhower will end his Colorado vacation Friday or Saturday and fly back to the capital.

Date To Be Set Later

A date for the Eisenhower-Stevenson session will be set after the President returns to the White House.

The comment on Stevenson's criticism of the Eisenhower administration came from Hagerty.

At a Democratic rally in Chicago last night, Stevenson accused the administration of putting things off—of running a "government by postponement."

Truman told the same rally a "wrecking crew" is "undermining and tearing down" in Washington, and that Democrats must keep America and the world from "the road to ruin."

Atomic Cannon Will Be Deployed To Europe Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — A battalion of 280 mm. mobile guns, capable of firing atomic shells, will be sent to Europe shortly.

Announcing this today, Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens described the 280 mm. guns as the Army's "latest and largest" field artillery weapon.

Stevens said the battalion will be deployed to Europe for use in support of the North Atlantic treaty defense forces under Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

The 868th Field Artillery Bn. Ft. Bragg, N. C. will be the first of several 280 mm. battalions sent to Europe, Stevens said, adding that the battalions will be assigned to U. S. units already on the continent.

French Retake Command Posts

HANOI, Indochina, Sept. 15 (AP)—French Union troops, getting set to meet a new Vietminh offensive, have captured two command posts seized by the Communist-led rebels in their abortive drive on the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang last April, the French high command announced today.

Pak Seng, on the Nam Suong river 40 miles northeast of the capital fell Sunday as its three-battalion garrison retreated northward toward the frontier of Viet Nam. The other post, Muong Sung on the Nam Hou river, was taken today.

Though most of the Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's men withdrew from Laos last spring, perhaps on orders from the Kremlin, some stayed behind on potential invasion routes to southern Laos and the kingdom of Cambodia.

Two Members Of Cabinet Urge Aid Slowdown

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—One Eisenhower Cabinet member called today for an end to "international handouts and global boondoggling," while another questioned the use of U. S. funds to build up "competitive enterprise" abroad.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey addressed a meeting of the Senate Banking Committee and a 100-man advisory group studying means of financing the expansion of world trade.

Loans Instead Of Grants

They indicated that bank loans and private investments more and more must replace U. S. grants in promoting trade and providing economic help to foreign countries.

Humphrey said that "The government must question both its right and its financial ability to continue to use taxpayers' money to finance investments abroad on a large scale in the development of competitive enterprise."

And he added that "more attention must be paid abroad to making investment attractive to foreign capital."

Weeks said the 55-nation World Bank and the U. S. Export-Import Bank should be made more useful in strengthening the economies of friendly foreign nations.

Senators Study Problem

That went to the core of the problem which the Senate committee is studying. The group was directed by Congress last June to study activities of the two banks "and their relationship to expansion of international trade."

Humphrey indicated the U. S. government is nearing the limit on its foreign aid spending.

"Our scale of taxation is already too high," he said, "and to maintain a sound and honest dollar we must bring our own expenditures and revenues into balance. We must continue to examine most carefully every proposal to spend money, whether it is a proposal for spending at home or abroad."

Egypt Royalist Plot Uncovered

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 15 (AP) — Egypt's minister of national guidance told a thunderously cheering crowd of 100,000 tonight that a conspiracy to restore the monarchy had been uncovered and conspirators would be named within 48 hours.

An army group under Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib deposed King Farouk July 26, 1952, and formally declared Egypt a republic last June 18.

Today's rally was called to announce an ambitious new economic program for Egypt and to announce again that Britain must abandon the Suez.

Naguib, now president-premier of the republic, was on the platform as Guidance Minister Salah Salem spoke. The throng shouted "Death to traitors!"

Salah Salem told the crowd gathered in Republic Square that the conspiracy planned to use disgruntled young army officers to achieve its aim. He said they hoped to have a king back by the end of 1954.

Instead, he declared, a three-member court of Revolutionary Council members has been named to try them. Sentences will be handed out in the name of the Revolutionary Council instead of in the name of the Republic.

Hurricane 800 Miles From Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 15 (AP) — Hurricane Edna whipped the Atlantic with 125-mile per hour winds today as it moved northwestward near Turks Island, some 800 miles from the Florida mainland.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the storm was moving 18 miles an hour, rather fast for a tropical hurricane. At that forward speed it was not expected to gain much in intensity for the next few hours.

Edna, fifth tropical storm of the year, contained its strongest winds over a small area north of its center. Gales extended out 150 miles toward the northeast and 60 miles in other quadrants.

Its center was located 180 miles northeast of Turks Island at 5 p.m.

"There is some indication that the storm is turning toward a course north of northwest," forecasters said in a 5 p.m. (EST) advisory. This was their way of saying an expected recurve apparently had begun, but indications were still indefinite.

Clamor For AFL Peace Increases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — Fear of a possible lag in employment spurred American Federation of Labor unions today into a growing clamor for some system of solving disputes between rival AFL groups.

The problem, pointed up by the brief but angry walkout of the big carpenters union from the AFL last month, is expected to be one of the prime issues coming before the AFL's annual convention in St. Louis next week.

The carpenters returned to the AFL last week, but the bothersome craft dispute remains unsettled, even though the AFL leadership has promised convention action.

The current issue of the AFL Building and Construction Trades Department "Bulletin" carries an appeal from Richard Gray, department president, for quick action in establishing dispute-settling machinery.

Thinkers Subject To Most Headaches, Surgeons Told

The aches don't come from wear and tear or pain or surprise over thinking up thoughts—that is, not from the actual process of thinking.

Rather they come from what the thinker does. He reads more, uses eyes more, often works with neck muscles under strain, said Dr. Francis L. Lederer, otolaryngologist of the University of Illinois.

The thinker has more time to build up all kinds of tensions, less chance to work them out by exercise, he said. The non-thinker is usually "too busy with routine work, has no time for headaches."

"Thinkers take in more wavelengths" from events and thoughts around them, have more chance for unconscious anxieties, added Dr. Arnold P. Friedman, director of the headache clinic at Montefiore Hospital here.

Headaches were discussed by experts from seven branches of medicine at a roundtable before the International College of Surgeons.

Eight to 12 million Americans suffer from recurrent headaches, Dr. Friedman estimated. He says he doesn't feel there is any specific personality type marking sufferers from migraine headaches, often called the worst headaches, or from tension or other forms of headache.

There are many possible causes of headaches, including physical health, stress and strain of life, emotions, the kind of job or marriage a person has.

Law Officers Deplore Civilian Defense Lag

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The National Institute of Municipal Law Officers said today American cities are ill prepared and becoming apathetic toward civil defense despite Russia's claim of having mastered the secret of the hydrogen bomb.

The institute's Civil Defense Committee, in a report at the organization's annual meeting here, also declared:

"The greatest responsibility that public officials have today is to make sure that Congress does not continue its pessimism, apathy and complacency with a policy of drift in the hope that the evil spectre of destruction will somehow blow away."

The report, filed by Paul T. Dwyer, corporation counsel of Detroit, said some cities may abandon their civil defense programs entirely for lack of enough federal financial help.

Glen Burnie Voters Reject Incorporation

GLEN BURNIE, Md., Sept. 15 (AP) — Glen Burnie voters, by a 3 to 1 margin, today decided against incorporating this northern Anne Arundel County as a city.

Ninety per cent of the community's registered voters turned out for the balloting, with 1,380 voting against incorporation and 451 voting for it.

Wagner Leads Impellitteri In New York Demo Primary

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—So-called New Deal candidate Robert F. Wagner Jr. took a lead over incumbent Vincent R. Impellitteri as first returns poured in from today's Democratic mayoral primary.

On the basis of returns from 365 of the city's 4,392 election districts Wagner led by 17,300 to 13,818. A hundred of the districts reporting were from Queens County, where the Democratic leadership supported Impellitteri.

The result of the election was not expected to be known until late, although voting appeared to be lighter than the record 800,000 cast in 1937.

The polls were open from 2 to 9 p.m. (EST).

Because there were too many secondary candidates for machines to handle, paper ballots were put in use and these always slow up the tabulation.

Impellitteri forecast a plurality of 175,000 to 200,000 in his favor; the Wagner camp claimed a 230,000 plurality in the opposite direction.

There were 2,135,000 New Yorkers registered as Democrats and eligible to vote. But the bitterly contested primary campaign failed to arouse the general public.

The winner will carry the Democratic banner into the Nov. 3 general city election against three other candidates of the Liberal, Republican and American Labor parties. The latter candidates had no opposition in the primary.

Also seeking the Democratic nomination—but conceded little chance—were Robert B. Blaikie, an insurgent Tammany Hall leader, and Municipal Court Justice John C. Sullivan.

Concern Over Business Prospects Sends Market Down, Brokers Say

Whether Tumble Means Recession Divides Analysts

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—What's the matter with the stock market? Brokers and market observers will tell you without hesitation: It's worried about the outlook for business.

Judging from market averages, investors have been worried on this score since early this year. For with only occasional interruptions, the trend has been downward.

And the slide has gathered momentum in recent weeks, sending hundreds of stocks tumbling to new lows for the year, or for two or three years in some cases. The fact that the market advanced today was looked on by Wall Street observers as a normal reaction following sharp selling waves.

Why the sudden desire to sell? Some brokers say you can find the answer is current industrial news.

"Look at the news we've been getting," comments one broker. "Steel operations are off, automobile plants are cutting back production, oil refineries are trimming output, zinc prices are slipping, and there are heavy inventories of farm implements.

"There's been a lot of talk about a coming recession," he adds. "These things make some people think it's not far off. And so they sell their stocks."

"The principal causes of concern," says Alfred M. Perlin of Hooker & Fay, San Francisco, "appear to be in the heavy inventories in the durable goods section of the market and the fear that a slight letdown in business activity will degenerate into a full-fledged depression."

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. notes an easing of international tensions and remarks: "one of the mainsprings of the business push has been removed—the urgency to prepare for war and to fight a war in Korea."

Does the falling market actually forecast a recession? In the past the market frequently has been hailed as a good barometer of business. But it's a question on which many economists and market analysts are divided.

One government economist in Washington comments while there seemed to be some direct relationship between stock market ups and downs before the war, there now seems to be no relation, or a contrary relation. He cites the decline in the market from 1946 to 1949, while a business boom was on.

Another Washington economist says the fall in market values may hamper business capital expansion plans, but adds that he doesn't believe this will have much effect on present plans for a 27½ billion dollar investment in new plant and equipment this year. Some business expansion, he says, is financed out of capital reserves or through bonds, rather than stock issues.

CANDIDATES WITH EYE TO FUTURE—Robert F. Wagner, Jr., and wife (top) and New York City Mayor and Mrs. Vincent R. Impellitteri (bottom, center) greet school children they encountered as they went to the polls to vote in yesterday's New York mayoralty primary election. State Demo "Harmony" Battle Seen

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15 (AP) — A battle over party harmony for next spring's Democratic primary election appears shaping up for the meeting of Maryland's Young Democrats at Ocean City this weekend.

James C. Morton, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland, said today he expects one of the biggest floor battles of the convention to center on adoption of a "harmony" resolution.

Clubs in at least three counties are reported ready to press for adoption of a resolution calling for the party to settle on a single candidate in advance of the primary and thus avoid intraparty strife in advance of the general election.

At present three men figure to be battling for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore has already announced his candidacy. Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, has stated — without an official announcement—that he will run. And Baltimore contractor George P. Mahoney is regarded as a probable entry.

Morton says he does not believe the Young Democrats will drag the name of any prospective candidate into the resolution. He thinks the main debate will center on what words should be used in the resolution and just how far it would go.

Some leaders feel the party should "draft" a single candidate to go through the formality of a primary and concentrate the major drive against the Republicans next fall.

Morton himself believes in a cautious approach to the subject.

"If we have another knock-down, dragout primary," he said, "the Democrats will be handing the election to Governor McKeldin again.

"But too much in the lodge building to select a single candidate could smack of the smoke-filled room. There is a fine line of distinction between the two extremes. We will have to find it."

Several hundred club delegates, alternates and lookers-on will attend the sessions Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Ocean City.

D'Alesandro will sound the keynote for the opening session. Former Gov. William Preston Lane will deliver the principal speech at the group's banquet.

Dr. Byrd and Mahoney are also expected to be present.

Taylor Authorizes 8th Army To Help Koreans To Rebuild

SEOUL, Wednesday, Sept. 15 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor authorized the 8th Army yesterday to help South Koreans rebuild their war shattered homes, schools and hospitals with technical know-how and army equipment on a voluntary basis.

The 8th Army commander outlined the aid plan, originally suggested by President Eisenhower, in a broadcast to his 16-nation command.

He called for cooperation in an "extensive and carefully planned program of troop aid for Korea" and said:

"In so doing, we are continuing the fight against the Communist enemy in a different but very effective way."

When the plan was broached by Secretary of State Dulles last month there were immediate reverberations in Congress.

The White House promptly announced "There is no intention of using American combat units as labor troops."

Taylor's broadcast Tuesday made clear what the Army has in mind. During the fighting, Taylor said, men and units on their own initiative organized and completed many projects such as schools, churches, orphanages and hospitals.

"This is the sort of thing which I would like to organize and extend," Taylor said.

Czech Regime Is Reorganized On Soviet Lines

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 15 (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia's government reorganized itself today along the latest Soviet lines. Tightening of controls over the police and agriculture was among the effects of a wholesale shift of ministers.

The Prague radio announced the shakeup, which was accompanied by a reorganization in the secretariat of the Czech Communist party.

Security Minister Karol Bacilek and Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek were among the men affected in Premier Vilem Siroky's Cabinet. Nosek was made labor minister. Bacilek, a former deputy premier, was appointed first secretary of the Communist party in the Province of Slovakia.

The Interior and Security Ministries were consolidated under a new interior minister, former Deputy Premier Rudolf Barak. A similar consolidation was made in the Soviet Union after Joseph Stalin's death last March. The combined post was given to Lavrenty P. Beria, who was subsequently purged as a traitor.

Though the Prague radio did not say so, Western observers considered it possible Bacilek and Nosek are held responsible for pro-American riots that broke out in Pilsen, Prague and in Czech mine fields in June.

Eight Bird Dogs Die As Fire Destroys Barn

BROOKSVILLE, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—Eight valuable bird dogs died in a fire which destroyed a barn on a farm near here early today.

C. C. Nick Stephens, a dog trainer who operates the farm, said three of the dogs which he owned were worth $1,500. The others were owned by Baltimore, Silver Spring and Washington residents and were being trained by Stephens. Stephens did not estimate the value of the dogs in training.

Fire Chief Spencer J. H. Brown of the Sandy Spring department estimated damage to the barn and equipment at $3,000 to $5,000. The farm is owned by Louis Perna, Washington stone contractor.

McCarthy Calls On U.N. To Oust "Pal" Of Reds

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) today demanded that the United Nations oust an unidentified high official, an alleged pal of Communists and contributor to Red causes.

"He should be gotten rid of instanter," the senator said, without identifying the man except to say he was an American.

"Regarding questions put to him concerning his alleged Communist activities, that witness had the worst memory of any witness we have had before us to date."

McCarthy claimed the $12,000 a year U. N. Secretariat official did admit friendship with Communists and contributions to Red organizations.

McCarthy added the case will be reported to Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the U. N.

Earlier, the Wisconsin senator had taken time out during a second day of closed hearings here to lunch with Lodge.

"All in all, it was a very enjoyable two hours," McCarthy said afterwards. "There is no question that Mr. Lodge feels as strongly as we do in making sure that no American Communist represents us in the U. N."

McCarthy, as chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, is inquiring into any communism among American U.N. employes.

The hearings thus far have been closed, but he has briefed reporters during recesses. An open hearing is scheduled for Thursday morning.

McCarthy said the high official in the U. N. Secretariat admitted having been "a close friend of a man who was managing editor of Tass (Soviet news agency) and who also worked for the Daily Worker."

Reds Say Ruble Gaining Strength

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (AP)—East German Communist financial experts claimed today the Russian ruble was gaining strength in the world market and the United States dollar was losing the international commerce battle.

This was the explanation to an apparent flood of letters to East German authorities asking why all trade deals at the recent Leipzig trade fair in the Soviet zone were publicly quoted in rubles.

The experts issued a statement reminding the questioners that the Kremlin had put the ruble on the gold standard in 1950 and claiming since World War II it had increased in value in the world market and was replacing the dollar in some sectors of that market.

Western experts have viewed the Soviet ruble revaluation of 1950 as a double-barreled effort to wipe out excessive savings among Russian citizens and to set up a ruble bloc embracing its Eastern European satellites.

The latter was more or less confirmed by the statement of the East German experts today, which said:

"The international market was once dominated by the English pound. Then the pound was replaced by the dollar. The Soviet Union even accounted its foreign trade in the first years after the war in dollars. We know, however, that one of the most decisive results of the second world war was the complete ruin of the former uniform world market. A democratic world market developed alongside the capitalist world market . . . . The ruble took over the role in the new market system as a basis for all trade, once held by the dollar."

In Russia, the ruble is pegged at four to the dollar, but it has no quoted value in international currency exchanges.

Detroit Studies Sales of "Continental" Studebaker

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter

DETROIT—Studebaker, which was a big factor in setting early-postwar auto styles, may now be setting the pattern for the next few years.

Its 1946 model, designed with lavish use of glass by Raymond Loewy, was the first completely redesigned postwar car. The South Bend, Ind., concern made no further major change until its current 1953's; with these it introduced low, rakish "Continental" styling. Also designed by Loewy, the new model cost $27 million to introduce, double the 1946 cost.

A top Detroit stylist, employed by a rival manufacturer, says that the current Studebaker will affect the future looks of more competitive makes than the industry would like to admit. Most frequently [illegible]

Reds Say Ruble Gaining Strength

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (AP)—East German Communist financial experts claimed today the Russian ruble was gaining strength in the world market and the United States dollar was losing the international commerce battle.

This was the explanation to an apparent flood of letters to East German authorities asking why all trade deals at the recent Leipzig trade fair in the Soviet zone were publicly quoted in rubles.

The experts issued a statement reminding the questioners that the Kremlin had put the ruble on the gold standard in 1950 and claiming since World War II it had increased in value in the world market and was replacing the dollar in some sectors of that market.

Western experts have viewed the Soviet ruble revaluation of 1950 as a double-barreled effort to wipe out excessive savings among Russian citizens and to set up a ruble bloc embracing its Eastern European satellites.

The latter was more or less confirmed by the statement of the East German experts today, which said:

"The international market was once dominated by the English pound. Then the pound was replaced by the dollar. The Soviet Union even accounted its foreign trade in the first years after the war in dollars. We know, however, that one of the most decisive results of the second world war was the complete ruin of the former uniform world market. A democratic world market developed alongside the capitalist world market . . . . The ruble took over the role in the new market system as a basis for all trade, once held by the dollar."

In Russia, the ruble is pegged at four to the dollar, but it has no quoted value in international currency exchanges.

State Demo "Harmony" Battle Seen

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15 (AP) — A battle over party harmony for next spring's Democratic primary election appears shaping up for the meeting of Maryland's Young Democrats at Ocean City this weekend.

James C. Morton, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland, said today he expects one of the biggest floor battles of the convention to center on adoption of a "harmony" resolution.

Clubs in at least three counties are reported ready to press for adoption of a resolution calling for the party to settle on a single candidate in advance of the primary and thus avoid intraparty strife in advance of the general election.

At present three men figure to be battling for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore has already announced his candidacy. Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, has stated — without an official announcement—that he will run. And Baltimore contractor George P. Mahoney is regarded as a probable entry.

Morton says he does not believe the Young Democrats will drag the name of any prospective candidate into the resolution. He thinks the main debate will center on what words should be used in the resolution and just how far it would go.

Some leaders feel the party should "draft" a single candidate to go through the formality of a primary and concentrate the major drive against the Republicans next fall.

Morton himself believes in a cautious approach to the subject.

"If we have another knock-down, dragout primary," he said, "the Democrats will be handing the election to Governor McKeldin again.

"But too much in the lodge building to select a single candidate could smack of the smoke-filled room. There is a fine line of distinction between the two extremes. We will have to find it."

Several hundred club delegates, alternates and lookers-on will attend the sessions Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Ocean City.

D'Alesandro will sound the keynote for the opening session. Former Gov. William Preston Lane will deliver the principal speech at the group's banquet.

Dr. Byrd and Mahoney are also expected to be present.

Marte was reported sinking today 560 miles southeast of St. John's, Newfoundland.

The Halifax salvage tug Foundation Lillian is headed for the stricken ship but will need three days to reach her.

Czech Regime Is Reorganized On Soviet Lines

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 15 (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia's government reorganized itself today along the latest Soviet lines. Tightening of controls over the police and agriculture was among the effects of a wholesale shift of ministers.

The Prague radio announced the shakeup, which was accompanied by a reorganization in the secretariat of the Czech Communist party.

Security Minister Karol Bacilek and Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek were among the men affected in Premier Vilem Siroky's Cabinet. Nosek was made labor minister. Bacilek, a former deputy premier, was appointed first secretary of the Communist party in the Province of Slovakia.

The Interior and Security Ministries were consolidated under a new interior minister, former Deputy Premier Rudolf Barak. A similar consolidation was made in the Soviet Union after Joseph Stalin's death last March. The combined post was given to Lavrenty P. Beria, who was subsequently purged as a traitor.

Though the Prague radio did not say so, Western observers considered it possible Bacilek and Nosek are held responsible for pro-American riots that broke out in Pilsen, Prague and in Czech mine fields in June.

Eight Bird Dogs Die As Fire Destroys Barn

BROOKSVILLE, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—Eight valuable bird dogs died in a fire which destroyed a barn on a farm near here early today.

C. C. Nick Stephens, a dog trainer who operates the farm, said three of the dogs which he owned were worth $1,500. The others were owned by Baltimore, Silver Spring and Washington residents and were being trained by Stephens. Stephens did not estimate the value of the dogs in training.

Fire Chief Spencer J. H. Brown of the Sandy Spring department estimated damage to the barn and equipment at $3,000 to $5,000. The farm is owned by Louis Perna, Washington stone contractor.

Four Million Kids Attend One School

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, Sept. 15 (AP)—It's hard to believe, but there are four Million kids attending Washington Grade School in Middletown.

McCarthy Calls On U.N. To Oust "Pal" Of Reds

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) today demanded that the United Nations oust an unidentified high official, an alleged pal of Communists and contributor to Red causes.

"He should be gotten rid of instanter," the senator said, without identifying the man except to say he was an American.

"Regarding questions put to him concerning his alleged Communist activities, that witness had the worst memory of any witness we have had before us to date."

McCarthy claimed the $12,000 a year U. N. Secretariat official did admit friendship with Communists and contributions to Red organizations.

McCarthy added the case will be reported to Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the U. N.

Earlier, the Wisconsin senator had taken time out during a second day of closed hearings here to lunch with Lodge.

"All in all, it was a very enjoyable two hours," McCarthy said afterwards. "There is no question that Mr. Lodge feels as strongly as we do in making sure that no American Communist represents us in the U. N."

McCarthy, as chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, is inquiring into any communism among American U.N. employes.

The hearings thus far have been closed, but he has briefed reporters during recesses. An open hearing is scheduled for Thursday morning.

McCarthy said the high official in the U. N. Secretariat admitted having been "a close friend of a man who was managing editor of Tass (Soviet news agency) and who also worked for the Daily Worker."

Detroit Studies Sales of "Continental" Studebaker

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter

DETROIT—Studebaker, which was a big factor in setting early-postwar auto styles, may now be setting the pattern for the next few years.

Its 1946 model, designed with lavish use of glass by Raymond Loewy, was the first completely redesigned postwar car. The South Bend, Ind., concern made no further major change until its current 1953's; with these it introduced low, rakish "Continental" styling. Also designed by Loewy, the new model cost $27 million to introduce, double the 1946 cost.

A top Detroit stylist, employed by a rival manufacturer, says that the current Studebaker will affect the future looks of more competitive makes than the industry would like to admit. Most frequently [illegible]

Durkin Says Ike Had Agreed To Submit T-H Amendments

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15 (AP)—Martin P. Durkin said today that two weeks before he resigned as secretary of labor President Eisenhower personally "agreed with me" that 19 proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley law should be submitted to Congress.

Durkin, who quit the Cabinet last week with a charge that the White House had broken an agreement with him to sponsor the amendments, spoke before a meeting here of the Metal Trades Department of the AFL.

He told the department he conferred with President Eisenhower in New York Aug. 20 when the President dedicated the Baruch housing project there.

"The President agreed with me that the 19 amendments should not be withheld, that they should be submitted to Congress," Durkin said.

A few days later, Durkin added, a White House spokesman notified him the administration would not be able to go along with the 19 proposed amendments.

(At that news conference, Durkin said he was uncertain whether Eisenhower had ever personally approved of the proposed amendments. "It was our belief that the President had been kept informed," Durkin said then. "We believed he had agreed to them.")

Asked later for clarification, Durkin told a reporter he saw no discrepancy between his speech today and his statement in Washington last week.

Durkin, head of the AFL plumbers union, explained the 19 proposed amendments were worked out in conferences between himself and members of the White House staff and that Eisenhower "had been informed of our progress."

"When we met in New York," Durkin said, "I asked him if he were going to make any changes in this agreement between the staff and myself and he said 'No.'

"This seemed to me to mean he was in agreement with the proposed amendments. There was a break in the agreement. The administration did not carry through with the agreement."

China, Russia Negotiate Economic Aid Pact

LONDON, Asept. 15 (AP)—Peiping radio said tonight Red China's leader Mao Tze-tung announced his country and Moscow have negotiated "an unprecedented" new economic aid program.

The radio quoted the Chinese Communist boss as saying in a cable to Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov:

"The two states have settled in one single negotiation the question of construction of 91 enterprises and the question of a long-term aid. This is unprecedented in history."

The broadcast gave no details.

Mao's cable said the "great Soviet government has agreed to extend systematic economic and technical aid in the construction and renovation of 91 new enterprises in China and the 50 enterprises now being built or renovated."

The cable started off by saying that the report on the new aid program was made today to the Central Peoples Government Council of the Red Chinese republic by Comrade Li Fun Chun, who was identified as a member of a Chinese delegation to Russia.

The last indication that Sino-Soviet talks were underway was in June when it was announced in Moscow that a new Chinese delegation had arrived there.

In 1952, Russia agreed to lend China a sum equal to 300 million dollars as a part of a general trade agreement between the two countries.

Mao's cable today said that because of the aid, the Chinese "... will be able to build up step by step their own mighty heavy industry. This plays an extremely significant role in the industrialization of China, in helping her in her transition by stages to socialism and in strengthenging the camp of peace and democracy headed by the Soviet Union."

Iran Demands Russia Recall Soviet Oil Man

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 15 (AP)—Premier Gen. Fazollah Zahedi's government has demanded the recall to Russia of Soviet oil man Ignattov, the independent evening paper Etelaat said today.

Ignatov was a member of the Soviet firm of Iransov Naft which is now liquidated but formerly marketed Soviet oil in Iran's northern provinces.

Etelaat said the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent the Soviet Embassy in Tehran a copy of a military investigation report on Ignatov's activities in Gorgan, near the southeast corner of the Capsian Sea, as a result of which the government asked for the "immediate transfer" of Ignatov to Russia.

Language Project Scores New Advance

STRASBOURG, France, Sept. 15 (AP)—Advocates of making English and French the recognized international languages chalked up a new advance today when the European Consultative Assembly's cultural affairs committee endorsed the idea.

A motion was filed with the assembly by Christopher Hollis of Britain, urging all member states of the Council of Europe to establish either French or English as an auxiliary language.

The project, supported by 13 committeemen, a slim majority of that group, is slated for debate later this month.

In a year it is estimated that Americans read 400 million books.

Airlines report that persons of middle age constitute the largest group of American passengers flying to Europe.

"I know just what you're lookin' for..."

Honest, friends, this kind of bread'll carry you right back to them days — when we was kids — "bake days" I call 'em — when real good bread was made one day a week, week in and week out. It had to be — it was all et up in a right fast fashion — because it was the kind of bread everybody in every family liked — the kind you wish you could find again.

Well, now, you can stop lookin'. Here's a loaf of bread that's every bit as good — honest good — as we had years ago. First place, I know what's in it — it's my own receipt. (Anyway, it's the receipt my Mother gave to me—but I improved it.) It's kept us happy in the bread department because it's good, honest stuff. I don't know how many loaves of AUNT FANNY'S ENRICHED BREAD's been made, but I do know — one loaf or a million — each has the same makin's that mean there's never much left in the bread box.

Oh sure, my receipt calls for somethin' special into it — that's the touch that's tantalizin'. Once you bite the first slice—you'll see what I'm gettin' at. It's got a flavor that'll bring back memories of the bustle in the kitchen when there was bakin' goin' on and everyone knew what came out of that oven was bound to be good. You just take a look at my bread — and be sure to try a loaf — AUNT FANNY'S ENRICHED BREAD. After one loaf, it'll be a habit—a mighty good habit.

Decreasing The Error

An important new aid to aerial navigation, demonstrated the other day at New York's Idlewild Airport, holds the promise of increased safety in flying. Combing the operation of several instruments which have been in familiar use to locate the plane's position in flight, the DME, which is simply a handy diminutive of "distance measuring equipment," tells a pilot constantly where he is in relation to one or more stations, which are usually located at airports.

The importance of this new device, especially in the age of jet flight, should not be underestimated. The great speed of jets has made necessary still another telescoping of the processes needed to figure out a plane's exact position at a given instant.

It is an ironic commentary on aerial progress that, practically within hours of the demonstration of the new DME, a big, four-motored French passenger plane, carrying 42 persons, should bash itself to bits against an alpine peak. Apparently the weather was good, or reasonably so, and had the plane been just slightly off course the flight probably would have been no more than a pleasant memory in the minds of the passengers.

Had the ship been equipped with the new DME there is a definite possibility that the pilot would have known he was heading into danger. But progress doesn't travel at speeds comparable to the jet planes of today. Unfortunately there must be a time lag to permit the human mind to make adjustments. For example, the new device—assuming it is foolproof—must meet certification tests by government and industry.

Then comes the long period of changeover, as installations are made, a few at a time. Setting up the ground equipment will also take time and money. And when military and civilian air armadas are equipped, it doesn't follow that air disasters will suddenly cease.

A small piece of metal may snap hundreds of hours before its time; a pilot may misread his instruments. But gradually the chance for error is decreased. Sometimes the process seems painfully slow.

Keeping Colleges "Free"

High taxes have caused such a falling off of gifts and endowments to the country's 1,200 privately maintained colleges and universities that the majority of them are hard pressed for funds. The alternatives are to seek federal aid, which could involve the injection of politics into institutions whose proudest boast is that they are "free," or to find new sources of income.

The latter is the objective of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, which will become operative September 15. It has on its board some of the nation's leading industrialists as well as educators of note. It is to be in no sense a collection agency, and will not receive or disburse funds. Its function will be publicizing the plight of the colleges and directing prospective new contributors to the 31 state and regional groups now raising money for needy institutions.

The council hopes to "bring about a recognition of the importance to American business, and to the nation as a whole, of securing adequate financial support of higher education, particularly through American business concerns, foundations and other organizations."

The one thing to which members of the council, which ultimately will have 24 directors, is utterly opposed is the idea of the federal government's making up this collegiate financial slack. They realize that for general federal aid there would have to be a quid pro quo, and that freedom to teach could thereby be trammeled.

Stress will be placed on Washington's permission to business to contribute five per cent of earnings to education or philanthropy before paying taxes.

September Tax Collections

Several days after today, before which the third-quarter income-tax payments must be in the mails, the Treasury will know whether its earlier estimate of them was too low or too high. If the estimate was not too optimistic, the administration will probably give up its idea of a higher national debt limit before January 1.

Last September the collections of all revenue ran $2.5 billion (62½ per cent) above the collections for August, producing a surplus for the month of more than half a billion. In 1951 the receipts were $2.6 billion higher in September than in August, making for a month's surplus of more than $1 billion.

The biggest month of the year for Treasury collections is March. Then personal income-tax payers must not only pay any under-payment in the preceding January for the previous year, but also must make the first quarterly payment on the estimated tax for the current year. Another good revenue month is June; this year it produced only $0.8 billion less than was realized in March, and the $10.5 billion collection in March were the highest in any one month of our fiscal history.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said at the end of August that he had "every hope" that Congress would not have to be called into session later this year to raise the debt limit. His new estimates of expenditures for the present fiscal year were $2 billion below his earlier estimates (and $5.5 billion less than in the Truman budget); his new estimates of receipts were the same as his earlier ones.

The Direction Finder

In Britain a man's house became his castle even before it did in America. So many persons raised an eyebrow when they read of the mobile detectors that go through the British streets and lanes picking up unlicensed television sets. The two-pound license fee subsidizes the British Broadcasting Corporation's TV programs. In England radio and television are socialized.

The equipment is simply a direction-finder that points toward a receiver in use. An operating set puts out enough electro-magnetic impulses to be detected this way. The crewmen, of course, cannot be sure that every antenna denotes a TV set. Over there, as here, a TV aerial has been known to be merely a false front in an effort to keep up with the Joneses.

The detective crews herald their coming in advance. Before they arrive in Village X, the local license vendor is besieged. Finally comes the truck with its gear. By the time a housewife hears a knock on her door she usually can show a new license. Only if the door is kept closed does the post office agent go after a warrant. By the time he gets back with it the owner has likely bought his license or got rid of his set.

Tube Swallowing

The wife of a friend of mine was somewhat upset over the care her husband was receiving in the hospital. He had undergone surgery, and during the first 48 hours after the operation he had tubes going in and out of every conceivable place. "If this is scientific progress," she said, "I'll have none of it."

Meanwhile, her husband was quite comfortable, considering he had just gone thru a major operation; and he was making better than average progress. It was the appearance of the tubes that bothered this man's wife, who failed to realize he might be feeling lots worse were it not for these extra precautions. Intubation, as it is called, is an aid to modern surgery that has reduced mortality, shortened the hospital stay, and improved the final outcome. Furthermore, the use of the tubes made possible certain operations that otherwise might not have been done. Feeding sugar, salt and protein into a vein for example, helps to overcome dehydration and shock and supplies the nourishment needed for strength and tissue healing.

Most of the complaints stem from the passage of the tube into the stomach thru the throat. But this procedure is more important than many realize because it keeps abdominal distention to a minimum. Following certain types of surgery, the stomach and intestinal tract do not remain empty as the secretion of digestive juices continues. This material and vomiting are not unusual. But after the tube is passed (usually just before the operation or during the anesthetic), the stomach and intestine can be kept empty until the patient is ready to take nourishment by mouth.

The juices are removed at a constant rate thru a suction apparatus attached to the other end of the tube. Any discomfort produced by the tube is more than compensated for by the results: lack of nausea, vomiting, and gas pains. Those who have suffered from retching know how painful it is to the wound and, in addition, the strain may tear the tissues so that the wound does not heal properly.

There are several types of stomach tubes. The big fellow, the diameter of a finger, is being used less and less. It comes in handy, however, when the stomach must be washed out after swallowing poison or eating tainted food. But for most purposes, a smaller tube will do the job and the individual cooperates by swallowing the device as tho it were a long piece of spaghetti; others are inserted into the stomach thru the nose. Some are many feet long and go thru the stomach into the intestine, in cases of intestinal obstruction resulting from kinking, adhesions, or tumor of the bowel.

Physicians learned long ago that when the intestine is obstructed the digestive secretions and the food eaten accumulate and become stagnant and toxic. This overdistends the bowel and gangrene occurs. Surgery was risky in the past because the patient was being poisoned by his own intestinal juices and altho it was possible to eliminate the obstruction, many sufferers never survived the ordeal of the operation. It is here that the intestinal tube came to the rescue. After it reaches the intestinal tract, it continues to the site of obstruction; suction is then applied until all the toxic material is removed. Meanwhile, feeding thru a vein combats dehydration and provides the man or woman with enough strength to undergo surgery. The procedure has reduced mortality in intestinal obstruction from 60 per cent in 1900 to less than 10 per cent today.

TOMORROW: Breathing difficulties in emphysema.

CARE OF THE AGED

T. M. writes, Is geriatrics a proved science?

REPLY

Geriatrics is a branch of medicine concerned with the welfare of older people. Some workers in this field are medical scientists; others are sociologists, dietitians, and psychologists. Much of the information gathered by these workers has proved factual but some is unsupported, theoretical, or based on folklore or superstition.

FAMILY CONFLICT

O. S. writes: My 30-year-old son, who is single, has caused me lots of trouble. He leaves home periodically to work in another state and after about six months he quits his job and returns home because he says he cannot stay away from his mother as it makes him sick to board outside. When he is home he sleeps until 11 a. m. and he has caused trouble between me and my wife. Do you think there is something wrong with this man? He doesn't want to assume any responsibility like getting married.

REPLY

Your son has not grown up emotionally and still seeks the security provided by the home. This leads him to shirk responsibility and to remain dependent upon his family rather than strike out for himself. You as the father are now paying the penalty for not encouraging the development of the proper qualities. I realize that the whole problem is frustrating and my suggestion would be that all three of you consult a psychiatrist.

Two Big Background Issues May Revamp Democratic Party In South; Eisenhower To Go "States' Rights" With Vengeance Below Mason-Dixon Line

CHICAGO — Despite all the talk pro and con about Southern loyalty at the Democratic whoopfest, there were two big issues in the background which may completely revamp the Democratic party below the Mason-Dixon Line. These were not discussed much publicly here, but to thinking party leaders they are all-important.

One of them will hurt the Democratic party at the next election. The other will help. Here they are:

1. What Will Hurt The Democrats—The Republicans are making real hay toward reorganizing a two-party system below the Mason-Dixon Line. Alert, live new leaders, many of them ex-Democrats, are throwing out encrusted Republican carpetbaggers and, for the first time since before the Civil War, are beginning to make the Republican party respectable in the South.

2. What Will Help The Democrats — President Eisenhower plans to go "States' Rights" with a vengeance — especially when it comes to putting each state on its own in regard to social security, old-age pensions, public roads, power-dams and other projects which syphoned more money to the South under 20 years of Democratic rule than at any other time during history.

Ike's Confidential Tip

Ike unfurled this plan confidentially to a group of Republican governors at the recent Seattle governors conference. Though he didn't let Democratic governors in on his secret, naturally they heard about it and some of them are not happy.

However, many Republican governors are. They claim that what happened in the last 20 years is that the federal government has taken money out of the wealthy states of New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois and Ohio, for the most part Republican, and spent a greater portion than justified on the lower-income states of the South. GOP governors also point to the power of congressional appropriations committees, for 20 years headed by Southern Democrats, which have leaned toward rivers and harbors, dams, and farm payments on Southern products.

President Eisenhower, it should be noted, hasn't looked at it as a matter of North vs. South. He has no ax to grind against the South. But in private talk after talk he has emphasized the importance of getting the states to bear their proportionate share of taxation. He wants to pass the tax burden back to the states out of the hands of the federal government.

This means of course that poorer Southern states will be considerably worse off economically than during the 20 years of Democratic rule.

And this the Northern Democratic leaders believe is going to swing the once solid South back into line. Some already point to the fact that Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, who emphasized during the tidelands oil fight that Texas wanted no support from Washington, promptly reversed himself during the Waco hurricane and the Texas drought to ask aid from Washington; and that Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia, another vigorous states' righter, now would appreciate federal help as a result of Virginia's recent drought.

All this, predict the Democratic brain trusters, should help the Democrats to recapture all Southern states at the next election.

GOP Organizes South

On the other hand there is no question but that Republicans are doing a shrewd and helpful job in trying to build up a two-party system in the South.

Despite all the fumbles of the past they may succeed.

They have done such a good job that men like Sen. Harry Byrd, who helped throw Virginia to Eisenhower last year, is worried. For the first time in half a century the Republicans have put a candidate in the race for governor who may have a chance — if the anti-Byrd, pro-Stevenson Democrats take revenge on Byrd and vote Stevenson. In other words, Byrd, by throwing his weight to Eisenhower last year, helped to undermine his own once airtight control of the state.

The same is true in Texas, where Governor Shivers, also an Ike man, has frowned on Republican efforts to organize the state. What worries Shivers is that if enough conservative Democrats turn Republican then the liberal wing of the Democratic party, led by Sam Rayburn and with the help of such influential ralliers of the Spanish and Negro vote as Maury Maverick, could take Democratic control away from the governor.

Louisiana Housecleaning

Similar situations are developing in other Southern states. In Louisiana the Republicans have put outdated John Jackson, long-time GOP national committeeman, on the sidelines and are working through smart, progressive John Minor Wisdom, a lawyer who has the respect of everyone even though he is a Republican. It is important to remember that in the past few Republicans were respected in Louisiana.

Likewise, in Georgia, Republican patronage is being handled by Albert Tuttle, general council of the U. S. Treasury, and as a result of his organization work Republicans will put up local candidates for the Georgia legislature in about 20 counties for the first time since reconstruction days. They will also run some candidates for Congress in districts where prospects look worth while.

In South Carolina a five-wire Myrtle Beach lawyer, William A. Kimbel, is cleaning out the rusted GOP leadership of the past. Kimbel, Ben Boatright, Gus Dosher and George Warren are working at something Republicans never worked at before — organizing their party in the state where Fort Sumter was fired on.

How successful their efforts will be remains to be seen. But GOP plans call for a lot of money to be spent in the South the next three years, and Democratic leaders figure that some of their Southern colleagues who scorned the Chicago meeting will be all too happy to come back to the fold a little later.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(INS)—People . . . places . . . things—

At Capt. John J. Bergen's luncheon at "21" for the new chief of naval operations, Adm. Robert B. Carney, the admiral counseled his bemedalled listeners not to expect miracles of the new joint chiefs of staff.

What his listeners could expect, he added, was an organization hampered as little as possible by blind partisanship as any gathered since unification went into effect. He listed in detail the members' experience and past association.

"When I was chief of staff for Admiral Halsey in the Pacific," he said, looking fondly at his old boss, 'Nate Twining was head of the 13th Air Force and a man with whom we had the finest possible relationship, and in whom we had the greatest confidence.

"As for Gen. Ridgway, he is one of the most outstanding military men in many years, and a man with the finest intellectual honesty I've ever known. And then there is the chairman, Adm. Radford. We were classmates. I've known and respected him for 40 years.

"As far as I can see, there isn't any emergency that can come up in the world that will not see one or more of us with special knowledge of that part of the world where the trouble breaks out. We've all been around quite a bit."

The admiral naturally did not dwell on his own great career. He dotes on modesty. Matter of fact, he had a Churchill story about modesty to tell to those setting near him. To wit:

Churchill was dozing one afternoon in Commons when a member of the opposition rose and began what promised to be a windy speech. But an aide nevertheless gently aroused Churchill.

"What's he saying?" Churchill asked in a whisper that filled the house.

"Just started speaking," the aide whispered back. "He began 'I am a modest man....'"

"Has a lot to be modest about," Churchill agreed, and went back to sleep.

Several readers have been kind enough to inquire as to the condition of a boy named Dennis, who is related to my wife and me by marriage. Dennis recently underwent an operation after busting up a leg in a kids' game. Thanks to Dr. Miles Winder and the staff at Fitkin Hospital, Neptune, N. J., he will be okay. But it will take some time before he recovers his speed of foot, apparently. He got pinched by the chief of police of Allenhurst, N. J., the other day, the only kid who didn't get away from a fine old American game entitled: "Let's break the windows of that haunted house."

As forDennis' parents, they are still recuperating from a somewhat defeating bit of dialogue in which they engaged, during a trying 45 minute wait outside the operating room. My wife and I were sitting there in the waiting room, remembering some prayers, when a stern-looking lady entered, looked around, and called out:

"Do I understand there's a newspaper man in this room?"

Our hearts skipped a beat, in fear of the news she might be hearing.

Finally, I raised my hand and said, "I am."

"Fine," she beamed, "I'll buy one."

"Marilyn Monrovia!"

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Government By Law

The Constitution of the United States was signed on September 17, 1787, and was thereupon laid before the legislatures of the several states for "their assent and ratification." The resolution was signed by George Washington, President of the convention and W. Jackson, secretary.

Thus, September 17 of each year should mark one of the most notable anniversaries in our history. Unfortunately, it is not so marked. In fact, whereas in the various states there are a large number of commemorative days, celebrating this or that event, nowhere in the United States is the signing of the Constitution set aside for special attention. Like so much about the Constitution, it is taken for granted.

Yet, in many respects, this day is worthy of our attention. It marks a prolonged effort on the part of some of the best minds this country ever produced to establish a fundamental law, sovereign for the entire United States and yet not depriving each state of its own sovereignty or each individual of his inalienable rights. The task was difficult; the achievements stupendous.

The core of the American Constitution is that this is a government of law; it does not tolerate the whim of one man, be he benevolent or tyrannical. At no point in the Constitution are powers or authorities delegated to one man or to one office without limitations, checks and balances. The President is neither a king nor a prime minister; he is a constitutional executive with such powers as are designated to him and beyond which he may not go. We do not elect a government; we elect an administrator.

Perhaps this very characteristic of our Constitution is responsible for the excess of legislation which is so typical of the Congress and of the state legislatures. Yet, that excess is curbed by public opinion, which resists the unwarranted. James Coolidge Carter, one of our greatest lawyers, said of this:

". . . There are a vast number of laws on the statute-books of the several states which are never enforced, and generally for the reason that they are unacceptable to the people. There are great numbers of others the enforcement of which, or attempts to enforce which, are productive of bribery, perjury, subnoration of perjury, animosity and hate among citizens, useless expenditure, and many other public evils. All these are fruits of the common notion, to correct which but little effort is anywhere made, that a legislative enactment is necessarily a law, and will certainly bring about, or help to bring about, the good intended by it, whereas such an enactment, when never enforced, does not deserve the name law at all, and when the attempted enforcement of it is productive of the mischiefs above-mentioned, it is not so much law as it is tyranny."

The best example of the correctness of this view appeared in the utter inability of all the agencies of government to enforce Prohibition, leading to the eventual repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Constitution. Long before any legislative action was taken, the people repealed the Volstead Act by passive resistance.

Despite the complexities of American life, perhaps never envisaged by the Founding Fathers, the Constitution holds, with comparatively few amendments in 166 years. The first 10, the so-called Bill of Rights, are realistically not amendments but integral parts of the Constitution. The 13th, 14th, and 15th were a product of the War Between the States. Of the remaining nine, one was cancelled out by an amendment to that effect.

Only one amendment to the Constitution is now pending, although two others have been suggested, one limiting the taxing power of the federal government. The one pending is the Bricker Amendment to clarify the treaty-making power of the President—an amendment which is necessary because of conditions arising out of World War II and the establishment of the United Nations. This amendment would modify the treaty-making process, more effectively to protect the rights of the American people.

The story of the American Constitution and the meaning of its contents ought to be referred to annually in every school assembly, from the lowest grades upward. Too many of our citizens have never read the Constitution nor do they understand the benefits that they derive therefrom. Too many of our younger people grow up without an understanding of the fundamental institution of our country.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes, in the hurry and pressure under which news is distributed nowadays, there isn't time to look up basic law or constitutional precedents, and an entirely erroneous impression is unintentionally created.

Thus, from one end of the country to the other a few days ago went dispatches implying that Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, had violated some law when he gave to reporters a document which had been marked "restricted" or "classified information" by the Army. One editorial in an Eastern newspaper went so far as to cry out that the Wisconsin senator had "ignored" the law, that he was not "above the law," and so on.

Actually, if the Wisconsin senator violated any law by publishing the document which the Army had distributed to 100 officers so that they might study the meaning of Communist philosophy, so did the newspapers and press associations which printed what he gave them.

No Law Violated

The truth is no law was violated in either case. For there is no statute which forbids disclosure or publication of a government document just because somebody in the Army or the Navy or the Air Force happens to mark it as "classified." A thousand executive orders may be issued by a president ordering government personnel to keep things secret, and government employes can be punished for violating them, but this cannot affect any citizen outside the government who is the recipient of the information.

It so happens that in this case the Army officers were told to study certain phases of communism as an orientation course, and most of the material was taken from published books. The Army could have also taken a translation of the Koran, the Mohammedan bible, distributed copies of it and marked it "classified." No such arbitrary marking of information, however, can in any way restrain a newspaper or periodical from publishing the contents of such documents as are labeled "classified" if they can get hold of them.

The existing law says a crime is committed if anyone in the government "knowingly and willfully communicates, furnishes, transmits, or otherwise makes available to an unauthorized person, or publishes" any "classified information" about the code or cipher system of the United States.

When the foregoing law was up for passage, members of the press pointed out the dangers of a peacetime censorship law and succeeded in narrowing the language to code communication.

It may be questioned whether a peacetime censorship law would be held constitutional. It is interesting also to note that, even in the case of "classified information" relating to codes, there is a paragraph which says that "nothing in this section shall prohibit the furnishing, upon lawful demand, of information to any regularly constituted committee of the Senate or the House of Representatives of the United States of America, or joint committee thereof."

Precedent Set In 1935

Perhaps the most significant case that got to the courts occurred when Hugo Black, then a Democratic senator from Alabama, conducted his famous committee investigation in 1935 on the subject of "lobbying." Private messages between an editor and his associates were unlawfully seized from a telegraph office and disclosed by the Federal Communications Commission to an investigator for the committee. But the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held—and the case was never reversed by the Supreme Court—that, even though the information was obtained improperly, the data could be used by the committee. The court said that "the universal rule, so far as we know it, is that the legislative discretion in the discharge of its constitutional functions, whether rightfully or wrongfully exercised, is not a subject for judicial interference."

Senator Black evidently didn't suffer for his action because, two years later, he was elevated to the Supreme Court. Now this correspondent isn't advocating that Senator McCarthy be given a place on the federal bench, as was once facetiously mentioned in these dispatches, but merely points out that the Wisconsin senator may look upon the 1935 precedent as his justification in parallel circumstances for using whatever information he gathers.

Decreasing The Error

An important new aid to aerial navigation, demonstrated the other day at New York's Idlewild Airport, holds the promise of increased safety in flying. Combing the operation of several instruments which have been in familiar use to locate the plane's position in flight, the DME, which is simply a handy diminutive of "distance measuring equipment," tells a pilot constantly where he is in relation to one or more stations, which are usually located at airports.

The importance of this new device, especially in the age of jet flight, should not be underestimated. The great speed of jets has made necessary still another telescoping of the processes needed to figure out a plane's exact position at a given instant.

It is an ironic commentary on aerial progress that, practically within hours of the demonstration of the new DME, a big, four-motored French passenger plane, carrying 42 persons, should bash itself to bits against an alpine peak. Apparently the weather was good, or reasonably so, and had the plane been just slightly off course the flight probably would have been no more than a pleasant memory in the minds of the passengers.

Had the ship been equipped with the new DME there is a definite possibility that the pilot would have known he was heading into danger. But progress doesn't travel at speeds comparable to the jet planes of today. Unfortunately there must be a time lag to permit the human mind to make adjustments. For example, the new device—assuming it is foolproof—must meet certification tests by government and industry.

Then comes the long period of changeover, as installations are made, a few at a time. Setting up the ground equipment will also take time and money. And when military and civilian air armadas are equipped, it doesn't follow that air disasters will suddenly cease.

A small piece of metal may snap hundreds of hours before its time; a pilot may misread his instruments. But gradually the chance for error is decreased. Sometimes the process seems painfully slow.

Keeping Colleges "Free"

High taxes have caused such a falling off of gifts and endowments to the country's 1,200 privately maintained colleges and universities that the majority of them are hard pressed for funds. The alternatives are to seek federal aid, which could involve the injection of politics into institutions whose proudest boast is that they are "free," or to find new sources of income.

The latter is the objective of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, which will become operative September 15. It has on its board some of the nation's leading industrialists as well as educators of note. It is to be in no sense a collection agency, and will not receive or disburse funds. Its function will be publicizing the plight of the colleges and directing prospective new contributors to the 31 state and regional groups now raising money for needy institutions.

The council hopes to "bring about a recognition of the importance to American business, and to the nation as a whole, of securing adequate financial support of higher education, particularly through American business concerns, foundations and other organizations."

The one thing to which members of the council, which ultimately will have 24 directors, is utterly opposed is the idea of the federal government's making up this collegiate financial slack. They realize that for general federal aid there would have to be a quid pro quo, and that freedom to teach could thereby be trammeled.

Stress will be placed on Washington's permission to business to contribute five per cent of earnings to education or philanthropy before paying taxes.

September Tax Collections

Several days after today, before which the third-quarter income-tax payments must be in the mails, the Treasury will know whether its earlier estimate of them was too low or too high. If the estimate was not too optimistic, the administration will probably give up its idea of a higher national debt limit before January 1.

Last September the collections of all revenue ran $2.5 billion (62½ per cent) above the collections for August, producing a surplus for the month of more than half a billion. In 1951 the receipts were $2.6 billion higher in September than in August, making for a month's surplus of more than $1 billion.

The biggest month of the year for Treasury collections is March. Then personal income-tax payers must not only pay any under-payment in the preceding January for the previous year, but also must make the first quarterly payment on the estimated tax for the current year. Another good revenue month is June; this year it produced only $0.8 billion less than was realized in March, and the $10.5 billion collection in March were the highest in any one month of our fiscal history.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said at the end of August that he had "every hope" that Congress would not have to be called into session later this year to raise the debt limit. His new estimates of expenditures for the present fiscal year were $2 billion below his earlier estimates (and $5.5 billion less than in the Truman budget); his new estimates of receipts were the same as his earlier ones.

The juices are removed at a constant rate thru a suction apparatus attached to the other end of the tube. Any discomfort produced by the tube is more than compensated for by the results: lack of nausea, vomiting, and gas pains. Those who have suffered from retching know how painful it is to the wound and, in addition, the strain may tear the tissues so that the wound does not heal properly.

There are several types of stomach tubes. The big fellow, the diameter of a finger, is being used less and less. It comes in handy, however, when the stomach must be washed out after swallowing poison or eating tainted food. But for most purposes, a smaller tube will do the job and the individual cooperates by swallowing the device as tho it were a long piece of spaghetti; others are inserted into the stomach thru the nose. Some are many feet long and go thru the stomach into the intestine, in cases of intestinal obstruction resulting from kinking, adhesions, or tumor of the bowel.

Physicians learned long ago that when the intestine is obstructed the digestive secretions and the food eaten accumulate and become stagnant and toxic. This overdistends the bowel and gangrene occurs. Surgery was risky in the past because the patient was being poisoned by his own intestinal juices and altho it was possible to eliminate the obstruction, many sufferers never survived the ordeal of the operation. It is here that the intestinal tube came to the rescue. After it reaches the intestinal tract, it continues to the site of obstruction; suction is then applied until all the toxic material is removed. Meanwhile, feeding thru a vein combats dehydration and provides the man or woman with enough strength to undergo surgery. The procedure has reduced mortality in intestinal obstruction from 60 per cent in 1900 to less than 10 per cent today.

CARE OF THE AGED

T. M. writes. Is geriatrics a proved science?

REPLY

Geriatrics is a branch of medicine concerned with the welfare of older people. Some workers in this field are medical scientists; others are sociologists, dietitians, and psychologists. Much of the information gathered by these workers has proved factual but some is unsupported, theoretical, or based on folklore or superstition.

FAMILY CONFLICT

O. S. writes: My 30-year-old son, who is single, has caused me lots of trouble. He leaves home periodically to work in another state and after about six months he quits his job and returns home because he says he cannot stay away from his mother as it makes him sick to board outside. When he is home he sleeps until 11 a. m. and he has caused trouble between me and my wife. Do you think there is something wrong with this man? He doesn't want to assume any responsibility like getting married.

REPLY

Your son has not grown up emotionally and still seeks the security provided by the home. This leads him to shirk responsibility and to remain dependent upon his family rather than strike out for himself. You as the father are now paying the penalty for not encouraging the development of the proper qualities. I realize that the whole problem is frustrating and my suggestion would be that all three of you consult a psychiatrist.

Two Big Background Issues May Revamp Democratic Party In South; Eisenhower To Go "States' Rights" With Vengeance Below Mason-Dixon Line

CHICAGO — Despite all the talk pro and con about Southern loyalty at the Democratic whoopfest, there were two big issues in the background which may completely revamp the Democratic party below the Mason-Dixon Line. These were not discussed much publicly here, but to thinking party leaders they are all-important.

One of them will hurt the Democratic party at the next election. The other will help. Here they are:

1. What Will Hurt The Democrats—The Republicans are making real hay toward reorganizing a two-party system below the Mason-Dixon Line. Alert, live new leaders, many of them ex-Democrats, are throwing out encrusted Republican carpetbaggers and, for the first time since before the Civil War, are beginning to make the Republican party respectable in the South.

2. What Will Help The Democrats — President Eisenhower plans to go "States' Rights" with a vengeance — especially when it comes to putting each state on its own in regard to social security, old-age pensions, public roads, power-dams and other projects which syphoned more money to the South under 20 years of Democratic rule than at any other time during history.

Ike's Confidential Tip

Ike unfurled this plan confidentially to a group of Republican governors at the recent Seattle governors conference. Though he didn't let Democratic governors in on his secret, naturally they heard about it and some of them are not happy.

However, many Republican governors are. They claim that what happened in the last 20 years is that the federal government has taken money out of the wealthy states of New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois and Ohio, for the most part Republican, and spent a greater portion than justified on the lower-income states of the South. GOP governors also point to the power of congressional appropriations committees, for 20 years headed by Southern Democrats, which have leaned toward rivers and harbors, dams, and farm payments on Southern products.

President Eisenhower, it should be noted, hasn't looked at it as a matter of North vs. South. He has no ax to grind against the South. But in private talk after talk he has emphasized the importance of getting the states to bear their proportionate share of taxation. He wants to pass the tax burden back to the states out of the hands of the federal government.

This means of course that poorer Southern states will be considerably worse off economically than during the 20 years of Democratic rule.

And this the Northern Democratic leaders believe is going to swing the once solid South back into line. Some already point to the fact that Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, who emphasized during the tidelands oil fight that Texas wanted no support from Washington, promptly reversed himself during the Waco hurricane and the Texas drought to ask aid from Washington; and that Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia, another vigorous states' righter, now would appreciate federal help as a result of Virginia's recent drought.

All this, predict the Democratic brain trusters, should help the Democrats to recapture all Southern states at the next election.

GOP Organizes South

On the other hand there is no question but that Republicans are doing a shrewd and helpful job in trying to build up a two-party system in the South.

Despite all the fumbles of the past they may succeed.

They have done such a good job that men like Sen. Harry Byrd, who helped throw Virginia to Eisenhower last year, is worried. For the first time in half a century the Republicans have put a candidate in the race for governor who may have a chance — if the anti-Byrd, pro-Stevenson Democrats take revenge on Byrd and vote Stevenson. In other words, Byrd, by throwing his weight to Eisenhower last year, helped to undermine his own once airtight control of the state.

The same is true in Texas, where Governor Shivers, also an Ike man, has frowned on Republican efforts to organize the state. What worries Shivers is that if enough conservative Democrats turn Republican then the liberal wing of the Democratic party, led by Sam Rayburn and with the help of such influential ralliers of the Spanish and Negro vote as Maury Maverick, could take Democratic control away from the governor.

Louisiana Housecleaning

Similar situations are developing in other Southern states. In Louisiana the Republicans have put outdated John Jackson, long-time GOP national committeeman, on the sidelines and are working through smart, progressive John Minor Wisdom, a lawyer who has the respect of everyone even though he is a Republican. It is important to remember that in the past few Republicans were respected in Louisiana.

Likewise, in Georgia, Republican patronage is being handled by Albert Tuttle, general council of the U. S. Treasury, and as a result of his organization work Republicans will put up local candidates for the Georgia legislature in about 20 counties for the first time since reconstruction days. They will also run some candidates for Congress in districts where prospects look worth while.

In South Carolina a five-wire Myrtle Beach lawyer, William A. Kimbel, is cleaning out the rusted GOP leadership of the past. Kimbel, Ben Boatright, Gus Dosher and George Warren are working at something Republicans never worked at before — organizing their party in the state where Fort Sumter was fired on.

How successful their efforts will be remains to be seen. But GOP plans call for a lot of money to be spent in the South the next three years, and Democratic leaders figure that some of their Southern colleagues who scorned the Chicago meeting will be all too happy to come back to the fold a little later.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(INS)—People . . . places . . . things—

At Capt. John J. Bergen's luncheon at "21" for the new chief of naval operations, Adm. Robert B. Carney, the admiral counseled his bemedalled listeners not to expect miracles of the new joint chiefs of staff.

What his listeners could expect, he added, was an organization hampered as little as possible by blind partisanship as any gathered since unification went into effect. He listed in detail the members' experience and past association.

"When I was chief of staff for Admiral Halsey in the Pacific," he said, looking fondly at his old boss, 'Nate Twining was head of the 13th Air Force and a man with whom we had the finest possible relationship, and in whom we had the greatest confidence.

"As for Gen. Ridgway, he is one of the most outstanding military men in many years, and a man with the finest intellectual honesty I've ever known. And then there is the chairman, Adm. Radford. We were classmates. I've known and respected him for 40 years.

"As far as I can see, there isn't any emergency that can come up in the world that will not see one or more of us with special knowledge of that part of the world where the trouble breaks out. We've all been around quite a bit."

The admiral naturally did not dwell on his own great career. He dotes on modesty. Matter of fact, he had a Churchill story about modesty to tell to those setting near him. To wit:

Churchill was dozing one afternoon in Commons when a member of the opposition rose and began what promised to be a windy speech. But an aide nevertheless gently aroused Churchill.

"What's he saying?" Churchill asked in a whisper that filled the house.

"Just started speaking," the aide whispered back. "He began 'I am a modest man....' "

"Has a lot to be modest about," Churchill agreed, and went back to sleep.

Several readers have been kind enough to inquire as to the condition of a boy named Dennis, who is related to my wife and me by marriage. Dennis recently underwent an operation after busting up a leg in a kids' game. Thanks to Dr. Miles Winder and the staff at Fitkin Hospital, Neptune, N. J., he will be okay. But it will take some time before he recovers his speed of foot, apparently. He got pinched by the chief of police of Allenhurst, N. J., the other day, the only kid who didn't get away from a fine old American game entitled: "Let's break the windows of that haunted house."

As forDennis' parents, they are still recuperating from a somewhat defeating bit of dialogue in which they engaged, during a trying 45 minute wait outside the operating room. My wife and I were sitting there in the waiting room, remembering some prayers, when a stern-looking lady entered, looked around, and called out:

"Do I understand there's a newspaper man in this room?"

Our hearts skipped a beat, in fear of the news she might be hearing.

Finally, I raised my hand and said, "I am."

"Fine," she beamed, "I'll buy one."

"Marilyn Monrovia!"

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Government By Law

The Constitution of the United States was signed on September 17, 1787, and was thereupon laid before the legislatures of the several states for "their assent and ratification." The resolution was signed by George Washington, President of the convention and W. Jackson, secretary.

Thus, September 17 of each year should mark one of the most notable anniversaries in our history. Unfortunately, it is not so marked. In fact, whereas in the various states there are a large number of commemorative days, celebrating this or that event, nowhere in the United States is the signing of the Constitution set aside for special attention. Like so much about the Constitution, it is taken for granted.

Yet, in many respects, this day is worthy of our attention. It marks a prolonged effort on the part of some of the best minds this country ever produced to establish a fundamental law, sovereign for the entire United States and yet not depriving each state of its own sovereignty or each individual of his inalienable rights. The task was difficult; the achievements stupendous.

The core of the American Constitution is that this is a government of law; it does not tolerate the whim of one man, be he benevolent or tyrannical. At no point in the Constitution are powers or authorities delegated to one man or to one office without limitations, checks and balances. The President is neither a king nor a prime minister; he is a constitutional executive with such powers as are designated to him and beyond which he may not go. We do not elect a government; we elect an administrator.

Perhaps this very characteristic of our Constitution is responsible for the excess of legislation which is so typical of the Congress and of the state legislatures. Yet, that excess is curbed by public opinion, which resists the unwarranted. James Coolidge Carter, one of our greatest lawyers, said of this:

". . . There are a vast number of laws on the statute-books of the several states which are never enforced, and generally for the reason that they are unacceptable to the people. There are great numbers of others the enforcement of which, or attempts to enforce which, are productive of bribery, perjury, subnoration of perjury, animosity and hate among citizens, useless expenditure, and many other public evils. All these are fruits of the common notion, to correct which but little effort is anywhere made, that a legislative enactment is necessarily a law, and will certainly bring about, or help to bring about, the good intended by it, whereas such an enactment, when never enforced, does not deserve the name law at all, and when the attempted enforcement of it is productive of the mischiefs above-mentioned, it is not so much law as it is tyranny."

The best example of the correctness of this view appeared in the utter inability of all the agencies of government to enforce Prohibition, leading to the eventual repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Constitution. Long before any legislative action was taken, the people repealed the Volstead Act by passive resistance.

Despite the complexities of American life, perhaps never envisaged by the Founding Fathers, the Constitution holds, with comparatively few amendments in 166 years. The first 10, the so-called Bill of Rights, are realistically not amendments but integral parts of the Constitution. The 13th, 14th, and 15th were a product of the War Between the States. Of the remaining nine, one was cancelled out by an amendment to that effect.

Only one amendment to the Constitution is now pending, although two others have been suggested, one limiting the taxing power of the federal government. The one pending is the Bricker Amendment to clarify the treaty-making power of the President—an amendment which is necessary because of conditions arising out of World War II and the establishment of the United Nations. This amendment would modify the treaty-making process, more effectively to protect the rights of the American people.

The story of the American Constitution and the meaning of its contents ought to be referred to annually in every school assembly, from the lowest grades upward. Too many of our citizens have never read the Constitution nor do they understand the benefits that they derive therefrom. Too many of our younger people grow up without an understanding of the fundamental institution of our country.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes, in the hurry and pressure under which news is distributed nowadays, there isn't time to look up basic law or constitutional precedents, and an entirely erroneous impression is unintentionally created.

Thus, from one end of the country to the other a few days ago went dispatches implying that Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, had violated some law when he gave to reporters a document which had been marked "restricted" or "classified information" by the Army. One editorial in an Eastern newspaper went so far as to cry out that the Wisconsin senator had "ignored" the law, that he was not "above the law," and so on.

Actually, if the Wisconsin senator violated any law by publishing the document which the Army had distributed to 100 officers so that they might study the meaning of Communist philosophy, so did the newspapers and press associations which printed what he gave them.

No Law Violated

The truth is no law was violated in either case. For there is no statute which forbids disclosure or publication of a government document just because somebody in the Army or the Navy or the Air Force happens to mark it as "classified." A thousand executive orders may be issued by a president ordering government personnel to keep things secret, and government employes can be punished for violating them, but this cannot affect any citizen outside the government who is the recipient of the information.

It so happens that in this case the Army officers were told to study certain phases of communism as an orientation course, and most of the material was taken from published books. The Army could have also taken a translation of the Koran, the Mohammedan bible, distributed copies of it and marked it "classified." No such arbitrary marking of information, however, can in any way restrain a newspaper or periodical from publishing the contents of such documents as are labeled "classified" if they can get hold of them.

The existing law says a crime is committed if anyone in the government "knowingly and willfully communicates, furnishes, transmits, or otherwise makes available to an unauthorized person, or publishes" any "classified information" about the code or cipher system of the United States.

When the foregoing law was up for passage, members of the press pointed out the dangers of a peacetime censorship law and succeeded in narrowing the language to code communication.

It may be questioned whether a peacetime censorship law would be held constitutional. It is interesting also to note that, even in the case of "classified information" relating to codes, there is a paragraph which says that "nothing in this section shall prohibit the furnishing, upon lawful demand, of information to any regularly constituted committee of the Senate or the House of Representatives of the United States of America, or joint committee thereof."

Precedent Set In 1935

Perhaps the most significant case that got to the courts occurred when Hugo Black, then a Democratic senator from Alabama, conducted his famous committee investigation in 1935 on the subject of "lobbying." Private messages between an editor and his associates were unlawfully seized from a telegraph office and disclosed by the Federal Communications Commission to an investigator for the committee. But the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held—and the case was never reversed by the Supreme Court—that, even though the information was obtained improperly, the data could be used by the committee. The court said that "the universal rule, so far as we know it, is that the legislative discretion in the discharge of its constitutional functions, whether rightfully or wrongfully exercised, is not a subject for judicial interference."

Senator Black evidently didn't suffer for his action because, two years later, he was elevated to the Supreme Court. Now this correspondent isn't advocating that Senator McCarthy be given a place on the federal bench, as was once facetiously mentioned in these dispatches, but merely points out that the Wisconsin senator may look upon the 1935 precedent as his justification in parallel circumstances for using whatever information he gathers.

Reds Close In On AP Offices In Series Of Strange Arrests

(EDITOR'S NOTE: William N. Oatis, the Associated Press correspondent who spent more than two years in a Communist prison in Czechoslovakia, has written a series of articles about his experiences. In the one below he tells of his arrest and the start of his long questioning.)

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

ADVANCE) Monday, April 23, 1951, was a bad day for me.

In one month, the Czech staff of The Associated Press bureau in Prague, Czechoslovakia, had been cut in half as three men had been arrested, one by one.

I had run the bureau with only two translators to help me cover the news through the 18 hours every day that it was made available by the official Czechoslovak News Agency, newspapers and radio.

I had to look for new help, keep books, write letters. I had to get a tire fixed. And I had promised to go see Tyler Thompson, counselor of the United States Embassy, to talk to him about my personal safety.

All morning I was involved with office detail, and it was 2 p. m. before I was ready to go to the embassy.

Just at that moment, a caller walked in. It was Miroslav (Mike) Hustak, a Czech who had lost his job as an operations officer for Pan American Airways when the line had stopped flights to Prague the previous fall.

"X" Marks The Window

He had come to my office about a month before, asking for work. There was some question about Hustak. I was not going to hire him, though I needed another translator badly and his English was good. But he had kept coming to see me.

Though it was chilly that April day, Hustak, a husky young man with a low forehead and eyebrows that joined about his nose, was in shirt sleeves and hatless.

He told me he had a story for me, and he showed me a photograph.

It was a picture of the front of an old castle, fenced off by iron bars and guarded by police dogs. Hustak said this was Kolodej Castle, northeast of Prague. On one barred window was an "X" in green ink.

Pasted on the back of the print was a typewritten note in Czech, which Hustak translated for me. It stated that Dr. Vlado Clementis, former Czechoslovak foreign minister, had been held until recently in the chamber marked. The note said this information came from "a militiaman named Jan."

Hustak told me he had got the picture from an acquaintance who knew about the interrogation of Clementis, arrested the previous January on spy charges. He said the man wanted to sell me the story. I told him I did not buy stories.

They Didn't Knock

He promised to try to pry it out for nothing. Then he started for the door.

"Oh, you can keep it," he said hastily, and dashed on out.

I laid the picture in a desk drawer and put on my hat and coat to go to the embassy.

Before I got to the door, it opened suddenly and some men in trench coats walked in. There were six of them, as I remember. They surrounded me.

A short, blond man in glasses, with a freckled pokerface, flashed a blue card from his pocket.

He looked like the kind of little boy that breaks windows and writes bad words on fences.

"Spionaz!"

But the card told me that he belonged to the Statni Bezpecnost (State Security), the most widely feared group in Czechoslovakia—the Communist secret police.

The little man, apparently the only one who spoke English, had me throw everything from my pockets onto a table.

"Pavel! Ha-ha!" he shouted, reading from the notebook. "Vesely! Ha-ha! Pokorny! Ha-ha!"

Those were the names of high security officers reported arrested in a purge that had begun in October with the imprisonment of a Brno Communist leader named Otto Sling.

A third man went to my desk, opened the drawer and took out the photograph I had got from Hustak. He examined it, pushed it in front of my nose and cried, "Spionaz!" (Shpee-oh-nahzh").

"Be Back In An Hour"

That was one Czech word I understood. It meant "espionage."

I headed for a teletype machine. If I could punch a message out on that, it would go right into The AP's Frankfurt bureau. But a detective headed me off.

Finally, the interpreter told me I must come to the police station.

"We just want to talk to you," he said. "You will be back here in an hour."

I did not believe it for one minute. But there was nothing I could do.

Three of the men escorted me downstairs and to a car parked in the street. It was a big, black, streamlined Tatraplan—a Czech car known as almost a trademark of the secret police.

A bareheaded chauffeur was at the wheel. One of the detectives got in beside him. The other two sat in back, with me between them.

"The Boss" Again

I had been taking things as they came, not thinking much about them. And I idly watched the street scenes as we rolled down Wenceslas Square and then by narrow back streets into the gateway of a gingerbready old building on Bartholomew Street.

We left the car there, and, in the midst of my three guards, I walked down the street and across to a modern building of perhaps six stories. The place had a slick white stone front and looked like a hospital.

AP Artist Ed Gunder sketches scene as William N. Oatis, after 42 hours without sleep, prepared to sign a "confession" in Prague jail.

We entered and, passing uniformed policemen, government propaganda posters and huge photographs of cabinet ministers, went up one flight of stairs to a comfortably furnished office overlooking the street. There we sat down and waited.

It was almost dark enough to turn the lights on in these when other plainclothesmen began drifting in. Last of all, with a quick, swaggering stride, came a lean, spectacled man in a tan trench coat. He was blond, with a long, pale face and pale fanatical blue eyes, pouched like a lizard's.

He frowned at me and, talking through an interpreter, said, "We have met before, on a happier occasion."

I remembered him. This man, who called himself "the Boss," had talked to me the previous November at a Prague permit office about whether I should be allowed to stay in Czechoslovakia.

"We Ruin Them!"

He had let me stay and work, even though I had been deprived of official accreditation as a foreign correspondent in Czechoslovakia and did not ge the accreditation back until three months later.

"You promised me then," he said, "that you would not do 'unofficial reporting'. You broke that promise."

I remembered making no overt promise to confine my reporting to official news sources. I told him so. He cited instances of "unofficial" newsgathering that he could have got only from my missing employes.

He said something about "nase strana," two Czech words I knew to mean "our party." The interpreter skipped that, but I got the next sentence in plain, ungrammatical English:

"If anyone opposes us, we ruin them!"

"Talk! Talk!"

"You are here," the man went on, "in two roles: As a witness against your employes, and as a defendant yourself.

"Do you know why your employes are here? Murder — foul murder! They protected an enemy agent. An accomplice of that agent took a human life. He killed one of our men in cold blood. A man with a wife and children."

I said I had nothing to do with any murder. I insisted I had never even met the agent he spoke of. He replied, "We will prove to you that you did."

The Boss hunched forward, shot a bony finger at me and yelled, "Spy!"

"If I'm a spy," I said, smiling, "I'm not a real spy—just a newspaper spy—I didn't spy for anybody but The Associated Press."

"The penalty for espionage," he continued, "is from 10 years to . . . death. It will be better for you to talk."

"What do you want me to talk about? I don't have anything to talk about."

"Your colleague, Samuel Meryn, was sarcastic, too, at first," the man came back. "Later he changed his mind. Today he has only kind words for us."

Meryn—incidentally no colleague of mine—had clerked in the U. S. Embassy. He had been arrested in 1949 and accused of handing out radio transmitters to a secret anti-state group. He was expelled from the country with a propaganda blast.

"If I 'talk,' "I asked, "will you let me go the way you did Meryn?"

A bystander spoke up, evidently willing to agree; words were cheap. But the reptilian blond stopped him.

"Don't promise him anything," he said. "Self-criticism must be free and natural. There must be no ulterior motive."

"We Have Other Methods"

More questions and answers followed.

I asked some questions myself: Could I see the U. S. consul? (No.) Would I be allowed a good English-speaking lawyer if I went to trial? (Yes.)

"If you do not talk," the Boss said, "we have to use other methods." He walked out.

Two interpreters took over—tiny men, like court dwarfs.

One asked me why I had written a story predicting disagreements over a policy at the Communist-dominated World Student Congress held in Prague the August before. I said because I thought it was news.

"That was not the reason you wrote the story!" he said. "You wrote it to break the unity of the congress!"

I remarked that Bishop Stanislav Zela had "talked," in a Prague treason and espionage trial, and got 25 years in prison.

"That was because he only talked for the court—he didn't talk for us," said the little man, with a sly smile.

I began thinking in terms of a short sentence for myself. I hopefully recalled the Meryn case. And I forgot something the Boss had said—"10 years to . . . death."

The Oatis Story

Reds Close In On AP Offices In Series Of Strange Arrests

(EDITOR'S NOTE: William N. Oatis, the Associated Press correspondent who spent more than two years in a Communist prison in Czechoslovakia, has written a series of articles about his experiences. In the one below he tells of his arrest and the start of his long questioning.)

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

ADVANCE) Monday, April 23, 1951, was a bad day for me.

In one month, the Czech staff of The Associated Press bureau in Prague, Czechoslovakia, had been cut in half as three men had been arrested, one by one.

I had run the bureau with only two translators to help me cover the news through the 18 hours every day that it was made available by the official Czechoslovak News Agency, newspapers and radio.

I had to look for new help, keep books, write letters. I had to get a tire fixed. And I had promised to go see Tyler Thompson, counselor of the United States Embassy, to talk to him about my personal safety.

All morning I was involved with office detail, and it was 2 p. m. before I was ready to go to the embassy.

Just at that moment, a caller walked in. It was Miroslav (Mike) Hustak, a Czech who had lost his job as an operations officer for Pan American Airways when the line had stopped flights to Prague the previous fall.

"X" Marks The Window

He had come to my office about a month before, asking for work. There was some question about Hustak. I was not going to hire him, though I needed another translator badly and his English was good. But he had kept coming to see me.

Though it was chilly that April day, Hustak, a husky young man with a low forehead and eyebrows that joined about his nose, was in shirt sleeves and hatless.

He told me he had a story for me, and he showed me a photograph.

It was a picture of the front of an old castle, fenced off by iron bars and guarded by police dogs. Hustak said this was Kolodej Castle, northeast of Prague. On one barred window was an "X" in green ink.

Pasted on the back of the print was a typewritten note in Czech, which Hustak translated for me. It stated that Dr. Vlado Clementis, former Czechoslovak foreign minister, had been held until recently in the chamber marked. The note said this information came from "a militiaman named Jan."

Hustak told me he had got the picture from an acquaintance who knew about the interrogation of Clementis, arrested the previous January on spy charges. He said the man wanted to sell me the story. I told him I did not buy stories.

They Didn't Knock

He promised to try to pry it out for nothing. Then he started for the door.

"Oh, you can keep it," he said hastily, and dashed on out.

I laid the picture in a desk drawer and put on my hat and coat to go to the embassy.

Before I got to the door, it opened suddenly and some men in trench coats walked in. There were six of them, as I remember. They surrounded me.

A short, blond man in glasses, with a freckled pokerface, flashed a blue card from his pocket.

He looked like the kind of little boy that breaks windows and writes bad words on fences.

"Spionaz!"

But the card told me that he belonged to the Statni Bezpecnost (State Security), the most widely feared group in Czechoslovakia—the Communist secret police.

The little man, apparently the only one who spoke English, had me throw everything from my pockets onto a table.

"Pavel! Ha-ha!" he shouted, reading from the notebook. "Vesely! Ha-ha! Pokorny! Ha-ha!"

Those were the names of high security officers reported arrested in a purge that had begun in October with the imprisonment of a Brno Communist leader named Otto Sling.

A third man went to my desk, opened the drawer and took out the photograph I had got from Hustak. He examined it, pushed it in front of my nose and cried, "Spionaz!" (Shpee-oh-nahzh").

"Be Back In An Hour"

That was one Czech word I understood. It meant "espionage."

I headed for a teletype machine. If I could punch a message out on that, it would go right into The AP's Frankfurt bureau. But a detective headed me off.

Finally, the interpreter told me I must come to the police station.

"We just want to talk to you," he said. "You will be back here in an hour."

I did not believe it for one minute. But there was nothing I could do.

Three of the men escorted me downstairs and to a car parked in the street. It was a big, black, streamlined Tatraplan—a Czech car known as almost a trademark of the secret police.

A bareheaded chauffeur was at the wheel. One of the detectives got in beside him. The other two sat in back, with me between them.

"The Boss" Again

I had been taking things as they came, not thinking much about them. And I idly watched the street scenes as we rolled down Wenceslas Square and then by narrow back streets into the gateway of a gingerbready old building on Bartholomew Street.

We left the car there, and, in the midst of my three guards, I walked down the street and across to a modern building of perhaps six stories. The place had a slick white stone front and looked like a hospital.

We entered and, passing uniformed policemen, government propaganda posters and huge photographs of cabinet ministers, went up one flight of stairs to a comfortably furnished office overlooking the street. There we sat down and waited.

It was almost dark enough to turn the lights on in these when other plainclothesmen began drifting in. Last of all, with a quick, swaggering stride, came a lean, spectacled man in a tan trench coat. He was blond, with a long, pale face and pale fanatical blue eyes, pouched like a lizard's.

He frowned at me and, talking through an interpreter, said, "We have met before, on a happier occasion."

I remembered him. This man, who called himself "the Boss," had talked to me the previous November at a Prague permit office about whether I should be allowed to stay in Czechoslovakia.

"We Ruin Them!"

He had let me stay and work, even though I had been deprived of official accreditation as a foreign correspondent in Czechoslovakia and did not ge the accreditation back until three months later.

"You promised me then," he said, "that you would not do 'unofficial reporting'. You broke that promise."

I remembered making no overt promise to confine my reporting to official news sources. I told him so. He cited instances of "unofficial" newsgathering that he could have got only from my missing employes.

He said something about "nase strana," two Czech words I knew to mean "our party." The interpreter skipped that, but I got the next sentence in plain, ungrammatical English:

"If anyone opposes us, we ruin them!"

"Talk! Talk!"

"You are here," the man went on, "in two roles: As a witness against your employes, and as a defendant yourself.

"Do you know why your employes are here? Murder — foul murder! They protected an enemy agent. An accomplice of that agent took a human life. He killed one of our men in cold blood. A man with a wife and children."

I said I had nothing to do with any murder. I insisted I had never even met the agent he spoke of. He replied, "We will prove to you that you did."

The Boss hunched forward, shot a bony finger at me and yelled, "Spy!"

"If I'm a spy," I said, smiling, "I'm not a real spy—just a newspaper spy—I didn't spy for anybody but The Associated Press."

"The penalty for espionage," he continued, "is from 10 years to . . . death. It will be better for you to talk."

"What do you want me to talk about? I don't have anything to talk about."

"Your colleague, Samuel Meryn, was sarcastic, too, at first," the man came back. "Later he changed his mind. Today he has only kind words for us."

Meryn—incidentally no colleague of mine—had clerked in the U. S. Embassy. He had been arrested in 1949 and accused of handing out radio transmitters to a secret anti-state group. He was expelled from the country with a propaganda blast.

"If I 'talk,' "I asked, "will you let me go the way you did Meryn?"

A bystander spoke up, evidently willing to agree; words were cheap. But the reptilian blond stopped him.

"Don't promise him anything," he said. "Self-criticism must be free and natural. There must be no ulterior motive."

"We Have Other Methods"

More questions and answers followed.

I asked some questions myself: Could I see the U. S. consul? (No.) Would I be allowed a good English-speaking lawyer if I went to trial? (Yes.)

"If you do not talk," the Boss said, "we have to use other methods." He walked out.

Two interpreters took over—tiny men, like court dwarfs.

One asked me why I had written a story predicting disagreements over a policy at the Communist-dominated World Student Congress held in Prague the August before. I said because I thought it was news.

"That was not the reason you wrote the story!" he said. "You wrote it to break the unity of the congress!"

I remarked that Bishop Stanislav Zela had "talked," in a Prague treason and espionage trial, and got 25 years in prison.

"That was because he only talked for the court—he didn't talk for us," said the little man, with a sly smile.

I began thinking in terms of a short sentence for myself. I hopefully recalled the Meryn case. And I forgot something the Boss had said—"10 years to . . . death."

Conservation Committee Cites Allegany County Soil Erosion

Rains during the five-month period of May through September account for more than 90 per cent of the annual soil loss in Allegany County, according to data gathered by the Committee for Conservation Now.

Evidence of the summer soil loss can be found throughout the county wherever fields are cultivated up and down slopes. The percentage of slope in cultivated rows determines the rate of loss. Soil is not likely to erode on less than one per cent slope, but the loss can increase as much as four tons per acre for each one per cent increase in slope.

High intensity, thunder storm rains during the cultivating and growing season are the cause for heavy spring and summer soil loss. Winter erosion is relatively insignificant because winter rains are usually gentle, and frost and snow prevent soil loss.

The Committee reported that research studies on sloping land indicate erosion may remove from 10 to 25 tons of top soil per acre each year. Nine out of every 10 tons are lost during spring and summer months.

An acre of top soil six inches deep weighs approximately 1,000 tons, the Committee explained. This means an acre inch of top soil can be lost in from 6 to 14 years and the entire six inches in from 40 to 100 years.

Top soil washed away is usually the best, since erosion is a selective process. It removes the finer, more fertile material in greater proportion than coarser material. Besides removing soil, erosion also removes fertilizer.

The Committee added that fall months are a good time to plan erosion control practices for the next year cropping season. Assistance can be secured on conservation planning from soil conservaiton districts.

Fourth Grade

supervisor believes that when another school year starts they, too, will be prepared to teach piano.

First Demonstration

First of the classroom demonstrations will be conducted at 9:45 a. m. today at Pennsylvania Avenue School for the training of fourth grade teachers of schools in the South End and East Side. Mrs. Routch will use the pupils in Mrs. Alberta G. Warnick's classroom for her demonstration.

The second demonstration, at 1:30 p. m. today, will be at Mt. Royal School for fourth grade teachers of schools in the West Side and North End as well as Corriganville, Ellerslie, LaVale and Cresaptown. Mrs. Anne Huddle's fourth graders will take part in the demonstration.

Thursday at 9:45 a. m. another demonstration is scheduled in the music room of Hammond Street School in Westernport for teachers there, from Luke, McCoole, Barton and Central of Lonaconing. The fourth session will be at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at Beall Elementary School music room in Frostburg for teachers of that school, Hill Street, Mt. Savage, Midland and Eckhart. The last demonstration will be at Flintstone School at 9:45 a. m. Friday for that school, Piney Plains and Oldtown. Mrs. Mary M. Robinette's fourth grade pupils will participate in the demonstration.

Starts October 1

The new music education supervisor believes the piano program will be ready to start about October 1, when he expects to have all of the needed supplies.

Assisting in the piano program of the county schools are eight resource music teachers who travel to a number of different schools. They are Mrs. Margaret Carroll, Miss Grace Swanson, Miss Georgiana Gianopoulis, Miss Mabel Myers, Miss Mary Robb, Mrs. Doris Davis Williams, Miss Jean Rosenberger and Miss Anita Dickens.

Routch also disclosed yesterday that all third grade pupils will have the opportunity of playing flutophones, basic instruments which are played in much the same manner as clarinets and saxophones although much more simple.

The area was used by the Army for maneuvers during World War II training. Several years later, the two hunters spotted one of the unexploded shells lying in the forest. As one of the hunters curiously kicked the object to one side, it exploded, tearing off his leg.

Soil is not likely to erode on less than one per cent slope, but the loss can increase as much as four tons per acre for each one per cent increase in slope.

High intensity, thunder storm rains during the cultivating and growing season are the cause for heavy spring and summer soil loss. Winter erosion is relatively insignificant because winter rains are usually gentle, and frost and snow prevent soil loss.

The Committee reported that research studies on sloping land indicate erosion may remove from 10 to 25 tons of top soil per acre each year. Nine out of every 10 tons are lost during spring and summer months.

An acre of top soil six inches deep weighs approximately 1,000 tons, the Committee explained. This means an acre inch of top soil can be lost in from 6 to 14 years and the entire six inches in from 40 to 100 years.

Top soil washed away is usually the best, since erosion is a selective process. It removes the finer, more fertile material in greater proportion than coarser material. Besides removing soil, erosion also removes fertilizer.

The Committee added that fall months are a good time to plan erosion control practices for the next year cropping season. Assistance can be secured on conservation planning from soil conservaiton districts.

supervisor believes that when another school year starts they, too, will be prepared to teach piano.

First Demonstration

First of the classroom demonstrations will be conducted at 9:45 a. m. today at Pennsylvania Avenue School for the training of fourth grade teachers of schools in the South End and East Side. Mrs. Routch will use the pupils in Mrs. Alberta G. Warnick's classroom for her demonstration.

The second demonstration, at 1:30 p. m. today, will be at Mt. Royal School for fourth grade teachers of schools in the West Side and North End as well as Corriganville, Ellerslie, LaVale and Cresaptown. Mrs. Anne Huddle's fourth graders will take part in the demonstration.

Thursday at 9:45 a. m. another demonstration is scheduled in the music room of Hammond Street School in Westernport for teachers there, from Luke, McCoole, Barton and Central of Lonaconing. The fourth session will be at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at Beall Elementary School music room in Frostburg for teachers of that school, Hill Street, Mt. Savage, Midland and Eckhart. The last demonstration will be at Flintstone School at 9:45 a. m. Friday for that school, Piney Plains and Oldtown. Mrs. Mary M. Robinette's fourth grade pupils will participate in the demonstration.

Starts October 1

The new music education supervisor believes the piano program will be ready to start about October 1, when he expects to have all of the needed supplies.

Assisting in the piano program of the county schools are eight resource music teachers who travel to a number of different schools. They are Mrs. Margaret Carroll, Miss Grace Swanson, Miss Georgiana Gianopoulis, Miss Mabel Myers, Miss Mary Robb, Mrs. Doris Davis Williams, Miss Jean Rosenberger and Miss Anita Dickens.

Routch also disclosed yesterday that all third grade pupils will have the opportunity of playing flutophones, basic instruments which are played in much the same manner as clarinets and saxophones although much more simple.

The area was used by the Army for maneuvers during World War II training. Several years later, the two hunters spotted one of the unexploded shells lying in the forest. As one of the hunters curiously kicked the object to one side, it exploded, tearing off his leg.

Md. Reformatory Back To Normal In Wake Of Riots

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—A state prison official reported late today things were "pretty well back to normal" at nearby Breathedsville reformatory, scene of three riots in two days.

James W. Curran, assistant superintendent of prisons, said all work details were back on schedule and that even outdoor athletic programs have been resumed.

He said, however, additional police will remain on duty at the prison until it is certain there will be no new outbreaks.

Curran said he will make an official report on the riots to Harold E. Donnell, superintendent of prisons. Details would have to come from Donnell, he added.

A system of over-lapping guard shifts was set up so that strong forces of guards would be on hand in the morning and evening hours, and especially at meal times.

An uneasy calm settled on the institution today.

In the third disturbance last night, 100 inmates of a dormitory rioted for aboug 90 minutes, breaking furniture and lights, splattering ink on walls and causing other damage. The riot died down after four ringleaders were separated from the mob and placed in solitary confinement.

It was the third such outbreak since Sunday. The first, on Sunday, was the result of resentment over an umpire's decision in a baseball game, officials said, and the other two resulted from unrest arising from the first riot.

Hagerstown's Fair Will Have New Look

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Hagerstown Fair will have a new look when it opens for the 98th year Monday, Sept. 21.

The Great Hagerstown Inter-State Fair and Exhibition—that's its official title—will include such diverse new features as wrestling and model railroads this year.

The pigs, girl shows, cotton candy, and ferris wheels will be on hand as usual at the Hagerstown fairgrounds Sept. 21-26.

Other innovations this year include the judging of some of the livestock at night, instead of during the day.

The Maryland . Pennsylvania Hungarian Club of Pigeon Fanciers is staging its annual show at the fair this year, and the Maryland Horticultural Society is sponsoring a state-wide display of apples.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15 (AP) — Dr. Henry Lyon Sinskey, nose and throat specialist and former professor at the University of Maryland Medical School, died here today at 66 after a long illness.

Statehouse Draws

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 15 (AP)—Maryland's Statehouse already has drawn 4,000 more visitors in 1953 than it did in all of last year.

The Department of Information reported that in the first eight months of this year some 34,000 visitors had been recorded. About 30,000 were registered last year.

Whales Are Tough

LIVERPOOL, England, Sept. 15 (AP) — Falling tides stranded two whales on a mudbank in the Mersey Estuary today—and left the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals with conscience trouble.

RSPCA officials fired two rifle shots into one whale as it thrashed in the mud. Then the tide came up again and both whales swam off.

No Major Outbreak

Baltimore County Family Hit By Second Polio Death

LUTHERVILLE, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—A Baltimore County family was hit by a second polio death in two days today, but the county health officer said there was no major outbreak of the dread disease in the county.

Today's victim was David Yates, 14-year-old Towson high school freshman. His sister, 6-year-old Susan Yates, a first grade student at Lutherville Elementary School, died two days ago.

The children lived with their family in Providence, Md.

After Susan's death, school principal Maynard Webster wrote letters to families of first and fifth grade pupils. He advised them to check their doctors to see if they should apply for anti-polio injections of gamma globulin.

The letter was then retracted officially by Dr. Edward G. Stapleton, county superintendent of schools.

Dr. Warthen said there were no polio cases in the fifth grade of the school and that the total number of cases in the county was "not unusual for this time of year."

Field Chopper Severs Leg Of Farm Worker

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 15 (AP) — A field chopper severed the leg of a 40-year-old man as he harvested soybeans at St. Margaret's today.

The victim, Earl Specht, was in serious condition at Anne Arundel General Hospital after the accident this morning.

Specht's foot was caught in the machine as he worked on the farm alone. A doctor said he was trapped there for nearly two hours while his nephew, Robert Specht Jr., trucked away the soybeans.

The nephew discovered him on his return shortly before noon.

Hospital authorities said Specht had regained consciousness late in the afternoon, but was still in serious condition.

Convicted Credit Union Manager's Goods Auctioned

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15 (AP) — The fabulous furnishings of a 14-room home in fashionable Guilford were auctioned off today as a credit union tried to get back part of $350,000 embezzled from it.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 buyers and onlookers milled about the lawn and rear garden in a carnival-like atmosphere as the possessions of Mrs. Naomi Hartman Ringrose went on the block.

Mrs. Ringrose, 45-year-old housewife and mother, is serving a five-year term for embezzling $350,000 from the Baltimore Social Security Administration Credit Union of which she was manager.

At one point, Auctioneer A. J. Billig invited the crowd in to see a second-floor bedroom suite, but realizing his mistake he shouted for the crowd to return and auctioned off the suite on the basis of the catalogue description. It went for $625.

Volunteer workers from the Credit Union helped move furniture and sold soft drinks and sandwiches from a makeshift stand on the front lawn.

Among the items offered for sale were three television sets, an electric organ, a baby grand piano, numbers of elaborate mirrors and hundreds of items of personal property.

Two of Mrs. Ringrose's mink coats sold for $1,490 and several items of jewelry, including a watch with diamond numerals, brought $1,600.

Z. Townsend Parks Jr., attorney for the credit union, said he expected the sale to realize $12,000 to $15,000. He added that the credit union will pay a reward of 15 per cent for any part of the estimated $200,000 of embezzled funds still unaccounted for.

DAR, Seeking Picture Of FitzSimons, Signer Of Constitution, Sends Out SOS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Daughters of the American Revolution today sent out an SOS. They can't find a picture of Thomas FitzSimons anywhere, and they need one badly.

The DAR wants a picture of FitzSimons because he associated with George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Ben Franklin, and James Madison, and anyone who kept such company was likely to wind up signing the Constitution. Which is what FitzSimons did.

There are drawings or sketches of all the 38 other signers. But the DAR so far hasn't been able to find one of Tom.

And it isn't so much he was undistinguished, either. He was born in County Tubber, in Ireland. He came to this country, went into business and before he died he founded a bank and became president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

He also soldiered in the Revolution, and dabbled in politics. He served in the Pennsylvania Legislature and, later, after the new government was set up, he was elected to Congress three times.

County School Enrollment Shows Increase Over 1952

Enrollment in Allegany County schools shows an increase of 706 over the number on the rolls at the end of the term in June, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

Higgins said the enrollment is 15,787 this year as compared to the June listing of 15,081. The largest gain was noted in the first grade pupils.

Last year there were 1,548 first-graders while at the end of the first week of school this year the number had risen to 1,784. A registration taken late in the spring had indicated only 1,661 prospective first-graders, Higgins explained. In 1950 there were 1,367 first grade pupils; in 1951 this total dropped to 1,332; and a hike to 1,548 was noted last year.

Total enrollment in all the county public schools in 1950 was 15,533 and in 1951 the number dropped to 15,175. Last year there were 15,229 attending in September. Higgins said the enrollment was 15,081 at the end of the school last June.

The 21 elementary schools all reported increases in first grade enrollments over the figures contemplated last spring as indicated by registration. Higgins said there is no general movement of students from one area of the county to another with the increase being spread out over the district.

Some areas had higher increases than others. For example, Fort Hill High School had an enrollment of 1,775 students last June. This year a total of 1,940 students have registered so far. Higgins said this week there may be additional enrollments but that the bulk of the students have reported.

Allegany High School had 1,382 students last year while this year the number has increased to 1,482. Beall Elementary had 602 last year and 640 this year. Beall High had an increase from 895 to 910 students this year. Bruce High School in Westernport had an increase of 10 students to 610 this year.

Central Elementary in Lonaconing increased from 390 to 412 pupils this year. Columbia Street School increased from 368 to 402 pupils. Cresaptown noted an increase from 742 to 782 pupils. East Side jumped from 425 to 438 pupils. Hammond Street in Westernport went from 392 to 408 pupils and Johnsons Heights School from 429 to 447 pupils.

LaVale School has an enrollment this year of 387 as compared to 331 last year. McCoole Elementary went from 213 to 228 pupils. Mt. Royal School increased to 278 from last year's 267. Mt. Savage School has an enrollment of 776 as compared to 706 last year. Oldtown went from 464 to 478 students.

The new Valley High School in Lonaconing enrolled 742 students as compared to last year's 689. The new school replaces Central and Barton highs.

Agreement Reached In Land Dispute

A condemnation suit scheduled for Circuit Court today has been settled out of court by agreement between the State Roads Commission and a Winchester Road property owner.

James Alfred Avirett, attorney for Mrs. Ellen L. Martz, said the state had brought condemnation proceedings against the three-story stucco residence owned by his client when the parties could not agree on a price for the dwelling. The property also includes one section on the other side of the highway.

Avirett conferred with Joseph D. Buscher, attorney for the State Roads Commission, Monday and an agreement was reached on the price of the property.

Church builders of the Middle Ages often provided special entrances in their churches to appease the devil and prevent him from hampering the construction of the building.

Africa, the second largest continent, has an estimated area of 11,500,000 miles.

Chemists Claim Odorless Paint

WILMINGTON, Del., (INS) — DuPont chemists claim they have come up with a new odorless interior paint.

The development promises relief for hospitals, hotels, schools and other institutions where paint fumes have always been a problem. It will also make practical for the first time painting of house interiors during the winter months.

Paint experts at the Wilmington plant say the new solvents used in the odorless product have other advantages as well. They say whites and light tints are more resistant to yellowing. Drying time has been reduced. Hiding, also, has been improved and the new material brushes easier.

The new paints are completely odorless while the paint is being applied, although there is some slight odor on drying.

Railway Income Up For August

The Western Maryland Railway had an increase of three-quarters of a million dollars in revenue during August over the similar month last year.

Estimated gross operating revenues for August was $4,584,000, an increase of $749,000 over August of 1952.

For the first eight months of this year gross was figured at approximately $34,033,000 compared with $30,407,571 for the corresponding period of 1952.

Net income for last month after taxes and charges, was tentativey reported at about $860,000, as against $547,807 for August, 1952.

Net for the eight months was estimated at $5,323,000, equal to $30 a share on the 177,420 shares of seven per cent cumulative first preferred stock, which is in dividend arrears.

For the corresponding eight months of 1952 net income was $3,120,741 or $17.59 a share on the senior preferred stock.

In its estimate of gross operating revenues for August, the company noted that coal and coke freight accounted for $1,615,000, compared with $1,403,000 a year earlier. Other freight receipts came to $2,708,000, against $2,240,000.

Western Maryland's recapitalization plan, which would eliminate dividend arrears of $126 a share on the first preferred stock, has progressed to a point where the final briefs have been filed, the company said. The Interstate Commerce Commission examiner's report is now awaited.

County Road Building Fund Matched By Commissioners

A check was drawn by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday in the amount of $98,421.93 to match federal funds for road construction during the current fiscal year.

The check is paid over to the State Roads Commission which handles the procedure in roads built by the county with federal aid. A total of $77,000 will be put up by the federal government for road construction. The commissioners also informed the State Roads Commission that next year they will put up $80,144.10 to obtain matching funds of $63,000 for road construction.

The money is being ear-marked for the new road into Mt. Savage School. This project is expected to cost about $250,000. The funds put up by the county come from gasoline tax funds and motor vehicle license receipts.

A visit to the site of a new intersection relocation project was made yesterday by the commissioners to determine what price the county will pay for two rights-of-way. The work is slated for the intersection of the Orleans Road and U. S. Route 40 with the north and south intersections being some distance apart.

The proposed relocation would make both the north and south intersections across from each other on Route 40. J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, told the commissioners that two property owners are asking for more money than originally proposed by the commissioners for the property taken.

The county also agreed to ditch a roadway in the vicinity of the city dump for residents of that area. The residents said they would fix up the road if the county would have ditches dug with a grader. The grader is in the area. The road in question runs off one which connects the city dump road with the Oldtown Road.

Railway Income Up For August

The Western Maryland Railway had an increase of three-quarters of a million dollars in revenue during August over the similar month last year.

Estimated gross operating revenues for August was $4,584,000, an increase of $749,000 over August of 1952.

For the first eight months of this year gross was figured at approximately $34,033,000 compared with $30,407,571 for the corresponding period of 1952.

Net income for last month after taxes and charges, was tentativey reported at about $860,000, as against $547,807 for August, 1952.

Net for the eight months was estimated at $5,323,000, equal to $30 a share on the 177,420 shares of seven per cent cumulative first preferred stock, which is in dividend arrears.

For the corresponding eight months of 1952 net income was $3,120,741 or $17.59 a share on the senior preferred stock.

In its estimate of gross operating revenues for August, the company noted that coal and coke freight accounted for $1,615,000, compared with $1,403,000 a year earlier. Other freight receipts came to $2,708,000, against $2,240,000.

Western Maryland's recapitalization plan, which would eliminate dividend arrears of $126 a share on the first preferred stock, has progressed to a point where the final briefs have been filed, the company said. The Interstate Commerce Commission examiner's report is now awaited.

County Road Building Fund Matched By Commissioners

A check was drawn by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday in the amount of $98,421.93 to match federal funds for road construction during the current fiscal year.

The check is paid over to the State Roads Commission which handles the procedure in roads built by the county with federal aid. A total of $77,000 will be put up by the federal government for road construction. The commissioners also informed the State Roads Commission that next year they will put up $80,144.10 to obtain matching funds of $63,000 for road construction.

The money is being ear-marked for the new road into Mt. Savage School. This project is expected to cost about $250,000. The funds put up by the county come from gasoline tax funds and motor vehicle license receipts.

A visit to the site of a new intersection relocation project was made yesterday by the commissioners to determine what price the county will pay for two rights-of-way. The work is slated for the intersection of the Orleans Road and U. S. Route 40 with the north and south intersections being some distance apart.

The proposed relocation would make both the north and south intersections across from each other on Route 40. J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, told the commissioners that two property owners are asking for more money than originally proposed by the commissioners for the property taken.

The county also agreed to ditch a roadway in the vicinity of the city dump for residents of that area. The residents said they would fix up the road if the county would have ditches dug with a grader. The grader is in the area. The road in question runs off one which connects the city dump road with the Oldtown Road.

Surgeon's Knife Will Make Girl Soldier Of Shah

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sloe-eyed Farideh Najafi, 16, rested in a Tehran hospital today, awaiting the surgeon's scalpel that will make her a soldier of the Shah.

Farideh—whose name will officially be changed to Farhaad as soon as a doctor performs the operation later this week—told newsmen today that her highest ambition is to be a soldier in the Iranian army.

As soon as her name is re-registered as that of a man instead of a woman, said Farideh, she is ready to take up a gun for her sovereign.

A doctor in Pahlevi Hospital, where she is awaiting her operation, said "Miss Farideh has the ability to become a man."

He added that three operations are necessary to complete the transition, which already is well advanced, even without surgical aid.

Farideh, who comes from Shabastar, in Azerbaijan, near the Soviet border was brought to the hospital two days ago by her mother. She was wearing an Iranian Chador, a one-piece cloth obscuring all but her eyes.

Farideh told the newsmen: "My voice changed two months ago and as a result mother became doubtful whether I was a boy or girl."

In preparation for her new role as a man, Farideh's hair was cut short by the hospital barber this morning. Farideh said stoutly, admiring the new crew cut in a mirror, "I thank God for becoming a man. I will immediately prepare myself to become a soldier."

"DEAD" MAN REVIVED—Dr. William N. Henry checks the heart of his smiling patient, Paul W. Carmody, 26, whom he said "died" on the operating table at a Wickenburg, Ariz., hospital and was revived four minutes and 45 seconds later. Dr. Henry said Dr. Fred Shannon opened the man's chest, massaged the heart and injected a drug. The heart started beating again. Dr. Henry assisted in the operation.

Conant Says Safety In Distance Is Myth

BONN, Germany, Sept. 15 (AP) — U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant told 200 American students here today the world "has grown so much smaller that our former safety in distance has all but disappeared."

"It is therefore more important than ever before that we contribute what we can to mutual understanding," Conant added.

He told the students they were "young ambassadors representing the United States in Germany."

He said they would be struck by the cultural unity of Western Europe and would find the cultural tradition of Western Europe is in fact our own tradition."

Equipment Show For Woodlands Planned Sept. 30

Will Be Conducted In Tucker County

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — The fourth annual Woodland Equipment Show to be held at the Fernow Experimental Forest at Parsons in Tucker County Wednesday, Sept. 30, will be a real double feature, according to Phil Berthy, extension forester at West Virginia University.

The show will begin at 9:30 a. m. and will be over by 3 p. m.

The West Virginia Forest Council and the Upper Monongahela Valley Association, co-sponsors; have arranged a show of logging and sawmill equipment, along with a tour of the Fernow Experimental Forest, Berthy pointed out.

"Anyone who likes machinery will enjoy watching while tractors equipped with logging arches carry loads of logs out of the forest. A variety of power chain saws will be used to buck logs. Wood chippers will reduce wood waste to usable wood chips. Many other kinds of forestry equipment will be on display with plenty of people to answer questions," Berthy stated.

The second feature of this year's show will be a tour of the Fernow Experimental forest. This forest serves as a forest-research laboratory. One objective of the work done there by the Forest Service is to find a cheaper and more efficient way of logging mountain hardwoods, the extension forester explained.

Pasture Conditions Compared With 1930

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP)—Pasture conditions in West Virginia on Sept. 1 were the worst for that date since 1930, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

Drought conditions, the service said, "probably had a more pronounced effect on grasses than any other growing crop in this state."

The service's estimates of the yield of corn, hay and peaches were scaled down as of Sept. 1, from a month earlier.

"The corn crop has been hurt by the unusual weather," the forecast continued.

"Reporters indicated that a yield per acre of 39 bushels would be harvested, rather than the 40 bushels expected on Aug. 1. If this yield is obtained, the crop will amount to 7,449,000 bushels this year, a decline of 11 per cent from 1952."

Grant County Schools Open 174-Day Term, 2,000 Enroll

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Grant County schools began their 174-day 1953-54 term August 31 with approximately 2,000 pupils registered in the county high and rural schools.

County Superintendent of Schools A Neil Frye announced that all holidays such as Christmas, Good Friday and the like would be made up by teachers and pupils during the school term. He also noted that two days during the deer season schools will be closed.

The 79 teachers in the county met for pre-school instructions August 28 at the Petersburg grade school auditorium. Commencement exercises for the two county high schools, Bayard and Petersburg will be held May 24.

Superintendent Frye pointed out that Grant schools would be in session only 174 days because teachers received two paid holidays during the term, Thanksgiving and Armistice Day. Three days will be occupied by the teachers at workshops and county teacher meetings and the five-year school census, directed by the State Superintendent of Schools, will be conducted this year.

Schools were in session only two days last week because of the Labor Day holiday, census report and annual school day at the Tri-County Fair.

Grant county instructors will attend the West Virginia Education Association meeting Oct. 26-27, Frye said. The Thanksgiving holiday will extend from November 25 to December 1. Students will return to classes December 2, he continued.

Commenting on the two-day holiday permitted during deer season, Frye explained many rural pupils were endangered from stray bullets while awaiting buses and other transportation and that schools in the mountain areas are in the hunting domain.

Christmas vacations begin December 24 and continue to January 4, 1954 when classes again resume.

The annual mid-year teachers meeting is scheduled January 29 and the spring banquet is set for April 2. County field day will be held May 7.

Equipment Show For Woodlands Planned Sept. 30

Will Be Conducted In Tucker County

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — The fourth annual Woodland Equipment Show to be held at the Fernow Experimental Forest at Parsons in Tucker County Wednesday, Sept. 30, will be a real double feature, according to Phil Berthy, extension forester at West Virginia University.

The show will begin at 9:30 a. m. and will be over by 3 p. m.

The West Virginia Forest Council and the Upper Monongahela Valley Association, co-sponsors; have arranged a show of logging and sawmill equipment, along with a tour of the Fernow Experimental Forest, Berthy pointed out.

"Anyone who likes machinery will enjoy watching while tractors equipped with logging arches carry loads of logs out of the forest. A variety of power chain saws will be used to buck logs. Wood chippers will reduce wood waste to usable wood chips. Many other kinds of forestry equipment will be on display with plenty of people to answer questions," Berthy stated.

The second feature of this year's show will be a tour of the Fernow Experimental forest. This forest serves as a forest-research laboratory. One objective of the work done there by the Forest Service is to find a cheaper and more efficient way of logging mountain hardwoods, the extension forester explained.

Pasture Conditions Compared With 1930

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP)—Pasture conditions in West Virginia on Sept. 1 were the worst for that date since 1930, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

Drought conditions, the service said, "probably had a more pronounced effect on grasses than any other growing crop in this state."

The service's estimates of the yield of corn, hay and peaches were scaled down as of Sept. 1, from a month earlier.

"The corn crop has been hurt by the unusual weather," the forecast continued.

"Reporters indicated that a yield per acre of 39 bushels would be harvested, rather than the 40 bushels expected on Aug. 1. If this yield is obtained, the crop will amount to 7,449,000 bushels this year, a decline of 11 per cent from 1952."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 (INS)—The honeymoon of Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes will be spent in Philadelphia where Dick goes to fulfill an engagement at the Latin Quarter night club.

As it now stands, Dick gets his divorce in Las Vegas on Sept. 23. He and Rita will marry Sept. 25, and leave immediately for the east.

Rita first had expected to go to Del Mar where Dick was appearing, but changed her plans when she received those letters threatening the life of herself and little Yasmin, her daughter by Prince Aly Khan. Then she decided to stay at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

Must be a real love match between Alan Ladd and Warwick Productions. Already Alan has made four pictures for the company, which is headed by Cubby Broccoli, and now comes word that he has signed for a fifth, "Prize Of Gold," which Mark Robson will direct.

This one must wait for "The Black Knight," which Alan films in England. And speaking of waiting, that's what "The Black Knight" company has had to do, shooting around Alan until he completes "Saskatchewan" in Canada. That too has been a hectic race against time, what with bad weather fouling up the shooting schedule.

Back from Mexico City, Ray Driscoll, the designer who always has something to report, says that the figures of the American women are the worst in the world.

"Women in Mexico," he says, "have more sex appeal because their well developed hips and bust show off a dress to better advantage.

"I cannot accustom myself to short haircuts and the manish look of women," he says. "I have designed clothes for Dolores Del Rio, Evangelina Elizondo, Tongolele, Maria Victoria and others, and they all have the proportions of a femme fatale." Yet, Ray says Dolores dieted so strenuously she made herself ill.

Fontana, Italy's famous couturier, is flying her collection and three beautiful models over from Italy for a fashion review at Romanoff's Crown Room.

It's all a part of the promotion for the picture "Three Girls From Rome." Cobina Wright will M.C. and Freddie Karger's orchestra will furnish the music.

As for the gowns, well you have to have money to buy a Fontana.

Although the Tyrone Powers didn't get the boy they hoped for, Tyrone doesn't seem too unhappy that the stork dropped another baby girl.

As for Linda Christian Power, she had said that she knew she was going to have a boy. She said she had ways of telling, and expected a Tyrone Power, III.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Virginia O'Brien and Kirk Alyn are very happy over the arrival of a baby boy. They already have two little daughters.

Blanche Ring II eloped to Las Vegas last weekend and married Chuck Frank. She's the daughter of Cyril Ring and the niece of the great actress Blanche Ring.

L. K. Sidney, MGM executive, has been in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital with a bad case of indigestion and remains a week in the hospital for observation.

Larry Finley is continuing to crowd his new night place in the Mocambo. He was so busy he had to help the waitresses serve.

Glimpsed there was Susan Zanuck with John Smith, and Vera Ellen with Richard Gully. This last combination is getting to be an every night date.

Eva Gabor's book, "Orchids And Salami," will be out for the Christmas trade. Eva says she used the title because orchids and salami were the only items that were sure to be in the Gabor icebox.

Wallace Douglas, brother of actor Robert Douglas, is marrying Anne Crawford, well known British actress. She recently appeared in "Nights Of The Round Table" for MGM. The bridegroom is a London theatrical producer.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You may be endowed with delightful natural beauty, blessed with many endearing qualities and talents, yet, unless you acquire poise, all of your charms will be sailing under a cloud.

It has been said that "poise is a power derived from the mastery of self." Poise also is a matter of knowing what not to do. If you could see yourself as others do, here are some of the impressions you would be sure never to give:

Slips In Poise

Do you clear your throat frequently? It is almost certain to be a nervous manifestation. It is a habit that can be broken Though you think you will choke, resist the impulse! You won't choke . . . and in time you will find yourself free of the desire.

Do you talk "around" your cigarette, letting it dangle in the corner of your mouth? Are your eyes perpetually squinting thru a veil of smoke? Generally, chain smoking is the result of lack of poise, a nervous impulse that zeros charm in quickest fashion. Resist that next cigarette. Force your mind to concentrate on the conversation—and your hands to relax.

Do you enter a room with a boisterous walk, bobbing up and down in too energtic fashion? Absence of haste is the keynote of poise. Take a deep breath just as you enter a room and take your time!

Do you ever catch yourself supplying the next word for any person who halts and hesitates when talking? Bite your tongue before you do it again! Accord the person speaking the right to take all the time he or she needs.

Do you ever fasten your toes behind or around the leg of a chair? If someone snapped a picture of you in this position, you would never be caught showing such lack of control again.

Charm Detractors

Do you ever let your mind wander during a conversation so, though you are supposed to be listening, you actually are in a sort of trance? It's a poor avenue of escape and you are sure to be caught! Keep your eyes on those of the person speaking and you'll avoid this trap.

Do you ever nervously tap a finger or drum several rhythmically albeit unconsciously? Teach your hands relaxed positions of grace, cupping them palms up in your lap. It's a prime indication of poise!

Do you twiddle with your hair or pat it into place? Do you fiddle with the handle of your purse? Do you turn on what you believe to be an enthusiastic grin when you think it's propitious and then let your face lapse again into an expression of stupefied boredom? And when you actually are interested, do you practically leap out of your chair in your intenseness?

Rid yourself of distracting and unattractive mannerisms and you are sure to be a charmer!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

County Board Bridge Plans Being Studied

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday discussed a resolution passed by the House at the last session of the General Assembly which calls for the reopening of the Flat Rock Bridge across Georges Creek near Barton.

The House resolution, introduced by the Allegany County delegation to the legislature, was adopted by the House on April 1 of this year.

The Flat Rock Bridge, one mile south of Barton was closed in 1938 under the federal grade crossing elimination program to eliminate a dangerous condition to vehicles using the one-way structure. Closing of the bridge eliminated two crossings of the old C & P Railway, since taken over by the Western Maryland Railway.

In 1941 an act was passed by the General Assembly for the reopening of the bridge but, according to County Commissioner James Holmes, a case in Circuit Court resulted in a decision against the reopening.

The resolution by the House states that the bridge is necessary to the health, well-being and safety of residents living on the far side of Georges Creek. An alternate route adds five miles to the distance between the residents and the town of Barton, it is stated. The resolution claims the residents of the affected area have been placed beyond adequate police and fire protection due to the distance.

Commissioner Holmes, who was on the county board at the time the bridge was closed, said the bridge and roadway involved were both state maintained and the county has no jurisdiction over the matter. It was also stated at the meeting of the commissioners that once federal funds are used to eliminate a grade crossing it cannot be reopened again.

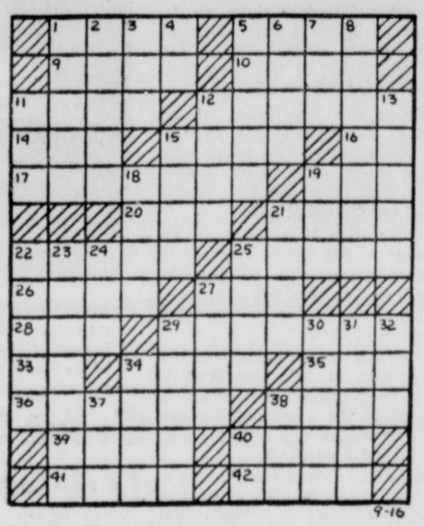
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

County Board Bridge Plans Being Studied

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday discussed a resolution passed by the House at the last session of the General Assembly which calls for the reopening of the Flat Rock Bridge across Georges Creek near Barton.

The House resolution, introduced by the Allegany County delegation to the legislature, was adopted by the House on April 1 of this year.

The Flat Rock Bridge, one mile south of Barton was closed in 1938 under the federal grade crossing elimination program to eliminate a dangerous condition to vehicles using the one-way structure. Closing of the bridge eliminated two crossings of the old C & P Railway, since taken over by the Western Maryland Railway.

In 1941 an act was passed by the General Assembly for the reopening of the bridge but, according to County Commissioner James Holmes, a case in Circuit Court resulted in a decision against the reopening.

The resolution by the House states that the bridge is necessary to the health, well-being and safety of residents living on the far side of Georges Creek. An alternate route adds five miles to the distance between the residents and the town of Barton, it is stated. The resolution claims the residents of the affected area have been placed beyond adequate police and fire protection due to the distance.

Commissioner Holmes, who was on the county board at the time the bridge was closed, said the bridge and roadway involved were both state maintained and the county has no jurisdiction over the matter. It was also stated at the meeting of the commissioners that once federal funds are used to eliminate a grade crossing it cannot be reopened again.

The Great Salt Lake in Utah is 75 miles long and 30 to 50 miles wide and there are nine islands in the lake.

Key Largo is the longest and the largest of the Florida Keys.

County Board Gets No Paint Job Bids

When the clock struck off 10:30 yesterday morning Allegany County Board of Commissioners prepared to open bids on a contract to clean and paint eight bridges.

For the first time in many months the commissioners had not received a single bid on a proposed contract. James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, told the commissioners that one paint contractor had obtained specifications for the project, but did not submit a bid.

No decision was reached on whether or not to readvertise for bids.

Parker's Returns To Tournament Via Forfeit By Elks

Robert E. Pence, director of the Western Maryland Softball Tournament, last night announced that the B.P.O. Elks have forfeited to Parker's Pool Room for using more than three draftees in their opening round contest Monday night which they won by the score of 7-6.

The forfeit victory moved Parker's into the semi-finals with Hercules Powder Kegs tonight at 6 o'clock at Penn Avenue Field.

Tournament rules allow a team to use only three outside players, Pence stated.

At game time the Elks were without the services of three regulars due to illness and injuries. Eight players present included three draftees. Bob Deremer of the Moose was added as the ninth player.

With an insufficient number of players available at game time, Pence, who plays with the Elks stated that his team could have forfeited but played the contest rather than disappoint the crowd.

He added that since the Elks violated tournament rules Parker's is entitled to the win via forfeit.

Rookie Steve Kraly Loser; Teams Divide 1953 Series, 11-11

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP) — Al Rosen's run-scoring single in the first inning gave Bob Lemon and the Cleveland Indians a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees today as the rival clubs closed out their season series with 11 victories each.

Lemon scattered seven hits for his 20th triumph to best rookie Steve Kraly in a pitcher's duel. The young Yankee southpaw yielded only four hits, but two of them came in the first inning for the lone run of the game.

It was Lemon's fourth triumph over New York. Early Wynn also scored four and Mike Garcia gained the other three.

Lemon has hit the 20-win circle five times in the last six years, top achievement for sustained performance in recent league history.

Bob scattered seven New York hits today in outpitching Kraly, rookie lefthander. Kraly held the Tribe to four singles but gave up the run in the first inning when Bobby Avila and Rosen singled after a leadoff pass to Al Smith.

That was Rosen's 136th run batted in.

Kraly now has lost two games, both by shutouts to Cleveland and Lemon. The 23-year-old, who is counted upon in Casey Stengel's plans for a sixth straight pennant in 1954, was a bit wild, walking six.

Both managers played their regular lineups because Cleveland and Chicago are battling for second place money. Stengel made up a second-string batting order before the game, then revised it after realizing that he might be criticized by adherents of the White Sox.

Reds Edge Giants

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15 (AP) — Cincinnati edged the New York Giants 4-3 tonight and narrowed the gap between the two second division clubs to two games. Fred Baczewski pitched the sixth-place Redlegs to victory, while Ruben Gomez hurled for the fifth-place New Yorkers.

DODGERS ARE SLUGGERS

BROOKLYN—(AP)—Roy Campanella, Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo of the Dodgers each have hit more than 20 homers this season. This ties a National League record for most players hitting 20 or more during one season. The Giants accomplished this feat in 1947 with Johnny Mize, Willard Marshall, Walker Cooper and Bobby Thomson doing the clouting.

BACKFIELD ACE — Robert Andrews, halfback of Fort Hill High School, was chosen first K. of C. "Back of the Week" for the 1953 season. Andrews, 158-pound junior, excelled in Fort Hill's 7-0 victory over LaSalle last Friday night. Bob gained 122 of the 150 yards rushing credited to the Sentinels and made a noteworthy pass interception. Other backs considered were Bobby Christ and Dennis Shuck of LaSalle. A "Lineman of the Week" also will be named by the K. of C. committee. Players selected will receive miniature gold footballs and will be eligible for the "Player of the Year" award.

Les Handt Beats Frank Stranahan In Amateur Golf

Merrins Victor Over Carr, British Champ

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15 (AP) —A paunchy chicken and egg man from Florida and a stoical Mississippi college boy shared giant-killing roles today to eliminate Frank Stranahan and British amature champion Joe Carr in the second round of the National Amateur Golf Tournament.

Les Handt, a graying 39-year-old combination poultry farmer and financier, put the skids under Stranahan, two-time British amateur champion, 4 and 3, clinching the match with a 15-foot downhill putt for a birdie deuce on the short 15th hole.

Edward Merrins of Meridian, Miss., 21-year-old Louisiana State University student, ousted Carr, the pride of Dublin, two up, when a bold gamble by the Irishman on the last hole failed.

Young Merrins, who goes about his shotmaking in a cold and imperturable manner, three times took the lead from the British champion—the last time at the 15th—and held on to win on the final green.

These two major upsets came in the late evening of a long, 64-match day after Congressman Jack Westland from Everett, Wash., the defending champion, and seven of his Walker Cup teammates pushed through to the third round.

Two of these—1949 champion Charlie Coe, the home town hopeful, and 1952 British winner, Harvie Ward of Atlanta—survived only to find themselves face-to-face in the first of tomorrow's brace of 18-hole sudden death eliminations.

Lattimer Gets Call To Start Terps' Opener

Cumberland Center Going To Missouri

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum has about decided on the 11 men who will start against Missouri in Columbia Saturday, inaugurating the one-platoon game for the Terps.

Charles Lattimer

Tatum's first "60 minute" eleven includes sophomore Bill Walker, West Mifflin, Pa., and senior Marty Crytzer, Brackenridge, Pa., at ends; Stanley Jones, senior from Lemoyne, Pa., at tackle; juniors John Bowersox, Westminster, Md., and George Palahunik, McKees Rocks, Pa., guards, and senior Charley Lattimer, Cumberland, Md., at the center slot.

In the backfield the Terps will be represented by Bernie Faloney, senior and co-captain from East Carnegie, Pa.; seniors Chester Hanulak, Hackensack, N. J., and Dick Nolan, White Plains, N. Y., at halfbacks, and senior Ralph Felton, Midway, Pa., at fullback.

Co-captain Bob Morgan of Freeport, Pa., will start at tackle if x-rays determine that a knee injury is nothing serious. Morgan injured the knee in scrimmage Saturday.

Roberts Posts 22nd Triumph

Stops Chicago, 4-2; Kiner Hits No. 34

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP) — Two streaks ended here today as Robin Roberts pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 payoff against Chicago to snap the seventh place Cubs' 10 game winning string.

Roberts yielded eight hits and snapped a personal four game losing streak. It was Robin's 22nd triumph against 14 losses.

After the Cubs placed the tying runs aboard in the ninth on successive singles by Ralph Kiner and Hank Sauer, Roberts ended the game by fanning Randy Jackson and getting Joe Garagiola on a fly to Richie Ashburn.

Ralph Kiner slammed his 34th homer of the season and Hank Sauer his 17th in a fruitless effort to make it 11 straight wins for the Cubs. Roberts cracked his first homer of the year in the fourth.

Potomac Valley And Eagles Reach Tourney Semi-Finals

Cubs Top Schute's, 6-2; FOE Beats Central, 6-3

Potomac Valley's Cubs, champions of the County League, ushered Schute's Roofers of the Men's Division of the City Rec League, out of the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament by winning last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 6-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Hayden Phillips.

Manager Jimmy Allen's ace righthander struck out 14 batsmen and posted his 28th win of the season against two losses as the Cubs chalked up their 16th straight triumph and moved into the tourney semi-finals where they'll play the Eagles tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Bob Koelker touched Phillips for a two-run homer in the first inning but thereafter Schute's was put on a diet of goose eggs. Koelker was the only player in the game to obtain two hits. In mowing down 14 batsmen via the strikeout route Phillips fanned the side in the fourth and seventh innings.

The Roofers played loosely afield and were charged with five errors.

Glenn Hanna's double was the Cubs' only extra base wallop.

Allen Sheetz turned in a three-hit performance as the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Rocking Chair League champions, eliminated Central Quick Lunch, 6-3, in the opening game of the doubleheader.

Lou Riehl gave the Eagles a 2-0 lead in the first frame when he belted a two-run homer. Basilio duplicated the feat in the third to knot the count in the third. Central grabbed a 3-2 lead in the fourth but Elmer Lashley settled the issue in the bottom of the 4th when he hit for the circuit with two mates aboard.

The victory, Sheetz's 20th of the season, put the Eagles in the semi-finals tonight. Jim Roby, who twirled for the Moose during the R. C. League season, went the route for Central Lunch. Scores:

Parker's Returns To Tournament Via Forfeit By Elks

Robert E. Pence, director of the Western Maryland Softball Tournament, last night announced that the B.P.O. Elks have forfeited to Parker's Pool Room for using more than three draftees in their opening round contest Monday night which they won by the score of 7-6.

The forfeit victory moved Parker's into the semi-finals with Hercules Powder Kegs tonight at 6 o'clock at Penn Avenue Field.

Tournament rules allow a team to use only three outside players, Pence stated.

At game time the Elks were without the services of three regulars due to illness and injuries. Eight players present included three draftees. Bob Deremer of the Moose was added as the ninth player.

With an insufficient number of players available at game time, Pence, who plays with the Elks stated that his team could have forfeited but played the contest rather than disappoint the crowd.

He added that since the Elks violated tournament rules Parker's is entitled to the win via forfeit.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP) — Al Rosen's run-scoring single in the first inning gave Bob Lemon and the Cleveland Indians a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees today as the rival clubs closed out their season series with 11 victories each.

Lemon scattered seven hits for his 20th triumph to best rookie Steve Kraly in a pitcher's duel. The young Yankee southpaw yielded only four hits, but two of them came in the first inning for the lone run of the game.

It was Lemon's fourth triumph over New York. Early Wynn also scored four and Mike Garcia gained the other three.

Lemon has hit the 20-win circle five times in the last six years, top achievement for sustained performance in recent league history.

Bob scattered seven New York hits today in outpitching Kraly, rookie lefthander. Kraly held the Tribe to four singles but gave up the run in the first inning when Bobby Avila and Rosen singled after a leadoff pass to Al Smith.

That was Rosen's 136th run batted in.

Kraly now has lost two games, both by shutouts to Cleveland and Lemon. The 23-year-old, who is counted upon in Casey Stengel's plans for a sixth straight pennant in 1954, was a bit wild, walking six.

Both managers played their regular lineups because Cleveland and Chicago are battling for second place money. Stengel made up a second-string batting order before the game, then revised it after realizing that he might be criticized by adherents of the White Sox.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15 (AP) — Cincinnati edged the New York Giants 4-3 tonight and narrowed the gap between the two second division clubs to two games. Fred Baczewski pitched the sixth-place Redlegs to victory, while Ruben Gomez hurled for the fifth-place New Yorkers.

DODGERS ARE SLUGGERS

BROOKLYN—(AP)—Roy Campanella, Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo of the Dodgers each have hit more than 20 homers this season. This ties a National League record for most players hitting 20 or more during one season. The Giants accomplished this feat in 1947 with Johnny Mize, Willard Marshall, Walker Cooper and Bobby Thomson doing the clouting.

BACKFIELD ACE — Robert Andrews, halfback of Fort Hill High School, was chosen first K. of C. "Back of the Week" for the 1953 season. Andrews, 158-pound junior, excelled in Fort Hill's 7-0 victory over LaSalle last Friday night. Bob gained 122 of the 150 yards rushing credited to the Sentinels and made a noteworthy pass interception. Other backs considered were Bobby Christ and Dennis Shuck of LaSalle. A "Lineman of the Week" also will be named by the K. of C. committee. Players selected will receive miniature gold footballs and will be eligible for the "Player of the Year" award.

Merrins Victor Over Carr, British Champ

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15 (AP)—A paunchy chicken and egg man from Florida and a stoical Mississippi college boy shared giant-killing roles today to eliminate Frank Stranahan and British amature champion Joe Carr in the second round of the National Amateur Golf Tournament.

Les Handt, a graying 39-year-old combination poultry farmer and financier, put the skids under Stranahan, two-time British amateur champion, 4 and 3, clinching the match with a 15-foot downhill putt for a birdie deuce on the short 15th hole.

Edward Merrins of Meridian, Miss., 21-year-old Louisiana State University student, ousted Carr, the pride of Dublin, two up, when a bold gamble by the Irishman on the last hole failed.

Young Merrins, who goes about his shotmaking in a cold and imperturable manner, three times took the lead from the British champion—the last time at the 15th—and held on to win on the final green.

These two major upsets came in the late evening of a long, 64-match day after Congressman Jack Westland from Everett, Wash., the defending champion, and seven of his Walker Cup teammates pushed through to the third round.

Two of these—1949 champion Charlie Coe, the home town hopeful, and 1952 British winner, Harvie Ward of Atlanta—survived only to find themselves face-to-face in the first of tomorrow's brace of 18-hole sudden death eliminations.

Lattimer Gets Call To Start Terps' Opener

Cumberland Center Going To Missouri

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 15 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum has about decided on the 11 men who will start against Missouri in Columbia Saturday, inaugurating the one-platoon game for the Terps.

Charles Lattimer

Tatum's first "60 minute" eleven includes sophomore Bill Walker, West Mifflin, Pa., and senior Marty Crytzer, Brackenridge, Pa., at ends; Stanley Jones, senior from Lemoyne, Pa., at tackle; juniors John Bowersox, Westminster, Md., and George Palahunik, McKees Rocks, Pa., guards, and senior Charley Lattimer, Cumberland, Md., at the center slot.

In the backfield the Terps will be represented by Bernie Faloney, senior and co-captain from East Carnegie, Pa.; seniors Chester Hanulak, Hackensack, N. J., and Dick Nolan, White Plains, N. Y., at halfbacks, and senior Ralph Felton, Midway, Pa., at fullback.

Co-captain Bob Morgan of Freeport, Pa., will start at tackle if x-rays determine that a knee injury is nothing serious. Morgan injured the knee in scrimmage Saturday.

Roberts Posts 22nd Triumph

Stops Chicago, 4-2; Kiner Hits No. 34

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP) — Two streaks ended here today as Robin Roberts pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 payoff against Chicago to snap the seventh place Cubs' 10 game winning string.

Roberts yielded eight hits and snapped a personal four game losing streak. It was Robin's 22nd triumph against 14 losses.

After the Cubs placed the tying runs aboard in the ninth on successive singles by Ralph Kiner and Hank Sauer, Roberts ended the game by fanning Randy Jackson and getting Joe Garagiola on a fly to Richie Ashburn.

Ralph Kiner slammed his 34th homer of the season and Hank Sauer his 17th in a fruitless effort to make it 11 straight wins for the Cubs. Roberts cracked his first homer of the year in the fourth.

Potomac Valley And Eagles Reach Tourney Semi-Finals

Potomac Valley's Cubs, champions of the County League, ushered Schute's Roofers of the Men's Division of the City Rec League, out of the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament by winning last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 6-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Hayden Phillips.

Manager Jimmy Allen's ace righthander struck out 14 batsmen and posted his 28th win of the season against two losses as the Cubs chalked up their 16th straight triumph and moved into the tourney semi-finals where they'll play the Eagles tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Bob Koelker touched Phillips for a two-run homer in the first inning but thereafter Schute's was put on a diet of goose eggs. Koelker was the only player in the game to obtain two hits. In mowing down 14 batsmen via the strikeout route Phillips fanned the side in the fourth and seventh innings.

The Roofers played loosely afield and were charged with five errors.

Glenn Hanna's double was the Cubs' only extra base wallop.

Allen Sheetz turned in a three-hit performance as the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Rocking Chair League champions, eliminated Central Quick Lunch, 6-3, in the opening game of the doubleheader.

Lou Riehl gave the Eagles a 2-0 lead in the first frame when he belted a two-run homer. Basilio duplicated the feat in the third to knot the count in the third. Central grabbed a 3-2 lead in the fourth but Elmer Lashley settled the issue in the bottom of the 4th when he hit for the circuit with two mates aboard.

The victory, Sheetz's 20th of the season, put the Eagles in the semi-finals tonight. Jim Roby, who twirled for the Moose during the R. C. League season, went the route for Central Lunch. Scores:

Stengel Figures Yankees Of 1954 Better Than Ever

Aged Hurling Staff To Be Strengthened

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Casey Stengel served notice to the rest of the American League today the Yankees are going to be "better than ever next year."

Now that he has his record-breaking fifth straight pennant, the New York manager is going after No. 6 with a vengeance.

"In 1954 we could have the best team we ever did have," said Casey happily. "It will be a pleasure for me to be back managing it, too.

Not Quitting Now

"Sure, at one stage of my career here I did think of quitting. It was at the end of the 1951 season. But now, after five straight, my interest is at its peak."

Then Casey, who has one more year to go on his two year contract, discussed his 1954 team. The present club clinched the pennant earlier than any of his other four flag winners.

"This team is still improving," said the 62-year old manager. "My infield will be stronger. Phil Rizzuto showed he hasn't slipped. Gerry Coleman's return gives me the second shortstop I didn't have this season.

"Gil McDougald and Andy Carey at third, Billy Martin, McDougald and Coleman at second, all give me stronger protection than I had this spring when I said I wouldn't trade any of my players for the sort of men other clubs might have offered us."

Then he discussed the one possible weak spot in his preview of '54.

Will Depend On Kraly

"Our pitching for next year will be a little aged."

He was referring to Ed Lopat, Allie Reynolds and Johnny Sain (all three will be 36 next year) and Vic Raschi (who will be 35).

"But I expect we'll strengthen our pitching," said Casey. "I've got players to trade and we may have to sacrifice to help our pitching. But Whitey Ford was great this year and Steve Kraly should become a winner."

Keegan Beats Red Sox, 6-0

Chicago Twirler Tosses 3-Hitter

BOSTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — Righthander Bob Keegan limited the Red Sox to three hits, including a pair of singles by Ted Williams, today while hurling the Chicago White Sox to a 6-0 shutout in their 1953 Boston finale.

Keegan, who now has a 5-5 record, walked only one batter and retired the last 17 in order. While the Chicago flinger was turning in his highly effective performance, the White Sox pounded Lefty Maury McDermott for 12 hits. The latter was seeking his 18th victory but wound up with his ninth setback.

The White Sox settled matters in the second inning by scoring twice as Sherm Lollar and Keegan sandwiched Nelson Fox' double with singles. Then two more Chicago runners scored in the fifth on singles by Chico Carrasquel and Minnie Minoso, Sam Mele's double and an infield out.

Carrasquel scored the last run in the ninth on a double steal with Minoso. The latter was nailed when he tried to score after second baseman Billy Goodman made a wild throw to the plate.

This young lady, a graduate of Beall High School in 1919, was Allegany county's outstanding tennis player in the 1920s.

In 1927 she was ranked ninth in the Middle Atlantic States as a singles player, the first time such an honor was bestowed on a player from this section of Maryland.

Here are some of the highlights of her tennis career:

In 1924, 1925 and 1026 won Allegany County singles championships and teamed with Dick Oswald to take doubles honors in 1925. She and Ralph Weber, Oakland, won mixed doubles at Mt. Lake in 1925.

Paired with Susan Beall to annex Mt. Lake doubles in 1925 and 1926. Howard Howenstein, Washington, D. C., was her partner as they walked off with mixed doubles honors at the Garrett county resort in 1926.

Recognized as one of Western Maryland's all-time tennis greats, this young lady participated in three national tournaments at Forest Hills, N. Y., in 1926, 1927 and 1928 when Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory (1926) and Helen Wills (1927 and 1928) won singles championships. On one occasion she teamed up with Mrs. Mary Sutton Bundy in the national doubles tourney there.

Helen Wills, who later played under the name of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, was the greatest woman tennis player she ever saw in action. Miss Wills won national titles in 1923, 1924, 1925, 1927, 1928 and 1929 and as Mrs. Moody in 1931.

The tennis ace pictured here appeared in numerous other tournaments at Philadelphia, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Rye, N. Y., etc., and her touring partner was Susan Beall. She once was invited to play on the Sears Cup team but turned it down.

At Beall High School, 1915 through 1918, this two sports star played forward on several championship basketball teams coached by a Mr. Kennedy, commercial teacher. She recalls that Marion Durst, now Mrs. William A. Gunter, was on the freshman team when she started to play basketball at the Frostburg school. Gertrude Morgan was coach when she played at Frostburg State Teachers College. It was at Teachers' College she started her tennis career in 1921 and nine years later she retired from the sport.

PRICHARD'S

Rearrangement Marks Remodeled Prichard Store

One of the most advanced steps taken by any retail merchant of Frostburg for many years is undoubtedly the rearrangement of the Prichard Store which has been going on for the past several months.

The first or main floor has been departmentized into the following: A new gift ware department; cleaning and laundry supplies; paints and painters' supplies; home and shop tools; builders and cabinet hardware; galvanized ware; a sporting goods and hunting clothes department; major appliances; houseware and home furnishings, and electrical and plumbing supplies.

The second floor will carry a complete line of wallpaper and floor coverings while the basement will house the feeds, roofings, builders' supplies, and steel goods.

Store Opening Visitors To Receive Gifts

Hundreds of free gifts for visitors will be one of the features of the grand opening of the newly remodeled store of the Prichard Company, Frostburg, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Robert Prichard, manager and president of the firm, also stated that nine attractive door prizes will be awarded following the drawing on Saturday night. Anyone attending the opening may register for the drawing to be held at 8:30 p. m., and the winner need not be present at the time of the drawing.

Besides the door prizes, the opening will feature displays and demonstrations of many of the latest conveniences and advances in modern living. Included among these will be a modern, worksaving kitchen, complete with electric range, refrigerator, automatic washer and drier — all of which are in operating condition in the display.

"We are proud of our model kitchen," says Mr. Prichard. "The display gives the homemaker an idea of just how the new kitchen will look in her home and how the appliances will operate to save her time and effort."

Committee To Survey Communism In Unions

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md) said yesterday his Senate Internal Security subcommittee will "resurvey" the whole field of communism in labor unions beginning in November.

The subcommittee has under consideration Butler's proposal to give the Subversive Activities Control Board, an independent government agency, power to strip Red-dominated unions of bargaining privileges under the National Labor Relations Law.

Labor unions have made great strides in ridding themselves of Communists, Butler said in a radio interview but he added:

"We don't feel that they have succeeded completely."

Food Clue To Heart Disease Is Found

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

BOSTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — A food clue to prevent hardening of arteries and heart disease is announced by Harvard scientists.

They produced artery hardening in monkeys by feeding them diets lacking a protein material, methionine. Monkeys getting enough methionine stayed healthy with no sign of artery disease.

Methionine is one of the amino acids or building blocks of proteins. Meats and other animal proteins are a rich source of it.

The scientists cautioned it is premature to say that human artery hardening is due to a lack of methionine.

An important step was creating the hardening, known as atherosclerosis, in monkeys, which are primates like man. The disease in monkeys may be more akin to the human disease than hardening produced experimentally in chicks or rabbits.

The research was announced in the Journal of Experimental Medicine by Drs. George V. Mann, Steven B. Andrus, Frederick J. Stare, and Ann McNally of the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health.

At the University of California Hospital, Dr. James F. Rinehart and L. D. Greenberg have found evidence that Vitamin B-6, pyridoxine, may help prevent artery hardening.

Symptoms like human artery hardening developed in monkeys fed for six to 18 months on foods lacking the vitamin. Their arteries improved if they were given B-6 soon enough. But once their arteries had thickened, adding B-6 to their food didn't cure the trouble.

Prichard Corporation Occupying Fourth Building In Its History

The present establishment of the Prichard Corporation located at the corner of Broadway and West Main Street, was formally opened to the public on Monday evening, June 28, 1920. This building is the fourth that has been occupied by the Prichard business in the past 46 years, a period covering the growth of this concern from "a hole in the wall" on East Main Street to the present modern quarters.

The Prichard Corporation started in business at 159 East Main Street, August 11, 1907, with E. B. Prichard, his son, Irvin, and one employe, a tinner. On June 1, 1911, the firm moved to 166 East Main Street and after remaining there for four years moved again on December 15, 1915, to 45 East Main Street, having purchased the hardware business of Frank C. Beall. After remaining at that location for five years, they purchased the lot on which the destroyed Shea building had been located and erected their present building.

Television Time Is Ideal Time For Grooming Chores

Television can be a boon to your glamor.

Instead of making it a great time waster (those who own sets claim housework, sewing and laundry chores are always far behind) you can use those moments while scanning video to do something constructive.

Start with your hairbrush and do that 100 strokes a day you never seem to have time for. You can even get the feel of your pincurls without using a mirror. Take your comb and section your hair, wrapping the curl around your finger carefully. After the curls are all in place, dab on witch hazel or water with cotton.

You can give yourself a facial while watching TV. Put all your face "goo" and cleansing tissues on a tray. Then apply cold cream, leaving it on the proper length of time, massaging it in gently. Remove cream and cleanse face with good quality witch hazel. Apply your mask, whether it is home made or prepared, and leave it on until it begins to tighten the skin.

Facial exercises are fun to do and actresses who do them while waiting on the set say that although the exercises call for some silly props, they pay off in beauty. Try this for a lovelier throat line: Put a long pencil between the teeth, then pencil your name in the air along an imaginary line. Another exercise to keep mouth and lip lines lovely involves blowing out as into a balloon, inflating the cheeks with air and letting the air out through slightly parted and rounded lips. This may be done as often as you like.

Hand beauty is another charm pick-up that may be promoted instead of idling your time away at a TV set. The emery board may be used easily, even in the dark, and nails may be soaked in baby oil to soften the cuticle. After the oil treatment, massage the finger tips gently, pushing the cuticle back to reveal possibly long-hidden nail moons.

One easy-to-remember hand exercise is good for tapering the fingers: Cup a bit of baby lotion into the palm and stroke it on the hand firmly and gently from palm to fingertip and from fingertip to palm, sort as if you were smoothing on a glove. The lotion may be smoothed up right over hand and wrist and even forearms.

Foot exercises take the kinks out of tired tootsies. Kick off your slippers and stretch your feet while you watch your favorite program. Try these exercises: Cross the legs at the knees and make little circles with the foot, rotating it at the ankle. Alternate the direction every five minutes or so. Another ankle slimmer consists of raising the leg so the foot is straight out. Reach with toes, then bring toes back and reach with the heel. Picking up marbles with your toes is good for the feet. Just curl your toes around a marble and raise it off the floor an inch or so.

Indian Troops Guard POWs

By SAM SUMMERLIN

INDIAN VILLAGE, Neutral Zone, Korea, Tuesday, Sept. 15 (AP)—Crack Indian troops are guarding unruly anti-Communist Chinese and North Korean prisoners in this demilitarized zone with big smiles and strong arms.

The efficient handling of the prisoners by the snappy Indian soldiers—many towering over 6 feet and all appearing in top physical condition—is fast winning admiration from Allied officers.

These are the troops South Korean officials had threatened to resist if they stepped on South Korean soil. The U. N. Command dodged possible trouble by ferrying the Indians by helicopter from Inchon Harbor, where their ships anchored, to the demilitarized zone.

Rabid anti-Communist North Koreans and Chinese prisoners have taxed Indian ingenuity daily since they started arriving last Thursday in the sprawling network of barbed wire enclosures here.

The prisoners have tossed barrages of stones at Communist observers, climbed up the barbed wire fences in an effort to reach the Reds, staged a sit-down, refused to be searched and even battled Indian guards with bare fists.

The Indians answered each challenge swiftly. So effective was their handling that major trouble so far has been avoided in the mass transfer of 23,000 anti-Communist prisoners from Allied to neutral nation custody. Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Switzerland and India are responsible for custody of the anti-Reds until their disposition is finally determined. The prisoners have refused to return to their Communist homelands.

Engineer Says It's Good Field For Girls

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—College girls everywhere are trooping back to school these days, and Katharine Stinson hopes many of them plan to study engineering.

For Miss Stinson is president of the Society of Women Engineers, a nationwide organization of ladies who will fight at the drop of a monkey wrench any idea that girls can't be as good engineers as men.

"Better in some jobs," Miss Stinson said firmly.

The society has around 400 members, and this year it's trying to encourage girls to enter such professions as electrical, mechanical or civil engineering.

Miss Stinson thinks there are two reasons why so many girls never even think of engineering as a possible career.

To many, she thinks, an engineer is a tough guy wearing boots, bossing a construction job. Yet many an engineering position calls for a steady diet of desk work, at which, Miss Stinson feels, a girl may shine.

Secondly, she feels too many people are convinced an engineer has to be a mathematical genius. Miss S. thinks that angle is overstressed. What's important, she says, is a real love of things scientific.

Oddly, there's a demand for women engineers, yet the number of sweet young girl engineering graduates is decreasing steadily.

All women engineers are occupational descendants of Edith Julia Griswold, electrical engineer, New York City Normal, 1886.

After Edith Julia, the supply of girl engineers remained steady, but few. Not until World War II was there a pronounced change in the pattern. Then the demand for engineers became so great that some companies even paid the tuition for girls of promise.

The peak came in 1948, with 191 girl engineering graduates. That number has fallen off until last spring only 60 girls were graduated in engineering.

Miss Stinson, who has a boyish grin that recalls the late Amelia Earhart, is proof enough that a girl can do all right in the business.

Twelve years ago when she got out of North Carolina State—its first and, as far as she knows, its only girl engineering graduate—she headed for the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The CAA never has hired another woman engineer, but the one it did hire has become head of its specifications division.

For Miss Stinson, the path to aeronautical engineering was as straight as the crow flies or the stratosphere cruiser.

To her parents' consternation, when she was a youngster in Raleigh, N. C., she used to hang around the airport. She learned to take a plane apart, and, possibly more important, put it back together. When she was 16, she learned to fly one.

"I always was crazy about airplanes," she said. "Still am."

So if your daughter has a scientific or mechanical bent and maybe likes to lurk around hangars, let her lurk. Miss Stinson proves it may pay off.

This building is the fourth that has been occupied by the Prichard business in the past 46 years, a period covering the growth of this concern from "a hole in the wall" on East Main Street to the present modern quarters.

The Prichard Corporation started in business at 159 East Main Street, August 11, 1907, with E. B. Prichard, his son, Irvin, and one employe, a tinner. On June 1, 1911, the firm moved to 166 East Main Street and after remaining there for four years moved again on December 15, 1915, to 45 East Main Street, having purchased the hardware business of Frank C. Beall. After remaining at that location for five years, they purchased the lot on which the destroyed Shea building had been located and erected their present building.

Television Time Is Ideal Time For Grooming Chores

Television can be a boon to your glamor.

Instead of making it a great time waster (those who own sets claim housework, sewing and laundry chores are always far behind) you can use those moments while scanning video to do something constructive.

Start with your hairbrush and do that 100 strokes a day you never seem to have time for. You can even get the feel of your pincurls without using a mirror. Take your comb and section your hair, wrapping the curl around your finger carefully. After the curls are all in place, dab on witch hazel or water with cotton.

You can give yourself a facial while watching TV. Put all your face "goo" and cleansing tissues on a tray. Then apply cold cream, leaving it on the proper length of time, massaging it in gently. Remove cream and cleanse face with good quality witch hazel. Apply your mask, whether it is home made or prepared, and leave it on until it begins to tighten the skin.

Facial exercises are fun to do and actresses who do them while waiting on the set say that although the exercises call for some silly props, they pay off in beauty. Try this for a lovelier throat line: Put a long pencil between the teeth, then pencil your name in the air along an imaginary line. Another exercise to keep mouth and lip lines lovely involves blowing out as into a balloon, inflating the cheeks with air and letting the air out through slightly parted and rounded lips. This may be done as often as you like.

Hand beauty is another charm pick-up that may be promoted instead of idling your time away at a TV set. The emery board may be used easily, even in the dark, and nails may be soaked in baby oil to soften the cuticle. After the oil treatment, massage the finger tips gently, pushing the cuticle back to reveal possibly long-hidden nail moons.

One easy-to-remember hand exercise is good for tapering the fingers: Cup a bit of baby lotion into the palm and stroke it on the hand firmly and gently from palm to fingertip and from fingertip to palm, sort as if you were smoothing on a glove. The lotion may be smoothed up right over hand and wrist and even forearms.

Foot exercises take the kinks out of tired tootsies. Kick off your slippers and stretch your feet while you watch your favorite program. Try these exercises: Cross the legs at the knees and make little circles with the foot, rotating it at the ankle. Alternate the direction every five minutes or so. Another ankle slimmer consists of raising the leg so the foot is straight out. Reach with toes, then bring toes back and reach with the heel. Picking up marbles with your toes is good for the feet. Just curl your toes around a marble and raise it off the floor an inch or so.

Indian Troops Guard POWs

By SAM SUMMERLIN

INDIAN VILLAGE, Neutral Zone, Korea, Tuesday, Sept. 15 (AP)—Crack Indian troops are guarding unruly anti-Communist Chinese and North Korean prisoners in this demilitarized zone with big smiles and strong arms.

The efficient handling of the prisoners by the snappy Indian soldiers—many towering over 6 feet and all appearing in top physical condition—is fast winning admiration from Allied officers.

These are the troops South Korean officials had threatened to resist if they stepped on South Korean soil. The U. N. Command dodged possible trouble by ferrying the Indians by helicopter from Inchon Harbor, where their ships anchored, to the demilitarized zone.

Rabid anti-Communist North Koreans and Chinese prisoners have taxed Indian ingenuity daily since they started arriving last Thursday in the sprawling network of barbed wire enclosures here.

The prisoners have tossed barrages of stones at Communist observers, climbed up the barbed wire fences in an effort to reach the Reds, staged a sit-down, refused to be searched and even battled Indian guards with bare fists.

The Indians answered each challenge swiftly. So effective was their handling that major trouble so far has been avoided in the mass transfer of 23,000 anti-Communist prisoners from Allied to neutral nation custody. Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Switzerland and India are responsible for custody of the anti-Reds until their disposition is finally determined. The prisoners have refused to return to their Communist homelands.

Engineer Says It's Good Field For Girls

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—College girls everywhere are trooping back to school these days, and Katharine Stinson hopes many of them plan to study engineering.

For Miss Stinson is president of the Society of Women Engineers, a nationwide organization of ladies who will fight at the drop of a monkey wrench any idea that girls can't be as good engineers as men.

"Better in some jobs," Miss Stinson said firmly.

The society has around 400 members, and this year it's trying to encourage girls to enter such professions as electrical, mechanical or civil engineering.

Miss Stinson thinks there are two reasons why so many girls never even think of engineering as a possible career.

To many, she thinks, an engineer is a tough guy wearing boots, bossing a construction job. Yet many an engineering position calls for a steady diet of desk work, at which, Miss Stinson feels, a girl may shine.

Secondly, she feels too many people are convinced an engineer has to be a mathematical genius. Miss S. thinks that angle is overstressed. What's important, she says, is a real love of things scientific.

Oddly, there's a demand for women engineers, yet the number of sweet young girl engineering graduates is decreasing steadily.

All women engineers are occupational descendants of Edith Julia Griswold, electrical engineer, New York City Normal, 1886.

After Edith Julia, the supply of girl engineers remained steady, but few. Not until World War II was there a pronounced change in the pattern. Then the demand for engineers became so great that some companies even paid the tuition for girls of promise.

The peak came in 1948, with 191 girl engineering graduates. That number has fallen off until last spring only 60 girls were graduated in engineering.

Miss Stinson, who has a boyish grin that recalls the late Amelia Earhart, is proof enough that a girl can do all right in the business.

Twelve years ago when she got out of North Carolina State—its first and, as far as she knows, its only girl engineering graduate—she headed for the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The CAA never has hired another woman engineer, but the one it did hire has become head of its specifications division.

For Miss Stinson, the path to aeronautical engineering was as straight as the crow flies or the stratosphere cruiser.

To her parents' consternation, when she was a youngster in Raleigh, N. C., she used to hang around the airport. She learned to take a plane apart, and, possibly more important, put it back together. When she was 16, she learned to fly one.

"I always was crazy about airplanes," she said. "Still am."

So if your daughter has a scientific or mechanical bent and maybe likes to lurk around hangars, let her lurk. Miss Stinson proves it may pay off.

Chinese Reds Quiz Flier On Dust Bomb

Described To Pilot As 'Really Horrible'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — A U. S. Air Force pilot says the Chinese Communists who questioned him as a prisoner of war in Korea displayed great interest in the possible existence of an American "duster bomb."

First Lt. George F. Brooks, a pilot of the 18th U. S. Fighter-Bomber Wing, made the statement recently to American interrogators on his arrival at Freedom Village in Korea after being released from Red captivity.

The text of Brooks' remarks, as published here in a copyrighted article by the weekly news magazine, U. S. News & World Report, contains this passage:

Brooks: "They asked me three things when I got shot down — secret lectures, germ warfare and duster bombs. And if I confessed to any one of the things, they said, then I could go home."

Question: "Duster bombs? What is that?"

Killed People Instantly

Brooks: "You tell me and then I'll tell you. He (the Chinese interrogator) said it was really horrible. It just crept through all the tunnels down there in the front line and just killed the people instantly."

Talk of a "dust bomb" figured in news dispatches from Tucson, Ariz., last Thursday when Dr. Wallace H. Fuller, a University of Arizona scientist, was quoted as saying that a radioactive substance known as strontium could cripple a nation's food supply.

Dr. Fuller, a biochemist, indicated to newsmen that strontium was so effective it might be used as a "dust bomb," and he was quoted as saying:

"Conceivably, it might rival even the deadly cobalt bomb as a weapon of war."

The next day, however, Dr. Fuller denied that his 2½ years of secret research, carried out under contract for the Atomic Energy Commission, had anything to do with a "dust bomb" or any other atomic weapon.

No Such Bomb Planned

The scientist said that as far as he knew, the "dust bomb" is nonexistent and no such bomb has ever been planned or produced.

However, a chart given to newsmen who interviewed Dr. Fuller contained a diagram showing the effect of strontium and carried the following heading:

"Radioactive strontium or calcium bomb dust."

In the original interview on Thursday, Dr. Fuller said radioactive strontium could cause sickness or death when dropped by planes in the form of dust to contaminate crops, lands and water supplies.

Fission is the atom-splitting process developed in the atomic bomb.

In talking with American interrogators at Freedom Village, Lt. Brooks indicated that the Chinese Communists placed a high priority on gleaning any information about the purported "duster bomb" from U. S. prisoners of war.

Brooks, who flew 20 missions in Korea, said the Chinese officer who questioned him in prison "guaranteed me on his word as a Chinese officer" that if he confessed on the subject of secret lectures, germ warfare or "duster bombs" he would be among the first to cross the line to freedom.

Could Go Home

Question: "You said they tried to get you to confess three things. Did you make up stuff about all three of them?"

Brooks: "No, they said if I confessed on any one thing I could go home."

Question: "What subject did you choose?"

Brooks: "You sit down and figure that out. I don't know nothing about germs. I don't know nothing about anything, period. But if you had your choice of the three and had to make a story up, which do you think you could make up the easiest? Could you describe an atomic bomb that a technician would hold up to? And duster bombs? Well, — —"

At that point, the interrogator broke in to ask Brooks which of the three subjects he decided to "specialize" in.

Brooks: "Finally, I specialized in germ warfare. I had a map on the wall of China, India, Korea, a little bit of Russia. When I'd walk past the wall I'd spit on the map and see what I hit. That was my germ warfare."

Dover, Del., Gets Daily Newspaper

DOVER, Del., Sept. 15 (AP)—This capital city fell in line with the capitals of the other 47 states yesterday with publication of The Delaware State News, first daily newspaper ever printed and published here.

Co-publishers of the daily, a member of The Associated Press, are Bernard J. (Jack) Smyth and William R. Smith, who bought the paper, a weekly since 1904, from John Hampton Barnes II.

3 Generations Have Operated Prichard's

Three generations of Prichards have been active in the management of the Prichard Company, Frostburg, since its founding 46 years ago.

Enoch B. Prichard, one of the original founders of the Prichard Company, continues to be active despite his advancing years. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church and for many years was active in fraternal organizations in Frostburg which included the Knights of Pythias, Knights of Malta, and the Masons. He resides with Mrs. Prichard at 8 Frost Avenue.

E. Irvin Prichard, who with his father was co-founder of the Prichard Company, was active manager and president of the corporation from 1907 until 1947 when his son, Robert Prichard, succeeded him in these positions. Since 1947 he has been devoting his time as treasurer and manager of the Peerless Clay Corporation, located in Toronto, Ohio. He is also vice president of the Superior Clay Corporation, Uhrichsville, Ohio.

Robert Prichard, who succeeded his father, Irvin, as manager and president of the company, assumed these positions upon his return after serving five years in the Army during World War II. Following his graduation from Beall High School with the class of 1936 he attended Randolph Macon Academy in Front Royal, Va., for one year. He graduated from Penn State College in 1941 after having majored in business administration. In 1948 he married the former Miss Ruth Bolden and the couple are the parents of one son, Robert William, age 10 months.

William Prichard, brother of Robert, vice president and treasurer of the company, was graduated from Beall High school in 1940, then attended Penn State College, graduating in 1943, also having majored in business administration. Following 28 months service in the Army, he returned home to assume his position in the firm. In 1950, he married Miss Betty Ann Thomas and they have two children, Karen Ann, 2 years and Susan, 1 month.

State Inspector Charges Assault

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 15 (AP)—Floyd Jones and Meredith Morris, both about 30 of Toddville, have been named in assault warrants sworn to by a Tidewater Fisheries Department inspector who said the two men waylaid him.

Inspector Thomas Pritchett said he had arrested Morris about a year ago.

Cancer Authority Predicts Victory

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—A leading cancer authority has predicted eventual victory over the disease, but said it probably will be gradual and require a combination of weapons.

The report on "Progress in the War Against Cancer" came from Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director and vice president of the American Cancer Society.

He told the 18th annual congress of the United States and Canadian sections of the International College of Surgeons that "thoughtful observers" are confident of an "ultimate solution" of cancer.

"But there is reason to believe," he added, "that cancer will not be undone by a bolt from the blue, by any dramatic or decisive break-through, but rather will it give way before persistent research attrition."

3 Generations Have Operated Prichard's

Three generations of Prichards have been active in the management of the Prichard Company, Frostburg, since its founding 46 years ago.

Enoch B. Prichard, one of the original founders of the Prichard Company, continues to be active despite his advancing years. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church and for many years was active in fraternal organizations in Frostburg which included the Knights of Pythias, Knights of Malta, and the Masons. He resides with Mrs. Prichard at 8 Frost Avenue.

E. Irvin Prichard, who with his father was co-founder of the Prichard Company, was active manager and president of the corporation from 1907 until 1947 when his son, Robert Prichard, succeeded him in these positions. Since 1947 he has been devoting his time as treasurer and manager of the Peerless Clay Corporation, located in Toronto, Ohio. He is also vice president of the Superior Clay Corporation, Uhrichsville, Ohio.

Robert Prichard, who succeeded his father, Irvin, as manager and president of the company, assumed these positions upon his return after serving five years in the Army during World War II. Following his graduation from Beall High School with the class of 1936 he attended Randolph Macon Academy in Front Royal, Va., for one year. He graduated from Penn State College in 1941 after having majored in business administration. In 1948 he married the former Miss Ruth Bolden and the couple are the parents of one son, Robert William, age 10 months.

William Prichard, brother of Robert, vice president and treasurer of the company, was graduated from Beall High school in 1940, then attended Penn State College, graduating in 1943, also having majored in business administration. Following 28 months service in the Army, he returned home to assume his position in the firm. In 1950, he married Miss Betty Ann Thomas and they have two children, Karen Ann, 2 years and Susan, 1 month.

State Inspector Charges Assault

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 15 (AP)—Floyd Jones and Meredith Morris, both about 30 of Toddville, have been named in assault warrants sworn to by a Tidewater Fisheries Department inspector who said the two men waylaid him.

Inspector Thomas Pritchett said he had arrested Morris about a year ago.

Cancer Authority Predicts Victory

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—A leading cancer authority has predicted eventual victory over the disease, but said it probably will be gradual and require a combination of weapons.

The report on "Progress in the War Against Cancer" came from Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director and vice president of the American Cancer Society.

He told the 18th annual congress of the United States and Canadian sections of the International College of Surgeons that "thoughtful observers" are confident of an "ultimate solution" of cancer.

"But there is reason to believe," he added, "that cancer will not be undone by a bolt from the blue, by any dramatic or decisive break-through, but rather will it give way before persistent research attrition."

People Like Tax Canvass, Survey Shows

Little Criticism Greets Agents

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Tax collectors are coming up with a man-bites-dog story: people are welcoming the knock of revenue agents at their doors.

That is the early pattern—the revenue service says frankly it is surprising—in a stepped up house-to-house and business-to-business canvass to uncover tax dodgers.

When several offices started it recently, revenue officials were ready to take to the storm cellars. They feared a blast of protests from indignant housewives, Congressmen, and just plain taxpayers against "snooping" and "gestapo" tactics.

But here are the early results as reported by Associated Press bureaus across the country:

Approach Paying Off

1. Some type of personal, shot-in-the-dark canvass has been started by 14 revenue offices covering 26 states, employing about 650 agents.

2. Although it's too early to measure full results, the unorthodox approach is paying off so far. In three cases where specific figures are available, 12 to 14 per cent of the taxpayers checked have been found delinquent. Hundreds of thousands of dollars in back taxes already have been collected—far more than the cost of the canvasses.

3. And the taxpayers, for the most part, seem to like it. There has been little complaint from the tens of thousands of taxpayers interviewed, and only four reported cases of refusals to talk.

4. Bennett D. Katz, jewelry store operator in Augusta, Me., told a questioning agent: "It's a good feeling to know they're making sure that everyone help carry the ball."

Danny McDonough, revenue agent on a house-to-house canvass in Boston, said of his reception: "Why, you wouldn't believe it. In most places I've been invited to come inside, sit down and have a cold drink. They've been tremendously cooperative."

Gus F. Koehler, St. Louis revenue director, supervising a check of Eastern Missouri farmers and business men, said "The boys (agents) tell me that these people, even those found delinquent, think it's something that should be done." He said many taxpayers appear glad to correct inadvertent errors. As for door-slamming or clamming up, he said he has found "not a one."

Reception Very Good

Glen T. Jamison, San Francisco director, said he hasn't heard a single complaint about invasion of privacy—"in fact, our reception has been very good."

On the other hand, Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews said in a recent speech, a campaign in New England "had hardly been started before at least a half-dozen editorial writers, and even one member of Congress, accused us of using gestapo tactics, of 'snooping.'"

Andrews said agents making the calls have been instructed to use their "best Sunday manners" and strictly avoid personal questions, "snooping," or harrassment.

He added he thinks honest taxpayers will welcome a drive to catch shirkers.

Andrews has ordered a halt to any new door-to-door canvasses, pending a checkup on results of those already started.

How about results so far?

In six New England states, 258 agents called on more than 8,000 taxpayers in two days. They found 1,150 delinquents and collected $242,000 in back taxes, at a salary cost of $10,250.

The AP survey also showed:

In Los Angeles, some 60 agents have started a canvass. Figures on collections aren't in, but one man voluntarily disclosed he had not paid taxes for eight years. And Revenue Director Robert Riddell said news of the canvass brought on a mild rush (about 1,200 requests) for returns for back years.

In Fort Worth Tex., a canvass of about 25,000 business firms, by 12 agents, showed 88 confirmed delinquents and 643 potentials, with a collection of about $55 each on the 88 confirmed cases.

Man Pays $3,000

In Omaha, Neb., a regional office covering nine states reported these results from a 10-day canvass in 36 counties: 7,662 taxpayers were checked by 30 agents, with 1,056 or 13.7 per cent found to be delinquent. There was no estimate of total collections, but one man paid more than $3,000—almost the cost of the survey.

In eastern Missouri, a spot check by 40 agents found about 14 per cent of taxpayers were delinquent. They collected more than $100,000. Koehler said an indirect result was that "voluntary compliance has stepped up materially."

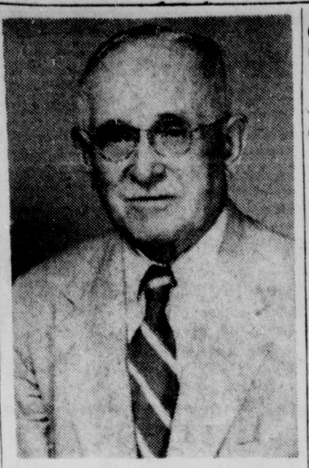
In Denver, Colo., a check of telephone directories turned up about 6,000 business firms not listed as having filed tax returns. These are now being investigated, and Revenue Collector George Allan says those who have been contacted so far were "glad to clear up any misunderstandings."

In the San Francisco area and in Nevada, 75 agents have started canvassing but results are not in yet.

In the states of Washington and Alaska, random sampling has started by up to 78 agents and early results are not bringing in as much money as expected, but this may change. "All interviewed so far highly cooperative," Director William E. Frank says.

Phoenix Director Wilson B. Wood said spot checks have been made in Tucson and Phoenix with results unknown, and "we have run into a few wisecrackers, but no real opposition."

Statewide checks have been started by 60 agents in Oregon, 40 in Utah and 6 in Idaho, but results are not in.



FOUNDER — Enoch B. Prichard, founder of the Prichard Corporation, was born in wales, March 12, 1866, and came to the Unietd States in 1869. Following his schooling, he entered the mines at the age of 11 and worked there for 25 years. In 1903, he bought the grocery store from his father, on Bowery Street, and conducted this busness until 1907, in which year he joined his sons, E. Irvin and John S., and opened a hardware store at 163 E. Union Street. He continued active in business, seeing its expansion into the present store at 1 West Main Street. He retired in 1933, but still takes an active interest in watching the progress of his two grandsons, Robert and William, who now manage the firm.

Soviet Admits Facing Major Farm Crisis

Pravda Publishes Long Farm Decree

Editor's Note: Thomas P. Whitney, who analyzes changes in Soviet farm policies in this story, is a recent member of the AP staff in Moscow. He is now in the London Bureau.

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Soviet government has finally recognized that it has on its hands a major farm crisis and is taking drastic measures to cure it.

That is the meaning of agricultural measures announced by Premier Georgi Malenkov's government which have now been climaxed with a complex four page farm decree published in Pravda and discussed in the Moscow papar's lead editorial today.

The collective farmers of the U.S.S.R. have been getting the dirty end of the stick for many years and are quite conscious of this fact. They have not been very happy about this situation.

As a result they have not been increasing their production rapidly enough to meet satisfactorily the growing needs of the increasing Soviet population for food and of Soviet industry for farm produced raw materials.

Lagging agricultural production has become an important bottleneck in general Soviet economic development.

But Prime Minister Stalin while he lived was never willing to admit this situation and do something about it. Now the situation cannot be ignored any longer. Malenkov and his chief farm adviser have been forced for cogent economic and political reasons to take sweeping measures and more may be in store.

The decree in some details exposes how Communist propaganda on farm prosperity has been in part at least a fake facade to conceal ominous developments.

For instance the decree revealed that at the present time in Russia there are 8,900,000 fewer cows than there were in 1928 — 25 years ago before the vaunted collectivization took place. It is obvious there is far less milk per person today than there was before Russian farmers were forced to collectivize.

Now Malenkov and Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party, have been forced to adopt a policy of encouraging private owners of livestock in their big effort to increase the livestock population, and with it meat, milk, butter, wool and poultry prduction.

They are now going to assist Soviet peasants to acquire their own privately owned livestock. This contrasts with Stalin's policy of taking away from peasants their privately owned animals and putting them in the collective farm herds.

But it cannot be said in general that Malenkov's policy is one of encouragement of private agriculture at the expense of the collectivized side of it. On the contrary, Malenkov's government now is directing vast resources into the socialized side of agriculture and offering the farmers considerably increased material incentives for increased collectivized production.

Yesterday's decree takes broad measures designed to strengthen collective farm organization and techniques. Engineers are to be drafted from industry to go down to the farms.

Store Called 'Most Modern'

The people of Frostburg and vicinity will have the opportunity Thursday, Friday and Saturday to see what has been accomplished within the last few weeks by the Prichard Corporation in the way of modernizing and revolutionizing store displays and store service, when they attend the special reopening of the store on those days.

This work was done under the supervision of George B. Stupp, store service engineer from the Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Association of Philadelphia, Pa. This same service engineer has supervised the departmentizing of approximately 60 large stores in five different states.

According to Stupp, the newly remodeled Prichard store is the largest and most modern of its type in Maryland. New fixtures, the most modern on the market, have been installed and the store will become practically self service, since 90 per cent of the merchandise is on display for the customer to inspect.

Mother Leads Rescuers To Son Drifting At Sea

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 15 (AP)—A franguard boat here Sunday and unerringly led the rescue craft to a drifting small boat two miles at sea containing her son and three other boys.

The mother, Mrs. James C. Crow, had spotted a flashlight signaling distress calls. The boat carrying her son, James Jr., 17, and three other youths was six hours overdue from a fishing trip at the time.

Mrs. Crow had already notified the Coast Guard and a boat was searching for the overdue craft. The mother used her automobile headlights to signal the Coast Guard vessel, which pulled alongside a dock. She boarded it and led the way to the spot two miles out in the Atlantic where she had seen the SOS flashes.

Malenkov and his chief farm adviser have been forced for cogent economic and political reasons to take sweeping measures and more may be in store.

The decree in some details exposes how Communist propaganda on farm prosperity has been in part at least a fake facade to conceal ominous developments.

For instance the decree revealed that at the present time in Russia there are 8,900,000 fewer cows than there were in 1928 — 25 years ago before the vaunted collectivization took place. It is obvious there is far less milk per person today than there was before Russian farmers were forced to collectivize.

Now Malenkov and Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party, have been forced to adopt a policy of encouraging private owners of livestock in their big effort to increase the livestock population, and with it meat, milk, butter, wool and poultry prduction.

They are now going to assist Soviet peasants to acquire their own privately owned livestock. This contrasts with Stalin's policy of taking away from peasants their privately owned animals and putting them in the collective farm herds.

But it cannot be said in general that Malenkov's policy is one of encouragement of private agriculture at the expense of the collectivized side of it. On the contrary, Malenkov's government now is directing vast resources into the socialized side of agriculture and offering the farmers considerably increased material incentives for increased collectivized production.

Yesterday's decree takes broad measures designed to strengthen collective farm organization and techniques. Engineers are to be drafted from industry to go down to the farms.

Store Called 'Most Modern'

The people of Frostburg and vicinity will have the opportunity Thursday, Friday and Saturday to see what has been accomplished within the last few weeks by the Prichard Corporation in the way of modernizing and revolutionizing store displays and store service, when they attend the special reopening of the store on those days.

This work was done under the supervision of George B. Stupp, store service engineer from the Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Association of Philadelphia, Pa. This same service engineer has supervised the departmentizing of approximately 60 large stores in five different states.

According to Stupp, the newly remodeled Prichard store is the largest and most modern of its type in Maryland. New fixtures, the most modern on the market, have been installed and the store will become practically self service, since 90 per cent of the merchandise is on display for the customer to inspect.

Mother Leads Rescuers To Son Drifting At Sea

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 15 (AP)—A franguard boat here Sunday and unerringly led the rescue craft to a drifting small boat two miles at sea containing her son and three other boys.

The mother, Mrs. James C. Crow, had spotted a flashlight signaling distress calls. The boat carrying her son, James Jr., 17, and three other youths was six hours overdue from a fishing trip at the time.

Mrs. Crow had already notified the Coast Guard and a boat was searching for the overdue craft. The mother used her automobile headlights to signal the Coast Guard vessel, which pulled alongside a dock. She boarded it and led the way to the spot two miles out in the Atlantic where she had seen the SOS flashes.

"Let's Sing, Shall We?"

CHICAGO

Chicago television has spilled over its borders to other parts of the country. Like "Ding Dong School," shows come along from time to time that go network. Never is this deliberate. Chicago TV is designed always simply to fill the need of Chicagoans and, when a program like "Zoo Parade" suddenly catches the fancy of people all over the country, its producers are as surprised as the next man.

John Crosby

And how did "Zoo Parade" come about? "Well," Jules Herbuveaux, assistant general manager of station WMAQ, declared, "every father ought to take his kids to the zoo — but about 80 per cent of them don't. So we take the kids to the zoo."

Most every show that comes out of here was fathered by some such deceptively simple and forthright thinking. Herbuveaux credits much of it to the fact that Chicago is almost a thousand miles away from Madison Avenue for which he has little respect. "More good ideas for programs are shrugged off in 21 than ever get on the air," he'll tell you. "Out here we play the audience. We don't play the client. If you get the audience, you get the client."

Program director for WMAQ, NBC's radio station, and WNBQ its TV station, is George Heinemann. Every program he has put on the air has come out of his office — except one outside package he bought which promptly folded. The accounting department loves him because his programs are wonderfully inexpensive. "Our programs are not strictly from hunger either," he'll tell you. "We don't like to throw money around but we do things this way not just to save money but because we feel this is the way to do it."

All but about two of WNBQ's programs have exactly one person on each. As a rule that person is talking straight at you and usually he is telling you to do something. "What have we got for lunch?" says Johnny Coons on "Noontime Comics." "That's right — nice nourishing bowl of vegetable soup. Lets have some, shall we?"

And Coons starts to eat his soup, and along with him, half of Chicago's school children start to eat theirs. "Noontime Comic" came into being when WNBQ discovered that 82 per cent of Chicago's school children went home for lunch. Coons tells the kids stories, shows them movies and eats lunch with them. It's got so many of them won't eat anything except what Coons has to eat — so each day Coons tells the mothers what he's going to have the next day. The mothers have it on hand.

Right after Coons comes "Animal Playtime" with Win Strack, a guitar-playing folk singer. By this time the school kids are on their way back to school and this program is aimed at their little brothers and sisters who don't yet go to school. "It's time to sing with Uncle Win so lets sing," says Win, "one — two — three" and he starts to sing. Thousands of pre-school moppets pipe right along with him. When he's through, he tells them to go take their naps and they scamper off to bed. The time may come when no Chicago child will do anything except what someone on television tells him to do.

Probably nowhere else in the world is the sense of participation emphasized so strongly as here. On "Ding Dong School" in the mornings little children are told by Miss Frances to go get a piece of colored string and a paper bag from which they can make a shopping basket. A little while later on "Creative Cooker," one of the few really sensibly run cooking programs, Francois Pope, the chef on the program, is telling Chicago's mothers to get out a saucepan and fold in the whites of two eggs.

Once a week Walt Durbham tells all the men in the audience to procure a 12-foot, eight-by-one inch plank, saw into three equal parts—and so forth. And every night Dorsey Conners, a pretty blue-eyed blonde, tells all the Chicago mothers what to do with wire coathangers. Actuall , Dorsey hands out all sorts of household hints but she's famed all over Chicago for her tricks with wire coathangers. She twists them into magazine racks, pipeholders, toys, and just about anything you can name.

WNBQ may do more of its own programming than any other TV station in the country. Most local stations like to push a switch and tie on to a network program which brings in money at no cost or trouble to themselves. WNBQ on the other hand, prides itself that it produces 56 hours of programming (each of it network programming) a week, which is a hell of a lot of programs for one station. Forty-two hours of that is live programming. Neither Heinemann nor Herbuveaux care much for film.

The station is owned and operated by NBC but its prime loyalty is with Chicago, not with the network. "All of NBC's stations ought to be run by people who've lived in the city all their lives," says Herbuveaux. "I wouldn't tell anyone what to do in New York. I couldn't tell them what they want in Cleveland. But I know what they want here."

Daily Bridge Lesson

CHOICE OF CLOSE ONES

YOU DO not always have the clear-cut option of selecting, on what seems to be your final turn in the bidding, action which promises a winning as against a losing score. Indeed, more often your choice must be from two or more different winning scores, in which event you try to pick the larger, or from two or more losing scores, the preference being for the smaller. One of those two options is always the case when both sides have bid vigorously and the case of a business double or a further call confronts one side, and the other faces the question of letting the opponents have the contract or sacrificing.

	♠ 7 2 ♥ 8 ♦ Q 9 8 6 4 2 ♣ A K 4 3
♠ 9 8 4 ♥ K Q 10 9 7 ♦ 5 3 ♣ 7 6 2	N W E S	♠ K 6 5 ♥ 5 4 3 2 ♦ 10 7 ♣ J 9 8 5
	♠ A Q J 10 3 ♥ A J 6 ♦ A K J ♣ Q 10

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♦	Dbl.	Rdbl.
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

West managed to take four tricks in that contract, so that he went down four for a score of 700. Momentarily that seemed like a good score for North-South, but it was a comparatively bad one, since a grand slam could have been made in diamonds or No Trumps, producing more than 2,000 points, and a small slam, more than twice as good as the low double in result, could have been made without a finesse.

South, who accepted the responsibility for his side's loss of so many points, told East he was extremely lucky to get away with what he did, when doubling for a takeout with less than one high card trick in his hand. East refused to accept the indictment. He contended that, having heard his opponents bid spades and diamonds, he considered it almost certain his side would have a good fit in either clubs or hearts, in each of which he had four cards. Also his side was not vulnerable.

"If my partner had a very weak hand," maintained East, "then you fellows could make just that much more playing the hand yourselves. My partner's heart bid was exactly what the doctor ordered. What my double amounted to was a sacrifice at a low level, if you fellows would fall for it. You did."

It's got so many of them won't eat anything except what Coons has to eat — so each day Coons tells the mothers what he's going to have the next day. The mothers have it on hand.

Right after Coons comes "Animal Playtime" with Win Strack, a guitar-playing folk singer. By this time the school kids are on their way back to school and this program is aimed at their little brothers and sisters who don't yet go to school. "It's time to sing with Uncle Win so lets sing," says Win, "one — two — three" and he starts to sing. Thousands of pre-school moppets pipe right along with him. When he's through, he tells them to go take their naps and they scamper off to bed. The time may come when no Chicago child will do anything except what someone on television tells him to do.

Probably nowhere else in the world is the sense of participation emphasized so strongly as here. On "Ding Dong School" in the mornings little children are told by Miss Frances to go get a piece of colored string and a paper bag from which they can make a shopping basket. A little while later on "Creative Cooker," one of the few really sensibly run cooking programs, Francois Pope, the chef on the program, is telling Chicago's mothers to get out a saucepan and fold in the whites of two eggs.

Once a week Walt Durbham tells all the men in the audience to procure a 12-foot, eight-by-one inch plank, saw into three equal parts—and so forth. And every night Dorsey Conners, a pretty blue-eyed blonde, tells all the Chicago mothers what to do with wire coathangers. Actually, Dorsey hands out all sorts of household hints but she's famed all over Chicago for her tricks with wire coathangers. She twists them into magazine racks, pipeholders, toys, and just about anything you can name.

WNBQ may do more of its own programming than any other TV station in the country. Most local stations like to push a switch and tie on to a network program which brings in money at no cost or trouble to themselves. WNBQ on the other hand, prides itself that it produces 56 hours of programming (each of it network programming) a week, which is a hell of a lot of programs for one station. Forty-two hours of that is live programming. Neither Heinemann nor Herbuveaux care much for film.

The station is owned and operated by NBC but its prime loyalty is with Chicago, not with the network. "All of NPC's stations ought to be run by people who've lived in the city all their lives," says Herbuveaux. "I wouldn't tell anyone what to do in New York. I couldn't tell them what they want in Cleveland. But I know what they want here."

Cable TV News

The people of Cumberland are true Americans and will not be outclassed by their big city cousins. They have found out how much T V means to them and that cable T. V. is the answer for good, full coverage reception.

We want Cumberland to have the very best T V that it is possible to obtain, and that is the reason why we are putting into use every improvement possible. We now have the most up-to-date system in the country, and it is gratifying to find out, our efforts are being appreciated, and that we are able to bring something worthwhile to more homes every day.

CHOICE OF CLOSE ONES

YOU DO not always have the clear-cut option of selecting, on what seems to be your final turn in the bidding, action which promises a winning as against a losing score. Indeed, more often your choice must be from two or more different winning scores, in which event you try to pick the larger, or from two or more losing scores, the preference being for the smaller. One of those two options is always the case when both sides have bid vigorously and the case of a business double or a further call confronts one side, and the other faces the question of letting the opponents have the contract or sacrificing.

	♠ 7 2 ♥ 8 ♦ Q 9 8 6 4 2 ♣ A K 4 3
♠ 9 8 4 ♥ K Q 10 9 7 ♦ 5 3 ♣ 7 6 2	N W E S	♠ K 6 5 ♥ 5 4 3 2 ♦ 10 7 ♣ J 9 8 5
	♠ A Q J 10 3 ♥ A J 6 ♦ A K J ♣ Q 10

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♦	Dbl.	Rdbl.
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

West managed to take four tricks in that contract, so that he went down four for a score of 700. Momentarily that seemed like a good score for North-South, but it was a comparatively bad one, since a grand slam could have been made in diamonds or No Trumps, producing more than 2,000 points, and a small slam, more than twice as good as the low double in result, could have been made without a finesse.

South, who accepted the responsibility for his side's loss of so many points, told East he was extremely lucky to get away with what he did, when doubling for a takeout with less than one high card trick in his hand. East refused to accept the indictment. He contended that, having heard his opponents bid spades and diamonds, he considered it almost certain his side would have a good fit in either clubs or hearts, in each of which he had four cards. Also his side was not vulnerable.

"If my partner had a very weak hand," maintained East, "then you fellows could make just that much more playing the hand yourselves. My partner's heart bid was exactly what the doctor ordered. What my double amounted to was a sacrifice at a low level, if you fellows would fall for it. You did."

Tomorrow's Problem

♠ K Q J 9 5 ♥ K Q 7 3 ♦ A 4 ♣ 10 6	N W E S	♠ 8 6 4 ♥ J 6 4 2 ♦ J ♣ K Q 8 7 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Grandson, Pvt. James R. Laffey, Jr., who lost his life on Peleliu, Sept. 16, 1944.
Nine sad lonely years have passed
Since my great sorrow fell;
The shock that I received that day
I still remember well.

How his life was shed I know not;
What his last word, look or thought,
Only that he did his duty—
Died as he bravely fought.

Beautiful memories are all that are left,
Of the one I loved and shall never forget.
Sadly missed by his Grandmother,
MRS. JESSIE KALBAUGH.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my Grandson, Pvt. James R. Laffey, Jr., who lost his life on Peleliu, Sept. 16, 1944.
Nine sad lonely years have passed
Since my great sorrow fell;
The shock that I received that day
I still remember well.

How his life was shed I know not;
What his last word, look or thought,
Only that he did his duty—
Died as he bravely fought.

Beautiful memories are all that are left,
Of the one I loved and shall never forget.
Sadly missed by his Grandmother,
MRS. JESSIE KALBAUGH.

Hazelwood Gets Contract For Sewage Plant

Will Be Installed At Flintstone School

The George F. Hazelwood Company was awarded the contract to build the sewage disposal plant at Flintstone School on its low bid of $25,490 submitted to the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday.

Other bidders were John I. Vandegrift Company, $30,970, and the George Construction Company $31,445.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said that the State Health Department has ordered the school to stop dumping raw sewage in Flintstone Creek which flows past the school.

Although a new addition to the school will not be constructed before next year, Webster believes it wise to install the sewage disposal system so that it can be put to use for the existing school. The system includes sewage disposal plant, filter bed and septic tanks.

The school board also accepted the bid of the Consolidated Fuel Company, Frostburg, to supply coal for schools equipped with stokers. The school system will haul the coal to the schools thereby saving $1 per ton. As a consequence the price will be $6.89 per ton at Beall High School, Beall Elementary School, Fort Hill High School, Mt. Savage High School, Valley High School and the Board of Education office.

The board will readvertise for coal bids on all of the other schools. The original specifications called for Big Vein coal. Now the board will accept bids on Big Vein coal or any other deep mined coal that matches the Big Vein analysis.

Businessmen Elect

South End Group Elects 3 Directors

Three new directors were elected to two-year terms at the fourth annual membership meeting of the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The new directors, named from a ballot of nine nominees by members of the association last night, are Casper Kight, Dr. R. L. McKenzie and James Scarpelli. The board of directors will meet at a later date to elect a president to succeed the retiring head of the organization, George Millenson, and a secretary and treasurer.

No Dividing Line

Highlight of the affair, attended by approximately 125 persons, was the address by Rev. Dr. Nevin E. Smith, Reformed Church pastor from Hanover, Pa. Rev. Smith was introduced by Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, who also gave the benediction.

Rev. Smith told the gathering that while the organization was known as the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association, there was no dividing line or any strife between South Cumberland and North, East and West Cumberland.

"There is a profound relationship between north, east, south and west," Dr. Smith said. "There can be no solo undertaking by individuals or groups which bring on world strife such as we have today."

He told the association members and their guests that while each was interested in his own business and endeavoring to better himself in life "somebody has to coordinate the south with the north, east and west. So it is with the world where God is the coordinator.

Cannot Be Solo

"No business or undertaking can be solo but all must join in to make a concert so harmonious that people will stand and applaud. In the midst of a world where there is strife all must become as one. Life must be in harmony with no discordant notes for us to achieve our goals," he continued.

"You can be successful in your own right but in the end you must turn to God to quiet your fears and bring peace and understanding," the Hanover minister concluded.

Rev. Smith is one of eight children, born in Woodsboro, Frederick County. He was educated in Frederick County schools and was graduated from Frederick High School. He attended Franklin and Marshall College and Theological Seminary, Lancaster, Pa. His first pastorate was in Evans City, later in Westminster, and for the past 13 years he has been at Hanover.

Millenson Steps Down

Millenson, in stepping down as president of the organization, told the membership the association has been successful in many of its endeavors and its present goal is the extension of Fifth Street as a suburban home development in South End.

An amendment to the by-laws was also voted upon. The amendment changes the present law which says the president cannot return to office and provides that the elected board of directors may

Injuries Fatal To Woman After Highway Mishap

Thrown From Auto In W. Va. Accident

A 71-year-old Baltimore woman died yesterday morning in Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, W. Va., from injuries sustained in a highway accident Monday afternoon near Davis, W. Va.

It was the first road fatality in Tucker County this year, authorities reported.

Mrs. Sarah Cline died of massive cerebral hemorrhage at about 11 a. m., according to Dr. Guy H. Michael, owner of the hospital where she was admitted Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Cline was admitted about 3:30 p. m. Monday after she and her husband, George Clne, 74, were thrown from the auto in which they were riding in an accident on Blackwater Falls Road, 200 yards from Route 22 at Davis.

Mrs. Cline was admitted in critical condition with severe head injuries. Her husband was admitted in fair condition with lacerations of the face and forehead and multiple bruises of the body. He was reported "improved" last night.

Authorities said the two persons were thrown from an auto driven by their grandson, William Howard Lippy, Baltimore, which skidded against an auto being driven by Charles Popish, of Davis.

The two drivers were not injured in the mishap, but considerable damage was done to the two autos.

Trooper James Rightmire, of the Thomas, W. Va., State Police Detachment, is investigating the accident.

Dr. Michael said the elderly couple were visiting Tucker County for the first time and were viewing the scenic spots in the Blackwater Falls area.

Mrs. Cline's body was returned to Baltimore yesterday.

Wrecking Crew To Resume Toy Project Soon

Associated Charities Makes Christmas Plans

The Wrecking Crew of Ali Ghan Shrine will begin making toys for the Associated Charities late this month.

The toys will be designed, built and painted by members of the crew and presented to Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive director of the Red Feather agency, in time for Christmas distribution to children of families aided by the Associated Charities.

Last year, the Shrine group began the Christmas project, dividing its efforts between repairing old toys and making new ones.

Officials said the current effort will be largely devoted to making the new wooden toys which proved so popular last year.

All of the toys are produced on an assembly line basis, but each one is a creation designed and decorated by master craftsmen who belong to the crew.

Plan New Designs

Tentative plans call for making a number of doll beds, hobby horses and wagons this year, but there are sure to be new designs to keep up with the trend in toys.

The finishing touches of some of the toys, including beds and furniture, will be added by women's organizations which each year help the Associated Charities provide toys for the underprivileged.

Such groups, such as the Cumberland Lay Health Group, have already begun work on the project. The Health group recently held a "Sewing Bee" to dress beds and dolls which have been donated.

Ahead Of Schedule

Miss Bonig reports that the Associated Charities is ahead of schedule this year on its Christmas toy project, chiefly as a result of a toy collection held in May by Boy Scouts of this city.

Several hundreds of these toys have been prepared for distribution, and others will be renovated during the next two months.

Toys will be needed for about 600 children from 250 families, Miss Bonig said, adding that about 5,000 toys were distributed last year.

Last Christmas, Miss Bonig had all of the toys placed in a storeroom, and parents were asked to come and select toys they believe their children would like.

In general, one large toy, such as a sled, tricycle, bed or large doll, and five or more smaller toys were provided for each child.

Robin White Breast Is Daily Visitor At Humbird St. Home

Each evening about 6 o'clock the bird hops about the lawn and after a meal furnished by Haines, it splashes in an improvised bird bath.

The robin, which has brown wings and head, has a white breast, Haines noted, and it began to come to his house during the recent hot spell.

It seems to be very tame and joins other birds that flock to the Haines residence each day to eat, and get a bath. A grape arbor of a next door neighbor, Charles Freeland, has also been furnishing an ample supply of food for the "feathered friends."

Haines said the bird has been attracting quite a bit of attention from residents of the neighborhood.

Democracy Is Stressed At Rotary Meet

"There are millions of Americans who will fight and even die for democracy but will not work for it," was a reminder of Edward Hardcastle, Hagerstown, district manager of the National Federation of Independent Business, during a talk yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at Central YMCA.

"They possess the world's greatest treasure," he added, "the secret ballot, but they have to be driven to use it; their technical and industrial skills are excellent, yet ther remain politically uneducated and indifferent; this is America's greatest tragedy.

"There are those who seem to think that their liberties are perfectly safeguarded by words inscribed on parchment. When the people's representative in Washington polls them on important issues, if 10 out of every 100 take the trouble to reply the representative thinks the returns are good. The power delegated to the people by the 10th Amendment cannot flourish in this atmosphere.

"Today, he said, our government is growing bigger and the people are growing smaller; for big government creates little people, while big people have little in government. To finance this big government it is no longer possible to soak the rich. All of the money earned over $25,000 would not run the government for a single month.

"This whole empire of ours, the greatest spender and the biggest debtor in the world, rests squarely on the shoulders of the little man, like you and me. Can we hold it up? If wo don't it will fall, the nation will fall.

"Good government will be found in an active, informed and steadfast people. Every one has his share to contribute toward running a democracy."

City Voting Rolls Slated For Upswing

14,487 Listed On Registration Books

The downward trend of voter registration in Cumberland is expected to swing upwards next spring as citizens begin to think about who they will elect to represent them from 1954 to 1958.

The list of registered voters in Cumberland has dropped sharply during the past three years.

This does not mean that the city necessarily has fewer voters—except to reflect a drop in population noted during the 1950 census, when the official figure was set at 37,679. At present, vital statistics issued by the City Health Department shows births are outnumbering deaths three to one.

Books Are Revised

The sharpest drop in registration occurred in 1951, when 6,791 voters were stricken off the books as the city instituted a continuous registration system. Spurred by the coming election, 1,194 more citizens registered, bringing registration rolls to 15,680 for the 1952 city elections.

Names Stricken

Early this year, about 1,000 more citizens who had failed to vote during the past five years, lost their franchise, and by February 28, the total stood at 14,548.

The count stood at 14,487 on August 31, after 11 names had been dropped and seven added.

Dropped during August were names of 10 known dead and one citizen who moved from the city. Seven new voters, two men and five women, were added to the books.

The totals include 7,662 white male, 6,555 white female, 173 colored male and 97 colored female voters.

Local Reserve Squads Learn Methods Of Disarming Duds

One interesting and rather dangerous phase of the local Army Reserve is the training being administered to the 941st, 942nd and 943rd Explosive Ordnance Disposal Squads.

A training aids display in the Reserve Armory on South Mechanic Street shows some of the work done by these three units. Included in the display are artillery shells, aircraft bombs, rocket, mortar and bazooka shells, butterfly "anti-personnel" bombs, booby trap firing devices and various types of artillery and bomb fuses.

Disarm "Duds"

Whenever one of these bombs or shells is fired and it lands in an area without exploding, it is called a "dud" and it is up to members of disposal squads to disarm or destroy or remove the dangerous ammunition.

Units like the local reserve squads are stationed in every Army area of the continental United States to handle incidents which constantly arise now and which will be increased if this country should be attacked.

Many times the units are called by police to disarm war souvenirs, bombs and shells found in scrap metal being transported in railroad cars and trucks, and they are also a great assistance in the Civil Defense program.

An example of such civilian services performed by these units may be seen in an incident that occurred recently in Pittsburgh. A firm which had purchased scrap metal from overseas countries immediately called units in that area to disarm several shells which were found in a carload of scrap metal.

The dangerous shells had been unloaded at an eastern port and placed on a railroad car for transportation to Pittsburgh. The car traveled through several cities, including Cumberland, before it reached its destination. The shells could have exploded anywhere along the way, killing or injuring many innocent victims.

Training Methods

The local units' training includes methods of finding and destroying fuses on shells and bombs, probing with long rods for shells that fell and were buried without exploding, and methods of destroying the shell or bomb if the fuses have been damaged or bent and cannot be removed.

The damage that can be caused by "duds" was illustrated about two years ago when two hunters

Fourth Grade Students To Get Piano Training

Demonstrations Will Assist Teachers

The classroom piano program in the Allegany County public schools will be expanded this year so that all 1,200 fourth grade boys and girls will participate in it, W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education in the system, reported yesterday.

To prepare for the start of this program, five demonstrations for the instruction of fourth grade teachers are scheduled. The supervisor's wife, Mrs. Alice Routch, who will direct the county's piano program, will conduct these demonstrations. Mrs. Routch last year taught piano in the Flemington Borough schools outside Lock Haven, Pa.

Taught In Classroom

Piano instruction, as part of the school system's basic music program, will be taught by the regular fourth grade teacher in the classroom. There will be one session each week. Each classroom will have one piano and the pupils will take turns in using it. All of the other children will have keyboards at their desks. They will strike the same chords on the wooden board that are being played by the single pupil at the piano. The keyboards will be made in the vocational training shops of the various high schools.

"This program will make more meaningful the music experience of each child," Routch said.

In past years the piano program has been elective and only between one-fourth and one-third of the children have taken part in it. Under the new system Routch believes youngsters who were unaware of their own music talent will come to appreciate music more. It also will assist them in their vocal music program.

Although most of the fourth grade classroom teachers have had sufficient experience to offer the basic piano instruction, there will be an in-service program for those who lack sufficient experience. The

Bolt And Forge Is Target Area

Within 12 minutes last night four local and area fire companies arrived at the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge shops, target in a practice run held by the Fire Branch of the Allegany County Civil Defense Program.

Alvey Poole, assistant fire chief at Central Station here, and liaison officer for the fire branch, said the alert was sounded at 7 p. m.

Poole added that a company from Cumberland and volunteer firemen from Ridgeley, District 16 and Bowman's Addition went to the scene. The run was termed as "very effective." Chief Poole said last night's run was the sixth and final practice alert for this season.

Twenty-three firemen reported to the scene and four trucks were used. All other companies in the district were alerted.

Members of the Fire Branch will meet on Friday at 8 p. m. in City Hall to map plans for the coming state-wide air alert which will be held at 2:01 p. m. (EDT) on September 22.

Poole urges all companies to send a representative, and information on "Operation Checkup" will be distributed.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said that the State Health Department has ordered the school to stop dumping raw sewage in Flintstone Creek which flows past the school.

Wrecking Crew To Resume Toy Project Soon

Associated Charities Makes Christmas Plans

The Wrecking Crew of Ali Ghan Shrine will begin making toys for the Associated Charities late this month.

The toys will be designed, built and painted by members of the crew and presented to Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive director of the Red Feather agency, in time for Christmas distribution to children of families aided by the Associated Charities.

Last year, the Shrine group began the Christmas project, dividing its efforts between repairing old toys and making new ones.

Officials said the current effort will be largely devoted to making the new wooden toys which proved so popular last year.

All of the toys are produced on an assembly line basis, but each one is a creation designed and decorated by master craftsmen who belong to the crew.

Plan New Designs

Tentative plans call for making a number of doll beds, hobby horses and wagons this year, but there are sure to be new designs to keep up with the trend in toys.

The finishing touches of some of the toys, including beds and furniture, will be added by women's organizations which each year help the Associated Charities provide toys for the underprivileged.

Such groups, such as the Cumberland Lay Health Group, have already begun work on the project. The Health group recently held a "Sewing Bee" to dress beds and dolls which have been donated.

Ahead Of Schedule

Miss Bonig reports that the Associated Charities is ahead of schedule this year on its Christmas toy project, chiefly as a result of a toy collection held in May by Boy Scouts of this city.

Several hundreds of these toys have been prepared for distribution, and others will be renovated during the next two months.

Toys will be needed for about 600 children from 250 families, Miss Bonig said, adding that about 5,000 toys were distributed last year.

Last Christmas, Miss Bonig had all of the toys placed in a storeroom, and parents were asked to come and select toys they believe their children would like.

In general, one large toy, such as a sled, tricycle, bed or large doll, and five or more smaller toys were provided for each child.

Robin White Breast Is Daily Visitor At Humbird St. Home

Each evening about 6 o'clock the bird hops about the lawn and after a meal furnished by Haines, it splashes in an improvised bird bath.

The robin, which has brown wings and head, has a white breast, Haines noted, and it began to come to his house during the recent hot spell.

It seems to be very tame and joins other birds that flock to the Haines residence each day to eat, and get a bath. A grape arbor of a next door neighbor, Charles Freeland, has also been furnishing an ample supply of food for the "feathered friends."

Haines said the bird has been attracting quite a bit of attention from residents of the neighborhood.

Democracy Is Stressed At Rotary Meet

"There are millions of Americans who will fight and even die for democracy but will not work for it," was a reminder of Edward Hardcastle, Hagerstown, district manager of the National Federation of Independent Business, during a talk yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at Central YMCA.

"They possess the world's greatest treasure," he added, "the secret ballot, but they have to be driven to use it; their technical and industrial skills are excellent, yet ther remain politically uneducated and indifferent; this is America's greatest tragedy.

"There are those who seem to think that their liberties are perfectly safeguarded by words inscribed on parchment. When the people's representative in Washington polls them on important issues, if 10 out of every 100 take the trouble to reply the representative thinks the returns are good. The power delegated to the people by the 10th Amendment cannot flourish in this atmosphere.

"Today, he said, our government is growing bigger and the people are growing smaller; for big government creates little people, while big people have little in government. To finance this big government it is no longer possible to soak the rich. All of the money earned over $25,000 would not run the government for a single month.

"This whole empire of ours, the greatest spender and the biggest debtor in the world, rests squarely on the shoulders of the little man, like you and me. Can we hold it up? If wo don't it will fall, the nation will fall.

"Good government will be found in an active, informed and steadfast people. Every one has his share to contribute toward running a democracy."

City Voting Rolls Slated For Upswing

14,487 Listed On Registration Books

The downward trend of voter registration in Cumberland is expected to swing upwards next spring as citizens begin to think about who they will elect to represent them from 1954 to 1958.

The list of registered voters in Cumberland has dropped sharply during the past three years.

This does not mean that the city necessarily has fewer voters—except to reflect a drop in population noted during the 1950 census, when the official figure was set at 37,679. At present, vital statistics issued by the City Health Department shows births are outnumbering deaths three to one.

Books Are Revised

The chief cause of the drop has been the constant revision of the city's registration books.

In the 1950 elections, 21,516 voters were listed on the city registration books.

The sharpest drop in registration occurred in 1951, when 6,791 voters were stricken off the books as the city instituted a continuous registration system. Spurred by the coming election, 1,194 more citizens registered, bringing registration rolls to 15,680 for the 1952 city elections.

Names Stricken

Early this year, about 1,000 more citizens who had failed to vote during the past five years, lost their franchise, and by February 28, the total stood at 14,548.

The count stood at 14,487 on August 31, after 11 names had been dropped and seven added.

Dropped during August were names of 10 known dead and one citizen who moved from the city. Seven new voters, two men and five women, were added to the books.

The totals include 7,662 white male, 6,555 white female, 173 colored male and 97 colored female voters.

Bids Are Opened For Truck, Pipe

The St. George Motor Company submitted the lowest of three bids opened Monday for a ¾ ton pickup truck wanted by the City Street Department.

The firm bid $1,372.70 for a 1953 Ford truck, including $300 as a trade-in for an old truck. The Eiler Chevrolet Company bid $1,450 for a 1953 Chevrolet and the Light and Decker Company $1,424 for an International truck.

Bids also were opened for 1,600 feet of pipe wanted by the Street Department for a sewer line from Edwards Street to Bopp Avenue.

The bids were Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, $.635 cents; Cement Products Company, 65 cents; Gray Concrete Company, Hagerstown, 62 to 93 cents, depending on strength, and McKaig's 63 cents.

All bids were referred to the Street Department for tabulation.

Harmony Needed In Life, Pastor Tells Merchants

South End Group Elects 3 Directors

Three new directors were elected to two-year terms at the fourth annual membership meeting of the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The new directors, named from a ballot of nine nominees by members of the association last night, are Casper Kight, Dr. R. L. McKenzie and James Scarpelli. The board of directors will meet at a later date to elect a president to succeed the retiring head of the organization, George Millenson, and a secretary and treasurer.

No Dividing Line

Highlight of the affair, attended by approximately 125 persons, was the address by Rev. Dr. Nevin E. Smith, Reformed Church pastor from Hanover, Pa. Rev. Smith was introduced by Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, who also gave the benediction.

Rev. Smith told the gathering that while the organization was known as the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association, there was no dividing line or any strife between South Cumberland and North, East and West Cumberland.

"There is a profound relationship between north, east, south and west," Dr. Smith said. "There can be no solo undertaking by individuals or groups which bring on world strife such as we have today."

He told the association members and their guests that while each was interested in his own business and endeavoring to better himself in life "somebody has to coordinate the south with the north, east and west. So it is with the world where God is the coordinator.

Cannot Be Solo

"No business or undertaking can be solo but all must join in to make a concert so harmonious that people will stand and applaud. In the midst of a world where there is strife all must become as one. Life must be in harmony with no discordant notes for us to achieve our goals," he continued.

"You can be successful in your own right but in the end you must turn to God to quiet your fears and bring peace and understanding," the Hanover minister concluded.

Rev. Smith is one of eight children, born in Woodsboro, Frederick County. He was educated in Frederick County schools and was graduated from Frederick High School. He attended Franklin and Marshall College and Theological Seminary, Lancaster, Pa. His first pastorate was in Evans City, later in Westminster, and for the past 13 years he has been at Hanover.

Millenson Steps Down

Millenson, in stepping down as president of the organization, told the membership the association has been successful in many of its endeavors and its present goal is the extension of Fifth Street as a suburban home development in South End.

An amendment to the by-laws was also voted upon. The amendment changes the present law which says the president cannot return to office and provides that the elected board of directors may

Following the talk and movies, two Columbia Street pupils played accordion and piano selections. President of the association is Mrs. Jesse Baker.

The Executive Committee of the association met recently and appointments of various committees for the coming year were announced.

They are: Mrs. Eric Roeder, budget and finance; Mrs. Louis Riehl hospitality; Mrs. Joseph Garlitz, publicity; Mrs. Charles Hardman, safety; Mrs. Ray Weimer, membership; Mrs. Harry Dawson, ways and means; Mrs. Guy Ramsy, magazine; Robert Llewellyn, program, and Keith Sisk, playground. Explosive Display

A display of some of the training aids now being used by the 941st, 942nd and 943rd Explosive Ordnance Disposal Squads, local Army Reserve, has been set up in the Reserve Armory. Included are artillery shells, aircraft bombs, rocket, mortar and bazooka shells, butterfly "anti-personnel" bombs, booby trap firing devices and other bomb fuses. The units are getting instruction in removing and destroying unexploded ammunition and bombs, both enemy and domestic.

Local Reserve Squads Learn Methods Of Disarming Duds

One interesting and rather dangerous phase of the local Army Reserve is the training being administered to the 941st, 942nd and 943rd Explosive Ordnance Disposal Squads.

A training aids display in the Reserve Armory on South Mechanic Street shows some of the work done by these three units. Included in the display are artillery shells, aircraft bombs, rocket, mortar and bazooka shells, butterfly "anti-personnel" bombs, booby trap firing devices and various types of artillery and bomb fuses.

Disarm "Duds"

Whenever one of these bombs or shells is fired and it lands in an area without exploding, it is called a "dud" and it is up to members of disposal squads to disarm or destroy or remove the dangerous ammunition.

Units like the local reserve squads are stationed in every Army area of the continental United States to handle incidents which constantly arise now and which will be increased if this country should be attacked.

Many times the units are called by police to disarm war souvenirs, bombs and shells found in scrap metal being transported in railroad cars and trucks, and they are also a great assistance in the Civil Defense program.

An example of such civilian services performed by these units may be seen in an incident that occurred recently in Pittsburgh. A firm which had purchased scrap metal from overseas countries immediately called units in that area to disarm several shells which were found in a carload of scrap metal.

The dangerous shells had been unloaded at an eastern port and placed on a railroad car for transportation to Pittsburgh. The car traveled through several cities, including Cumberland, before it reached its destination. The shells could have exploded anywhere along the way, killing or injuring many innocent victims.

Training Methods

The local units' training includes methods of finding and destroying fuses on shells and bombs, probing with long rods for shells that fell and were buried without exploding, and methods of destroying the shell or bomb if the fuses have been damaged or bent and cannot be removed.

The damage that can be caused by "duds" was illustrated about two years ago when two hunters

Fourth Grade Students To Get Piano Training

Demonstrations Will Assist Teachers

The classroom piano program in the Allegany County public schools will be expanded this year so that all 1,200 fourth grade boys and girls will participate in it, W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education in the system, reported yesterday.

To prepare for the start of this program, five demonstrations for the instruction of fourth grade teachers are scheduled. The supervisor's wife, Mrs. Alice Routch, who will direct the county's piano program, will conduct these demonstrations. Mrs. Routch last year taught piano in the Flemington Borough schools outside Lock Haven, Pa.

Taught In Classroom

Piano instruction, as part of the school system's basic music program, will be taught by the regular fourth grade teacher in the classroom. There will be one session each week. Each classroom will have one piano and the pupils will take turns in using it. All of the other children will have keyboards at their desks. They will strike the same chords on the wooden board that are being played by the single pupil at the piano. The keyboards will be made in the vocational training shops of the various high schools.

"This program will make more meaningful the music experience of each child," Routch said.

In past years the piano program has been elective and only between one-fourth and one-third of the children have taken part in it. Under the new system Routch believes youngsters who were unaware of their own music talent will come to appreciate music more. It also will assist them in their vocal music program.

Although most of the fourth grade classroom teachers have had sufficient experience to offer the basic piano instruction, there will be an in-service program for those who lack sufficient experience. The

Injuries Fatal To Woman After Highway Mishap

Thrown From Auto In W. Va. Accident

A 71-year-old Baltimore woman died yesterday morning in Tucker County Hospital, Parsons, W. Va., from injuries sustained in a highway accident Monday afternoon near Davis, W. Va.

It was the first road fatality in Tucker County this year, authorities reported.

Mrs. Sarah Cline died of massive cerebral hemorrhage at about 11 a. m., according to Dr. Guy H. Michael, owner of the hospital where she was admitted Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Cline was admitted about 3:30 p. m. Monday after she and her husband, George Cline, 74, were thrown from the auto in which they were riding in an accident on Blackwater Falls Road, 200 yards from Route 22 at Davis.

Mrs. Cline was admitted in critical condition with severe head injuries. Her husband was admitted in fair condition with lacerations of the face and forehead and multiple bruises of the body. He was reported "improved" last night.

Authorities said the two persons were thrown from an auto driven by their grandson, William Howard Lippy, Baltimore, which skidded against an auto being driven by Charles Popish, of Davis.

The two drivers were not injured in the mishap, but considerable damage was done to the two autos.

Trooper James Rightmire, of the Thomas, W. Va., State Police Detachment, is investigating the accident.

Dr. Michael said the elderly couple were visiting Tucker County for the first time and were viewing the scenic spots in the Blackwater Falls area.

Mrs. Cline's body was returned to Baltimore yesterday.

Bolt And Forge Is Target Area

Within 12 minutes last night four local and area fire companies arrived at the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge shops, target in a practice run held by the Fire Branch of the Allegany County Civil Defense Program.

Alvey Poole, assistant fire chief at Central Station here, and liaison officer for the fire branch, said the alert was sounded at 7 p. m.

Poole added that a company from Cumberland and volunteer firemen from Ridgeley, District 16 and Bowman's Addition went to the scene. The run was termed as "very effective." Chief Poole said last night's run was the sixth and final practice alert for this season.

Twenty-three firemen reported to the scene and four trucks were used. All other companies in the district were alerted.

Members of the Fire Branch will meet on Friday at 8 p. m. in City Hall to map plans for the coming state-wide air alert which will be held at 2:01 p. m. (EDT) on September 22.

Poole urges all companies to send a representative, and information on "Operation Checkup" will be distributed.

3 Suits Filed Against Theater

Three suits seeking $25,000 in damages for dust emanating from the Potomac Drive-In Theater on Winchester Road were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Hildebert J. Luther and his wife, Lena H. Luther, who live next door to the outdoor theater, seek $10,000 each for damage to their property, ill health and medical expenses allegedly incurred because of the excessive dust.

Another suit asks $5,000 damages for Lorena Fay Luther, one of their three children, who they say has developed asthma since the opening of the theater.

The suits filed by Attorney John M. Robb name the Baland Corporation, operator of the theater, and George Millman, local manager, as defendants.
